

Study of FSU Press Continues

By Sam Miller
Associate Editor

The task force appointed by President Stanley Marshall to undertake a broad study of the University's student publications has been unable to complete its study by the end of the summer quarter as requested by Marshall.

However, the study group's final report should be completed by the end of this quarter. Dr. Robert Kibler, chairman of the seven-member task force, said in an interview Monday.

About the only major task ahead of the group before it can begin preparing its final recommendations, Dr. Kibler said, is to conduct a public hearing, which will be held during the second week of classes. The exact day, time and place of the hearing will be announced later.

Marshall appointed the task force in June after a controversy arose over the appointment of a Flambeau editor.

The Board of Student Publications selected as editor Jack Lieberman, a member of the radical Young Socialists Alliance. The paper's staff charged that members of the Board had conspired to select Lieberman and stacked the votes in his favor.

The Board decided to set aside the Lieberman selection and conduct the selection process over again. This time, it selected Richard Leslie, who had extensive journalism experience, but who had never worked on the Flambeau staff.

The staff, claiming the BOSP had not acted in the best interests of the Flambeau by selecting someone "from outside," resigned in mass.

Leslie's selection as editor later was set aside by President Marshall. Marshall, when he appointed the task force, named Miss Sheila Snow, who was Flambeau sports editor last academic year, as interim editor until the task force completed its work.

Marshall charged the group with the responsibility of undertaking "a broad study of the relationship, function and purpose of student publications" at FSU. In particular, he instructed the task force to make recommendations to him concerning:

- the role of student publications in meeting student needs;
- the range of publications required to meet those needs;
- the nature and scope of financial support for student publications;

—the relationship of student publications to the University.

Kibler, who is a professor of speech, said the task force spent about eight hours a week during the summer gathering information. Members of the task force interviewed students, faculty and staff affiliated with student publications. Those interviewed included present and past staff members and editors, members of the BOSP and lower level administrators.

The task force also wrote to 25 colleges and universities throughout the country and asked for copies of their student publications policies and other relevant information. In addition, members of the group studied the various publications produced by FSU students over the past three years.

The study group is now at the point of synthesizing all of the interviews and literature, Kibler said. The task force met Tuesday and began considering recommendations; although Kibler emphasized that no final decisions will be reached until after the public hearing.

The study has turned out to involve more than President Marshall anticipated when he planned a late summer deadline for the task force's final report, Kibler noted.

"We couldn't complete everything this summer if we were to learn all that we could about the publications," he said. "And the members of the task force wanted to take a tour of the student publications facilities and see them in full operation. This couldn't be done until the fall."

The tour is scheduled for next week.

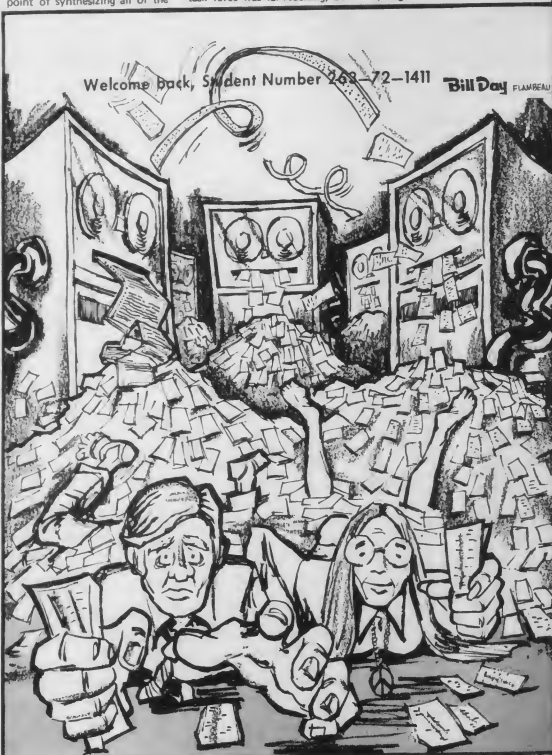

The president's charge to the task force was far-reaching, but the group has attempted to address itself to each of Marshall's major points.

"But our final recommendations will be tempered by the specific problems raised during our interviews with those closely associated with the publications," Kibler said.

Kibler refused to be specific about any recommendations the task force is considering, but conversations with several of those interviewed by the study group revealed some significant proposals.

One proposal provides that the staff of each publication will have one vote when the BOSP votes to select the editor. The staff would decide among itself how the vote would be cast. It was the lack of such a voice that prompted the majority of the Flambeau staff to resign last spring.

Sherman, Regents Federal Suit Dropped

A federal suit filed by Student Body President Chuck Sherman in April against the Board of Regents (BOR) challenging the right of the Board to withhold recognition of the Young Socialist Alliance as an approved campus organization was recently dismissed by Federal Judge D. L. Middlebrooks.

The suit was dismissed after a three-judge federal court impaneled to hear the case dissolved itself saying it had no jurisdiction because no substantial federal question was involved.

According to Sherman, Orlando attorney Jerry Bornstein who is handling the case in conjunction with the American Civil Liberties Union will now decide whether to appeal the abolition of the three-judge federal court or to amend the original suit and resubmit it to Judge Middlebrooks.

SCI Projects Help With Problem Areas

FSU students can become involved with the problem areas and projects in which they are interested through the Student-Community Interaction group.

The group closely works with the Tallahassee chapter of the American Red Cross and the Tallahassee Community Action Agency. There are nearly 500 students working in SCI projects.

The group is now working on toys for a Tot Lot leased by the Community Action Agency. Other projects include the Gadsden Tutorial Program, the Criswell House and a transportation service for patients to the Division of Family Services.

The Gadsden program, in nearby Gadsden County, is a joint project between FSU and FAMU students. Under the program, students from the two universities travel to Gadsden County and tutor needy children for several hours on Saturday mornings.

The Criswell House is a halfway home for boys at Marianna's Dozier School for Boys. Students plan recreation and provide tutorial services for the boys.

Office Moved To Union

The Office of Student Activities has moved from Bryan Hall to the University Union, room 350.

The office space for the various departments has been assigned as follows: Organizations, room 338; Student-Community Interaction, room 344; Panhellenic-Interfraternity Council, room 356. The director and assistant director of Student Activities will be in room 350.

The Career Planning and Placement Offices have moved from the Union to Bryan Hall, room 228.

All students must have a new identification card made for the fall quarter, Miss Kathy Galit, a spokeswoman for the university media center, reported. According to Miss Galit, the identification cards made this summer are invalid.

Pictures for the cards will be taken at the last station of registration in Tully Gym Wednesday through Friday, she said.

TV Special Surveys FSU

An hour-long TV special, "University Report/1970," will give local residents and campus constituents an up-to-the-minute survey of FSU on September 23.

Scheduled for simultaneous radio and television broadcasts at 7 p.m. by WFSU-TV, Channel 11 and WFSU-FM, the report replaces a previously planned campuswide convocation that would have been held in Campbell Stadium on Monday.

University spokesmen said the telecast was selected as a better medium of mass communication with faculty, staff, students and townspeople, adding that films and other visual presentations will be shown as parts of the program.

Heading the list of University administrators who will summarize summer developments, outline fall plans and make progress reports on academic, administrative and student programs will be President Stanley Marshall. Each of the University's four vice presidents will take part in the report, as will Student Body President Chuck Sherman.

Special television viewing areas are being set up throughout the campus to give students maximum opportunities to see the report.

Executive Vice President Cecil Mackey's report will concern budgets, organization and planning and urban redevelopment. Academic Affairs Vice President Paul Craig will describe the implications of reduced growth in student and faculty areas; and Administrative Vice President Robert Peirce is expected to discuss advances and problems in the University's physical development and increases in supportive services. Acting Student Affairs Vice President Robert Kimmel will talk about services for students and student interest in maintaining individuality.

From the Editor's Desk

Wiping the slate clean for a fresh fall start, thousands of new and returning students have flocked to campus bringing the usual traffic congestion, confusion, and a three-month tan.

Summer has cooled, to some extent, the notorious spring demonstrations which rocked the nation's universities and no great issue has appeared on the horizon yet to wrinkle the brows of expectant administrators.

Many are clean cut to have pleased temporary employers and some are long-hairs who cruised the California coast but most all are ready to get back in the groove of things and even dig into a few books of knowledge.

Welcome back, friends.

One significant development which marked the opening football game held last Saturday night in Campbell Stadium was the breaking of the "color" line at FSU in athletics. For the first time, a black athlete trudged the turf on the varsity squad and proved the saving grace of the game. James Thomas demonstrated not only his ability but capability to be dedicated to the Seminole team cause.

Even though we have had two black cheerleaders at the basketball games, this football contest was the first to also have a black leading the fans.

Yes, integration has come to the South after years of delay and suppression. The "separate but equal" days are numbered. Our court system has discarded the blindfold of indifference to bear her symbol of justice.

To The Editor...

Voter Apathy Appalling

To the Editor:

Students over 20, aspirant educators, SDS sympathizers, average disillusioned youth, local resident dropouts, did you vote on September 8? No? Maybe because you thought it was hopeless. Things were too corrupt. Maybe you thought it wouldn't make any difference. Well let me ask you some questions.

Did you know that one of the candidates based his campaign advertisements on more stringent drug law enforcement and rehabilitation? Did you know that more than one of these candidates were instrumental in defeating the abortion bills in the last legislative session? Did you realize that your future U.S. senator and governor will have national influence on the Vietnam war issue? Did you know that one of the school board candidates wishes to cut teachers' salaries?

The Secretary of the State and the Clerk of the House will send to anyone who requests it, a transcript showing how the individual members of the legislature voted on any issue. Legislative sessions are open to the public. Dedicated legislators (such as Rep. Miers, who advocated the abortion bill) will be glad to talk to you if you wish to help support enlightened legislation.

So next time the "pigs" come and knock on your door to take your dog, next time someone you love has to have pencils or coathangers stuck up her because she "got in trouble," next time "they" interrupt your studies for a tour of Southeast Asia, next time you are appalled at the pay scale of the teaching job you studied years to qualify for, don't scream about disillusionment with the "establishment." Be disillusioned with yourself.

Marshall Asks Commitment To Self and Institution

To Members of the Florida State University Community:

Students at the University, along with all of the faculty and staff, have responsibilities and opportunities this fall that exceed those of former years. The American university is in the spotlight of public interest as it never has been before. A great many citizens are concerned about events on our campuses, and this concern in some areas has been expressed through unfavorable actions of state legislatures relating to academic freedom and financial support for higher education. This year those of us who are part of the University and who know it to be an agency of great worth to society have a special obligation to make the University's mission and its methods known to the people of Florida. It is not enough for us to work together in building a great university; we must demonstrate the institution's value to the public and help them understand the nature and purpose of the educational, cultural, and social endeavors in which we are engaged.

The Florida State University has been characterized as an "open" institution—one in which ideas flow freely and in which free expression is encouraged. It is also characterized by an atmosphere of constructive change, of concern for the quality of education, and as a place where there is a high premium on innovation. This kind of intellectual climate is essential if excellence here in everything we do. We are a young, vigorous institution, and we should be bold and imaginative. Let us set the highest standards at the personal level and for the University and strive mightily to achieve excellence in every area of endeavor.

MARSHALL

Being a student at Florida State ought to be enjoyable too. Let us not neglect cultural, social, and athletic experiences as part of the process of becoming better educated.

Our students who have selected the Florida State University as the place where they will pursue higher education have paid us the highest possible compliment: they have committed themselves to this institution. Those of us who live here and work here should in turn commit ourselves to them—to provide them with the highest quality of education we can and to make attendance at Florida State a genuinely exciting experience.

we are to provide outstanding educational opportunities for our students and if the University is to realize its potential in serving society.

I hope this will be the best year ever for each of you and that we all will share in a year of challenge, progress and fun.

Let there be a striving for

Stanley Marshall President

Sherman Welcomes

I am pleased to have this opportunity to welcome new and returning students to FSU. Universities today are a far more than resting places between adolescence and marriage or a prestage job. It is the place where millions of people are understanding the seriousness of the problems in American society and have an opportunity to experiment with a lifestyle different from middle-class suburbia. A university is a place where we can transcend the limited scope and conformity of our own backgrounds and through the opportunity to confront all kinds of viewpoints, we can make intelligent choices about our own lives and the kind of society we would like to live in. I hope that we all will seek and contribute to the freedom, intellectual diversity, and concerned activism that can enrich us all.

CPE Offers Credit Courses

The Student Government-sponsored Center for Participant Education (CPE) is offering a list of credit and non-credit courses for this fall.

Credit courses offered are Psychotropic Drugs, Black Theater, Reality Therapy and the Contemporary North American Indian. Another credit course is Political Campaigning.

Non-credit courses offered include Basic Magic, Encounter Groups, Demonology, the History of Comic Books, Parapsychology, The Tarot, Astrology, the History of Firearms, Science Fiction Literature, and Chess.

Other non-credit courses offered are Women and The Homosexual in America: His Struggle for Acceptance.

The CPE will have a table at registration, where students will be able to sign up for credit and non-credit courses. Sign-up sheets are also available in Student Government offices.

A meeting of all CPE instructors and interested students will be held in room 252 Union at 7 p.m., September 22.

The CPE is a vehicle for students to make their education more relevant to their needs and interests, and become active in the educational process itself. A creation of the Student Government entered in the 1970 elections, the CPE needs active student participation in both the attendance and creation of classes.

Student Season Grid Tickets Close Sales

Student season football tickets will remain on sale until Friday at 5 p.m., athletic director Vaughn Mancha said.

A limit of 1,000 tickets to the Florida Florida State football game will go on sale Monday and Tuesday at $7 in the Tully Gym ticket office on a first come, first served basis, Mancha said. Only student tickets will be sold on those days, he said.

Season date tickets will be sold on Wednesday, September 23, and Thursday, September 24. Prices for the tickets will be $12 not including the Florida game, or $19 including the Florida game. Individual date tickets to the Florida game were not listed for sale.

Tickets to other home games will be sold during the week of the game.

to the Conference on Education and Training in Operational Research.

According to Kraft, who specializes in the area, operational research involves the use of mathematical techniques to help governmental and other agencies allocate scarce resources. Both public and private agencies are currently involved in training personnel in operational research and in evaluating its effects.

Participants in the NATO conference will compare, on an international level, the different methods of training; analyze the achievements and consequences of teaching it; and study the effects of the economic development of a country.

In addition to operational research, Kraft specializes in educational planning systems analysis and educational economics, in the Department of Educational Administration.

Currently, Dr. Kraft is a member of a College of Education survey team working with the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) in Seoul, Korea.

He came to Florida State in 1967 as an assistant professor in the Educational Systems Development Center. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Munich in Germany and his Ph.D. at the University of California at Berkeley.

At Florida State, he has organized a new doctoral program of study in the economics of education.

New Dorm Rules Greet Campus Dwellers

Several new dormitory regulations governing single, undergraduate students will greet new and returning students at FSU this year.

Students will live under self-regulated hours but they will be encouraged to sign out of their residence halls for overnight absences and more extended leaves from campus—primarily for their own protection. When residence halls are closed during school holidays and recess periods, students are expected to record a departure date and a tentative date of return to campus.

Residence halls close Sunday through Thursday nights at 12 midnight and on Friday and Saturday nights at 2 a.m. Any student who wishes to return to his residence hall after the closing hour is expected to show identification upon entry. Only residents and guests accompanied by a resident are admitted to the residence hall after the closing hour.

The residents of each hall decide, as a governing body, the policies and hours for visitation and open house hours; but they must conform to the business hours of the residence hall.

GILCHRIST HALL

Men may visit in the rooms of women only during open house and visitation hours. This same rule applies to women visiting in the men's residence halls.

Freshmen must live in the residence halls. Resident advisors and junior counselors live on each floor to provide year-round assistance for freshmen and new students.

Other standard policies are:

Because of electrical wiring in each residence hall only radios, electric blankets, irons, heating pads, fans, hair dryers, clocks, electric toothbrushes, record players, television sets, sewing machines and electric razors are allowed.

No irons are provided by residence halls; but ironing boards are placed in the hall of each floor, and all items must be ironed in the hall.

In each of the women's residence halls there are student kitchens where students may prepare meals. Cooking is not permitted in rooms. Hot plates are provided in certain designated places.

Firearms, fireworks and any material which may endanger the safety of other students in the residence halls are not permitted.

Pets are not allowed in any University-owned housing.

Personal laundry items must be done in the laundry room. Laundry rental service for bed linen is provided by Florida State for approximately $11 per quarter.

FSU Growth Reflected In Research Funds

The growth in Florida State's research program is reflected in the amount of funds spent from research grants and contracts during the fiscal year which ended on June 30.

The approximately $17 million spent in 1969-70, when compared with the $15,374,739 spent in the fiscal year 1968-69 and the $300,000 spent when FSU research was just beginning to get significant funding in 1955-56, is an indication of the continued expansion of the program.

The increasing support reflects the interest of funding agencies in research and graduate education, which always is linked with research. Graduate enrollments have increased along with the growth in research funding. Presently there is one graduate student for every five members of the student body.

What are the funds spent for? "A large share of these monies from research grants goes toward the support of individuals, principally graduate students, who are enabled thereby to pay for their graduate education," said Dr. Robert M. Johnson, graduate dean and Director of Research.

"The University, by providing a distinguished faculty, is capable of attracting these research funds and attract the best graduate students."

The funding for this multi-million dollar program of research is largely by the federal government. In fiscal 1968-69, for instance, $13,135,708 of the $15,374,739 in expenditures was from federal sources, about $3 million each from the U.S. Office of Education and National Science Foundation; $25 million from the Public Health Service; $1.7 million from research agencies in the Department of Defense; and $1.1 million from the Atomic Energy Commission, with lesser amounts from half a dozen other federal agencies.

Grants, said Dr. Johnson, have continued to go up about 10 percent a year, despite some recent cutbacks in funding. There are 396 current contracts in which 220 members of the faculty participate, he said.

Many of the grants go to individual scholars within a single department; but increasingly Florida State research has been interdisciplinary, with an "open door" between departments, so that scholars can exchange insights from different points of view and work together in solving a problem. Some graduate departments are interdisciplinary by design, such as Urban and Regional Planning.

One of the most notable interdisciplinary research efforts, with physics, chemistry and biological science departments cooperating, resulted in the launching of a series of studies in nuclear science in 1957. A million-dollar investment by the State in one piece of equipment, a tandem Van de Graaff accelerator, has brought a four-fold return in research funding.

The Baptist Student Union will have a cook-out at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, September 17. The cook-out will be held at the University Heights Baptist Church.

One of the most successful interdisciplinary efforts resulted in the formation of the Institute of Molecular Biophysics in 1960. Chemists, physicists, biologists and other scientists in the Institute work on problems in radiation biology, genetics, photosynthesis and others, sometimes applying methods of physical science. The IMB has received support from the Atomic Energy Commission at the rate of $674,000 a year.

Another "open door" combination brings units of the biological science and psychology departments together in a Psychobiology Research Center that in 1967 was awarded $600,000 from the National Institutes of Health for sensory studies.

Programs in psychobiology, chemistry, physics and statistics drew for the University, a year and a half ago, the largest individual grant it has received—an institutional award of $4.8 million from the National Science Foundation. The fourth largest science development grant received by 30 universities at that time, the amount was supplemented by $3 million from the State by a three-year program to make offerings in these fields the best in the nation. Spent from these two funds was $1,275,000 during the last fiscal year.

To FSU, FAMU.

FSU and FAMU have jointly received a $15,000 planning grant from the U.S. Office of Education. The grant will be used to plan a program for disadvantaged students coming to both universities.

The project is an extension of the FAMU-FSU program now standing by which students and faculty from the two campuses exchange.

Dr. Martin Roeder, associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at FSU, and Benjamin Groomes, associate director for the 13-college curriculum at FAMU, will jointly direct the program.

"We will have joint committees between the two universities," said Roeder, "to identify the resources, such as reading clinics, that could be used for these students."

"A workshop for selected students, faculty and representatives from the community and state agencies to help us identify the special needs of this kind of student will also be instituted," Roeder said.

Key Role Seen For Oceanography

Providing Floridians with the expertise needed to deal with threats to the state's oceans and waterways is the goal of Dr. John W. Winchester, the new head of Florida State's oceanography department.

Winchester, who took over duties as department head this summer, believes that oceanography will play a key role in FSU's growing environmental studies program.

"We recognize that areas of coastal marine resources, water pollution and the interactions of the air, sea and land are growing points for strong research in environmental studies," he said.

A geochemist, Winchester directed a research and teaching program in air and water pollution with the Great Lakes Research Division for the University of Michigan.

In addition to charting the direction of the Department of Oceanography, he is involved in other areas including serving as interim coordinator of the Sea Grant institutional program.

"Oceanography plays a central role in the proposed Sea Grant program for marine resources development. The program will bring together specialists from departments of the university concerned with the natural sciences and the problems of economics and education in the marine sciences," said Winchester.

Individual projects will deal with the utilization of food and drug resources of the sea, pollution of coastal waters in the northeastern Gulf of Mexico and management of the Gulf Coast environment, Winchester said.

Advisory services to the public will constitute an important part of the Sea Grant program and may be in full operation at FSU by the fall of 1971, according to Winchester.

Winchester also serves as representative to the Gulf

Universities Research Corporation (GURC).

A 10-year environmental program is being planned by the members of GURC, and, if funded, FSU's oceanography department will conduct research in marine circulation, air-sea interaction, man's effect on the Gulf, biology and fisheries, and marine geology.

"Our department is also working with representatives of other departments to organize a center for the coordination of present and future campus activities dealing with the environment," Winchester said.

In addition to his other duties, Winchester is serving as chairman of the faculty committee charged with organizing the center. He is replacing the late Dr. Robert W. Hull in that capacity.

"Numerous groups of faculty and students are developing plans for teaching and research in response to the growing interest in environmental preservation," said Winchester.

He added that the center aims to serve as a clearinghouse and focal point for assistance and public information on environmental affairs.

Union Offers Nine Classes

The Union Program Office will sponsor several classes for students, faculty and staff during the fall quarter.

The following is a list of classes offered. More information may be obtained by calling the Program Office, 599-2231, in room 321 Union.

Included are classes in stitchery, $5; classical guitar, $5; folk guitar, $3; intermediate bridge, $8; beginning bridge, $8; adult swimming, $5; and senior lifesaving, $5.

Other classes offered are women's fitness, $2; crochet lessons and beginning knitting with no fee charged, and adult and children's tennis lessons, $5.

Language Changes Made For Fall

The structure of courses in the modern language department will undergo sweeping changes this year. Students will still complete 18 hours to meet the language requirement, but the number of courses will be reduced from six three-hour courses to three five-hour courses and one three-hour course.

The first year in the language will be divided into three five-hour courses, while the second year will be reduced to a three-hour course.

When the system is implemented, all courses now designated 101, 102, 103, 201 and 202 will be replaced by the sequence 111, 112 and 113. Each of the new courses will carry five hours credit.

All courses in the 200 series, 203A, 203B, and 203C will carry three hours and one of these will complete the language requirement.

The 203A course will emphasize the oral aspect of the course language. The 203B course will concentrate on reading and discussion in the language, while the 203C course will cover grammar review and composition.

The new system will be implemented this quarter for elementary Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese and Russian. The system will be implemented in French, German, Italian and Spanish in the winter quarter.

Dr. Henry W. Hoge, chairman of the modern language department, has announced that the 101 courses scheduled for Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese and Russian in the supplement to the schedule of classes are incorrect. The correct courses are as follows:

COURSE	CREDIT	DAY	PERIOD	BUILDING
Chinese 111-1	5	M-F	2	229 Dif
Japanese 111-1	5	M-F	4	229 Dif

Statistics Plans New Offerings

An informational session for undergraduate students with interest in the mathematical sciences and statistics will be held on Sept. 21 at 3:30 p.m. in room 204 of the Love Building. Professor R. G. Cornell will meet with students with interest in careers in statistics operations research, econometrics, computing science, psychometrics, and mathematical areas of the social sciences.

Interested students who cannot attend the scheduled meeting can contact Professor Cornell in Room 206 of the Love Building, extension 3377.

A number of course changes in the Department of Statistics designed to provide training in statistical methodology for students in various departments have been made. These changes are effective in the Fall quarter of 1970 and have been submitted for inclusion in the supplement to the Fall schedule of classes.

Statistics 305 and Psychology 305 — Statistics for the Behavioral sciences have been dropped. Statistics 410 and 411 — Statistical Procedures for the Behavioral Sciences I, II, have been added to provide instruction in basic statistical methodology for the behavioral sciences.

A brief summary of the other changes is as follows:

Statistics 141 — Variation and Optimization (3) is introduced to provide a non-mathematical survey course in the basic ideas of statistics for lower division students.

Statistics 341 — Statistical Theory (3) is introduced to provide students with an introduction to statistical theory. The course parallels Statistics 331 — Basic Probability (3) which is an introduction to basic probability. Both 331 and 341 are self contained courses and are not prerequisites to more advanced courses.

Statistics 410-411 — Statistical Procedures for the Behavioral Sciences I, II (3-3) have been introduced to provide instruction in basic statistical methodology for the behavioral sciences. Students who planned to take Statistics 305 should consider this sequence. A parallel sequence for graduate students is Statistics 510-511 and this sequence replaces the old Statistics 511 — Elementary Statistical Procedures (5).

Statistics 412-413 — Applied Statistics I, II (3-3) and the companion Statistics 512-513 are modified through removal of the calculus prerequisite. These courses are designed to provide instruction in statistical methodology for students in the natural and physical sciences. Graduate students in statistics may no longer enroll in Statistics 512-513.

DR. JOYCE CHICK
... new Counselor Education head

Dr. Chick Appointed Dept. Head

Dr. Joyce M. Chick has been named head of the Department of Counselor Education at FSU.

An associate professor, Dr. Chick becomes the only woman department head in the College of Education. The appointment becomes effective in September.

Dr. Chick began her professional career as director of guidance at Melbourne High School in Melbourne after receiving her bachelor's and master's degrees in guidance and psychology at Florida State.

She served as a counselor at Hialeah Senior High School and dean of girls at Filer Junior High in Hialeah before returning to Florida State to become associate director of counseling and personnel services.

She earned her Ph.D. in guidance and personnel services from Michigan State University and was an assistant instructor while there.

Returning to Florida State in 1962, she served as an assistant professor in counselor education until 1967 when she became associate professor. Last year she was named acting head of the department.

Author of the recent publication "Innovations in the Use of Career Materials," Dr. Chick's primary interest is vocational counseling. This year she was selected chairman of the Professional Membership Committee of the National Vocational Guidance Association.

She also holds memberships in the American Personnel and Guidance Association, the American Association of Counselor Educators and Supervisors, and the American Psychological Association.

At Florida State, she is presently a member of the College of Education Administrative Council and of the International Advisory Committee. Previously, she has served on faculty senate, the graduate council and the University Student Conduct Committee.

A strong believer in Florida State, Dr. Chick sees great potential for the future. "Florida State is interested in quality education. It is a dynamic university, on the move—not static. I'm very glad to be a part of it."

FSU Students Study At Campus Abroad

The 500-year-old Villa Fabricotti in Florence, Italy, is Florida State's campus abroad. Hundreds of students from state-supported schools go there every year to live and study the humanities.

Once the vacation retreat of Queen Victoria of England, as well as Napoleon's sister, Pauline, the Villa is leased by Florida State from the Italian government for its study center headquarters.

The study center is operated for two, two-quarter sessions annually, with students going abroad in January and June. Students must enroll for two quarters and be registered in any university in the state university system. A 2.0 overall academic average and sophomore standing, plus approval by the student's academic advisor, are required for admission to the program.

Courses in art history, classical language, literature and civilization, English, Italian, philosophy and religion are offered at the center.

Cost of the program is $1,675 for Florida residents and $2,125 for out-of-state students. The fee covers registration, insurance coverage, round trip air fare from New York, room and board, tuition, medical care and two sponsored excursion trips.

All courses are taught by members of the Florida State faculty and credits for courses

The University of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, and FSU are becoming close friends.

The two universities are currently cooperating in joint exchanges and research in the fields of economics, sociology, political science and international relations.

The Center for Slavic and East European Studies at Florida State and the Center for International Studies at Belgrade engage in joint research seminars, exchanges of faculty and students and exchanges of research results and publications.

The FSU center was set up in 1965 as an educational program leading to a master's degree in Slavic and East European studies. The study concentration is on several nations in the Balkan and Danubian area with particular stress on Yugoslavia.

The bilateral program between Florida State and Belgrade is already well underway and FSU's director of the program, Dr. George Macesch, is optimistic about the future.

"We have just ended a summer studies program in Yugoslavia in which some ten FSU graduate students participated for credit. This will be a continuing summer quarter

Approximately 800 students have participated in the program since it began in September 1966. Facilities at the Villa are limited to 100 students and application should be made at least five months in advance.

"At the students' expense, they travel to Yugoslavia to study recent economic developments in Yugoslavia," said Macesch.

"The economic topic is related to most of the disciplines in the social sciences and humanities and each student picked an area of study relevant to his academic and personal

Van Belle Is New Head Of Stats Center

Dr. Gerald van Belle, assistant professor in the FSU statistics department, has been named director of the FSU Statistical Consulting Center.

Dr. van Belle replaces Dr. Richard G. Cornell, the founding director, who becomes director of the department's undergraduate program.

The center provides statistical and consulting services for faculty and graduate students and occasional assistance to other state agencies.

Dr. van Belle is planning to extend the services with increased short courses and training programs on specialized topics.

June-December session are 90 first-time students and three "veterans" who returned for a second program in Florence.

The students plan to take their excursion trips to Venice and Sicily under the guidance of Dr. Fred Licht, art professor, who is in residence in Florence and the permanent director.

interests."

The faculty of political science at the University of Belgrade served as principal host and the summer session attracted several top political and social leaders of Yugoslavia.

Several Yugoslav students have already studied at FSU and when school opens in September, at least one from the University of Belgrade will be on campus as a full-time student.

According to Macesch, FSU has a relationship with the Yugoslav people that no other American university can match.

"The students are very high on the program and feel it is the best way for them to become involved with the unique political and economic structure of Yugoslavia," he added. "The Yugoslavian government is so excited about the exchanges that

Many Services Available

Union Complex Is Complex

The University Information Center, located at the main desk in the lounge of the Union, has grown to be one of the most-used services of the Union.

A direct line to a special information telephone just inside the Westcott entrance gates makes the service readily available to campus guests. Two other telephones at the information center make it possible for anyone to locate students and faculty or to inquire about events being held on campus with a minimum of effort.

The TV lounge is a popular spot with students and faculty. Here they may keep abreast of the daily news, athletic events, and enjoy the entertainment available through all of the national networks.

Installation of additional TV equipment on special occasions makes it possible for all those interested in doing so to be an eyewitness to history-making events such as national elections, space shots, inaugurations, etc.

Other services include the campus Lost and Found, a poster-making service, campus-wide nonacademic space reservations, a central campus calendar, lounges and conference rooms, ticket office, and a wide variety of programs sponsored by the Union Program Council.

Financial Aid Program Helps Many Students

Finding long-term financial aid at Florida State will be difficult this fall for students who did not make applications before February 15, 1970.

The director of the student financial aid office, William E. Byerts, said students' chances were "almost nil for getting aid for the entire academic year."

Financial assistance consists of scholarships, grants, loans and part-time employment, which may be offered singly or in various "package" combinations.

Aid is awarded on the basis of financial need and scholastic achievement. The amount of aid varies according to the student's need and available funds.

Over 3,000 students have applied for financial assistance for the upcoming academic year.

"Of those who applied, some 1,800 students have had their financial needs met," said Byerts, and he is still awarding aid applications every day.

The February 15 deadline includes National Defense Education Act loans, Educational Opportunity grants and scholarships.

There are a few sources of aid available without deadline requirements.

The University Loan Program provides emergency loans in $25 and $50 amounts. These must be repaid within three months at 6 percent simple interest. A short-term loan may be obtained through this program in amounts up to $500. The student must have a co-signer if the loan is for more than $100 and the co-signer must be over 21 years old and have a job. The loan must be repaid in one year at 6 percent simple interest.

To be eligible for these loans, students must have a grade point average of 2.0 for the previous quarter and a minimum academic load of 12 hours. Last year approximately 4,000 students borrowed almost $600,000 on this program.

Students may apply for federally insured loans at any time during the academic year. This program provides a federal guarantee of a loan personally arranged by a student with a bank, credit union or other lending agency. The federal government pays the interest while the student is in school. Eligible students may borrow up to $1,000 per year for undergraduate study and up to $1,500 for graduate study. The loan may be renewed and the total borrowed must be repaid within 15 years.

Job positions may be available in the College Work-Study Program in September. However, positions on this program often are combined in "packages" with other financial aid programs having a February 15 deadline and as many of them as possible are filled before the fall quarter begins. The intent of this type of financial aid is to provide employment opportunities to those students whose total family income and resources are not sufficient to defray the cost of college expenses.

This aid is not a scholarship, loan or grant. The student must be enrolled as a full-time student, show financial need and be capable of maintaining good academic standing while employed. Application may be made at any time during the school year at the Office of Financial Aid.

Some regular part-time employment opportunities are coordinated through the Office of Financial Aid. Students should frequently check the office bulletin board where on-campus and off-campus positions are posted.

Application for long-term loans, or loans that extend throughout the next academic year should be made as soon after November 1 as possible for the 1971-72 school year.

NEW LAW BUILDING

... to be completed by September 1971

Law School Accredited

Final approval by the American Bar Association (ABA) has been granted the College of Law, Dean Joshua Morse announced this week.

Morse said the ABA gave provisional approval to the law school in 1968, which in effect meant that if the law school continued its high academic standards, final approval would be given.

"Last year we received accreditation from the Association of American Law Schools, which is the formal accrediting body," he said.

The Florida Board of Bar

Examiners requires that law school graduates must graduate from an accredited law school before they are eligible to take the Florida Bar examination.

The provisional status granted by the ABA in 1968 enabled previous graduates to take the bar examination.

The Florida State law school was nationally recognized in 1969 and again in 1970 when 100 percent of those graduates who took the Florida bar passed.

Work is currently underway on a $1.3 million law building located between Pensacola and Jefferson Streets just west of the Florida Supreme Court building.

Completion of the new building is scheduled for September 1971. It will accommodate some 450 law students.

—Edward S. Grenwald, Northwestern University law graduate; assistant professor who will conduct a senior seminar on the university and the law, and teach classes in estate planning.

Two associate professors and two assistant professors have been appointed to the College of Law faculty. They begin teaching this quarter.

They are:

—Thomas A. Edmonds, Duke University law graduate; associate professor who will teach commercial law and assist in the public defender program, a clinical program that enables law students to work in the public defender's office.

—John R. Bradley, Jr., University of Mississippi law graduate; visiting associate professor who will teach in the

Depository Cashes Students' Checks

Finding a place to cash a personal check when you're new in a town is usually a difficult task, so the services of the Student Depository are particularly welcome during the settling-in period in September.

"We're here to give the kids a place to cash a check without their having to go all over town," said cashier Carole Condit in describing the function of the Depository.

Located in Room 123 of the University Union, the Depository is open from 8:10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Checks can be cashed upon showing proper identification consisting of a current student, faculty or staff ID card and one other source of identification such as a driver's license.

Personal checks on private accounts can be cashed up to $50. Checks from home, such as a parent's personal check, can be cashed up to $100. Guaranteed checks, such as payroll, cashier or money order can be cashed up to $300. The Depository will also cash reasonable amount second and third party checks for students and university personnel.

New Food Services Offered by ARA

ARA Services, Inc., the food service company now serving FSU, will offer two meal plans for students with slightly increased menu prices this fall.

The company is continuing operation of all food service facilities on campus previously operated by Ogden Foods, Inc.

In addition to a 21-meal plan offered, ARA will have a 15-meal plan which will allow any combination of meals during a single week.

For the fall quarter, the 21-meal plan will cost $195.40 and the 15-meal plan $171.40. The price on the 21-meal plan is an increase of $1.90 per week over the previous year and the 15-meal plan is an increase of $1.95 per week.

The food contract was awarded to ARA for a three-year period when bids were opened last month. Some eight food service companies were bidding.

ARA currently services similar food programs at the University of Miami, University of Tampa and Florida Presbyterian College.

Students may also join the food plans at any time during the quarter at a pro-rated price.

"Are you really there?" is the question most frequently asked by the telephone counseling service.

The 24-hour telephone counseling service began in January.

"The expectation to do a booming business during the first few weeks of the fall term," said Dr. Whitney, coordinator of the program.

Whitney, an assistant professor of counseling psychology, said he expects many students from freshmen and transfer students during the first weeks of the quarter.

Since many students have used all the counseling service word of mouth, most of the call and ask, "Are you there?" Once they are assured that they've called the right place, students proceed to whatever question or problem they have.

Approximately 16 to 18 volunteer students man two phones in eight-hour shifts.

seven days a week. They answer questions ranging from how to drop a course to how to solve family conflicts.

"About half of our calls are for general information," said Whitney, "and the other half are from people who need counseling."

On the counseling side, many students call just to have someone sympathetic to talk to.

"In this instance, we usually give the caller warmth and sympathy, or we refer them to someone who can help them further with their problem, such as a psychiatrist," said Whitney.

Most of the students handling the calls are from the psychology, social welfare and counseling education departments. The service usually receives from 50 to 60 calls a month. Whitney expects this number to be more than triple since the fall quarter will increase enrollment and more students will hopefully become aware of the program.

Whitney said tentative plans were being made to offer a course in the psychology department in the category of crisis counseling. This course would prepare students for further work with the service and would be an added benefit for those interested in counseling education.

Similar programs have been set up in other colleges and universities, but they usually specialize in answering information questions.

"But," said Whitney, "we made ours deliberately broader in scope because we felt a service was needed to handle people with any kind of problem and in any kind of crisis."

Anyone interested in volunteering should contact the Counseling Center in Bryan Hall.

All students must have new identification cards made for the fall quarter, Miss Kathy Galit, a spokeswoman for the university media center, reported. According to Miss Galit, the identification cards made this summer are invalid.

Pictures for the cards will be taken at the last station of registration in Tully Gym Wednesday through Friday, she said.

1970-71 Artist Series Offers Exciting Variety

Soprano Marilyn Horne, Dame Judith Anderson, and the Preservation Hall Jazz Band will be among the performers seen during the 1970-71 Florida State University Artist Series.

Season tickets will be available to students for $8.00, while student spouse tickets will be sold for $12.50. A charge of $25.00 is made for season tickets to faculty, staff and general public. The student season tickets will insure reserve seating for students at all performances.

Artist Series Chairman Hardin Goodman announced that a wide variety of entertainment will be offered during the October-to-March season, with performances ranging from the Minnesota Symphony Orchestra to the Asolo Theatre's production of Shaw's "Candida". Ticket holders will be assured of a diversity in music, dance and drama.

Opening the series on October 29 will be soprano Marilyn Horne of the Metropolitan Opera Company. Cited as one of today's major opera singers by the New York Times, Miss Horne is well known for her performances in Bellini's "Norma," Rossini's "Barber of Seville", and "The Siege of Corinth."

On November 18, the Broadway musical "Zorba" will follow in the series, with Vivian Blaine and Michael Kermoyan in the lead roles of the French widow and Zorba. Acclaimed as "a work of great beauty" by John Chapman of the New York Daily News, "Zorba" also drew admiration from New York Times critic, Clive Barnes, who called it "the best musical since 'Fiddler on the Roof'."

"Zorba" is essentially the story of the 'natural' man, living sensually and emotionally, compared to the restrained intellectual, personified in the young university teacher Zorba befriends. Zorba lives in a rakish, hedonistic existence, and is seen as all that is vibrant, lusty and natural in life.

The musical abounds in color, precision, and a well timed sense of tragedy, according to New York Post critic, Richard Watts, Jr.

Appearing on November 24 will be the Preservation Hall Jazz Band, the last of the original New Orleans jazz bands. After a sell-out appearance two years ago, the Preservation Hall Band will return to FSU by popular demand.

Featuring Dede Pierce, trumpeter, and his wife Billie, blues singer and pianist, the band plays the music that gave birth to Dixieland and all later jazz forms. Playing a repertory of old jazz tunes ("Shake It And Break It"), old pop tunes ("When I Grow Too Old To Dream"), and old hymns ("Just A Closer Walk With Thee"), the band is composed of men in their sixties and seventies who have spent years in the jazz-blues music of New Orleans from which the Preservation Hall Band was formed.

Called "a strong, solid, beautifully balanced group", by New York Times critic John S. Wilson, the band is credited with playing "straight ahead with strong beat and direct melodic line...within this particular musical area, it makes everything it plays glisten with zest and joy."

Winter quarter will feature entertainment ranging from the Asolo State Theatre's production of Shaw's "Candida" to performances by the American Ballet Theatre, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, the Minnesota Orchestra, and Dame Judith Anderson as "Hamlet."

The Asolo Theatre, the Sarasota-based company under the tutelage of Florida State's Department of Theatre, has received wide acclaim on performances ranging from "A Flea in her Ear" to "The Misanthrope." This year's presentation to FSU audiences will be Shaw's "Candida."

On February 1, the American Ballet Theatre will perform for FSU and Tallahassee audiences in the Ruby Diamond Auditorium.

On February 8, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will appear, under the direction of Sixten Ehrling, who until 1963 has been associated with the Royal Opera in Sweden. Stated as "One of America's top-rank orchestras" by Winthrop Sargeant of The New Yorker, the orchestra consists of approximately 102 members performing an estimated 200 concerts each year. It is currently the "resident" symphony at the annual Worcester (Mass.) and Meadow Brook (Mich.) music festivals.

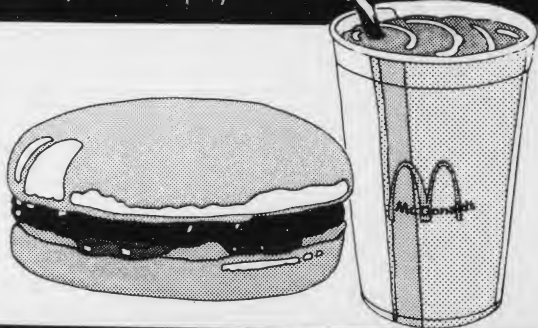

Dame Judith Anderson as "Hamlet" provides one of the few performances of a woman as Shakespeare's Dane. In the tradition of Lady Sarah Bernhardt, Dame Anderson calls the role "the greatest challenge of my life. It's the greatest part that's ever been written and I just have to try it."

Art Gallery October Opening

The display, part of the gallery's permanent collection of graphics and paintings, will be a purchases by the university. According to Dempsey, gifts from private individuals and organizations that will contribute to the scholarship and research potential of the Gallery are much appreciated. A faculty committee reviews each gift for consideration as an addition to the permanent collection.

The October show is typical of the varying media and styles of art scheduled for display in the Gallery throughout the 1970-71 academic year.

In November, an exhibition of the drawings by artists on the faculties of various Florida universities and junior colleges will be featured. Sponsoring the display is Patrick Archer, a faculty member of the Palm Beach Junior College.

A December show should have a display appropriate to the holiday season, and an FSU faculty art show will be featured in January.

During the Fine Arts Festival in February, the Gallery is planning to display a collection of medieval religious artifacts and sculpture. The artifacts range in age from Romanesque and early Gothic through the international style to late Gothic.

Among the other events scheduled for the Gallery is the Fifth Annual Lithography Exhibition which will be held in the spring.

Slice In Funds Cuts Back Radio Shows

A shortage of funds for staff salaries necessitated WFSU-FM radio to cut back its programming schedule, Dr. David Platts, station manager, announced this summer.

Platts said the station received less money for salaries than was anticipated and was forced to cut back its broadcast schedule by 23 hours a week. The cutback was effective Aug. 1.

The weekday morning broadcasts of Panorama at Daybreak and all broadcasts scheduled from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays are dropped until further notice, he said. Present plans call for WFSU-FM to broadcast an abridged schedule of programs from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. until funds are made available to the station.

Decade Of Broadcasting Celebrated

Educational television broadcasting at Florida State will be 10 years old this month when WFSU-TV, Channel 11 celebrates the anniversary of its first broadcast in September of 1960.

Roy Flynn was the first director of University Broadcasting Services which included the operation of both WFSU-TV and WFSU-FM. The present broadcasting director, Edward Herp has served in the position since 1961.

During the early months, program emphasis was placed on producing telecourses designed for instructional use by the University and the Public School systems. The original broadcast schedule consisted of 30 hours of programming per week with eight of those hours devoted to cultural material provided by the National Educational Television network. In 1961, the schedule expanded to include 50 hours per week. Presently the station provides programming on a 55 hour, six days a week schedule.

Current broadcasting emphasis is on informational, cultural and educational programs designed to serve the University and local communities.

Program Director Bruce Pertle said, "One of the major goals for the fall will be the scheduling of political broadcasts. The programs will be directed toward informing the citizen about the candidates and the main issues of the platforms rather than presenting campaign speeches by the candidates."

Special programming aimed at youngsters is also provided and Pertle announced the popular "Sesame Street" will start its second season when the children's programs shown during morning hours resume this month.

Other programming for the 1970-71 season includes family entertainment highlighted by the return of "Kukla, Fran, and Ollie" and a new series of "The French Chef" with Julia Childs.

The Florida Board of Regents submitted the original broadcasting license application to the Federal Communications Commission. The Florida ETV Commission was responsible for purchasing the studio equipment, the transmitter and antennae and getting the station on the air.

The transmitter, located in the Apalachicola Forest 20 miles from the campus, transmits a signal approximately 55 miles in radius. The studio facilities are located in Dodd Hall on campus.

As an affiliate of the Public Broadcasting Service and the Southern Educational Network, WFSU-TV is part of a national network which offers live coverage of special and current events, as well as outstanding cultural and dramatic productions.

WFSU-TV's contribution to the regional network includes network wide broadcasts of two programs which deal with migrant workers and tourism in the south. Two local series, "Faces of Action" and "Coach Gather: A Tribute" have been telecast on the Southern Educational Network.

Since the beginning of station operations WFSU-TV has made a concerted effort to produce local programs dealing with current social, governmental and general public affairs issues.

Among the station's early productions aimed at the community were "Call Your Doctor," "The Fourth Problem Alcohol," "Music For Our Schools," and "Call Your Lawyer."

Recent productions have covered a variety of community oriented topics. "Tomorrow is Here To Stay" dealt with ecology in general and specifically with the environmental problems existing in Florida. "Florida Government Today" included programs explaining how recent constitutional changes affected the organization and responsibilities of the various governmental agencies.

Other broadcast topics have been directed toward strengthening the communication link between the University and the community. The program series, "Reach," studied the various projects being pursued or planned by faculty members. "The President's Convocation and Inauguration" and "Conversations with Marshall and Perry" gave an insight into the future developments on the FSU and Florida A & M campuses.

In the area of continuing education, WFSU-TV has presented programs which focused on direct instruction. Special projects of the University station have covered a wide range of instructional program material including everything from a state wide series of nursing programs and a nationally distributed series, "Modern Math for Elementary Teachers," to university classroom materials.

Herp said in the next fiscal year "progressive steps will be taken for improving the production facilities and broadcast transmission capability, and programming services of the station." Looking ahead, he feels that public television can be considered the research arm of instructional television by experimenting with presenting pertinent material in an innovative, challenge method.

He also said innovations in the communications field will lead to more exciting opportunities in the next 10 years for WFSU-TV and public television, with new dimensions in programming for the University and local community.

Steinbeck Book Turns Opera In Art Fest

Headlining the 1970-71 concert season will be the School of Music's production of Carlisle Floyd's latest opera "Of Mice and Men."

Based on John Steinbeck's novel by the same name, the opera's production will be the first performance in the Southeastern United States when it is staged here during the 1971 Fine Arts Festival in February.

Other season highlights include the University Symphony, Children's Concert in March, the Women's Glee Club Christmas Vespers in December, and the Starlight Concerts in late spring.

Other events will be the Collegians and the University Singers in an all Stravinsky program on Nov. 20, a Bartok program by the Faculty Chamber Ensemble and the Florestan String Quartet on Feb. 13. There will also be a Combined University Bands concert on Feb. 24.

Day

Cont'd from pg. 32 campus organizations represented.

Information regarding the organizations' purpose, and function, will be provided, with students given the opportunity to talk to members of various groups.

A table will be provided by the Student Activities Office where students will be able to register their interests on computer cards, after which their names will be forwarded to organizations on campus related to their specific interests.

The ARA Dining Service will provide complimentary soft drinks during the Activities Fair.

The Program Council will sponsor a free movie, "Lord Jim", that will be shown in Moore Auditorium at 7:15 and 9:15 p.m. Following the movie will be a free dance at the Union Pool beginning at 8:30 p.m. featuring the music of Funk, Inc. Funk recently won the Budweiser/Old Spice International Intercollegiate Music Festival in Montreal, Canada.

Nine Performances

Annual Madrigal Dinners

The Madrigal Christmas Dinners, part of the traditional December festivities at Florida State, are this year scheduled for November 29, and will run continuously until December 7.

Students will be able to purchase tickets before the general public sale at an advance sale held in the Leon-Lafayette Room of the University Union on October 29 and 30. Ticket prices will be $3.50 per student and $3.50 per student guest. Guests are limited to one per student.

The general public will have an opportunity to purchase Madrigal tickets on November 2, when the tickets will be available for purchase in the Union's Leon-Lafayette Room for $5.50.

Sponsored by the School of Music, the University Dining Services and the University Union, the Madrigal Dinners attempt to revive the pageantry of the Christmas celebrations in Medieval England.

Decorations include banners and trappings from a 14th century English Castle, and trumpeters herald each course carried in by costumed waiters.

The menu served is traditional, featuring the presentation of a boar's head, and the serving of warrail, roast beef, Yorkshire pudding and a flaming plum pudding.

The Madrigal Singers are a small, specialized singing group directed by Walter James, Associate Professor of Music.

Highlighting registration week activities will be two free outdoor concerts sponsored by the Union Special Events committee. The first will be Wednesday, September 16, at 8:45 on Landis Green featuring "Plymouth Rock" and "Daddy Twofoot" performing one set. A second concert will be Sunday, September 20, at 2 p.m., behind Moore Auditorium featuring: "725", "Black River Circus", "Changing Times", "Eight of Us", "Third Condition" and "Funk, Inc."

"Social Club" Image of Greeks Changing

See related story page 42

Although many traditions remain in the Greek system at Florida State University, the image of the typical Greek is changing.

"You used to be able to tell what fraternity a guy belonged to by the way he acted, the way he dressed and by his social life," said Ed Mick, assistant advisor to fraternities. "Now you can't tell anymore."

The reason for this, said Mick, is that fraternities are looking for a new type of man to join. This is in line with the more independent, individualistic students coming to Florida State, Mick said.

Ms. Linda Moncrief, assistant advisor for sororities, said students seem to become involved with national, state and local issues. They expect the sorority or fraternity they join to also be interested, not just to be a "social club."

Hazing and other cruder forms of initiation are rarely used. Block parties during student elections are on the way out. During the last student body presidential election, a fraternity man was defeated by the one who did not belong to a fraternity.

All the sorority and fraternity members were divided on their views, said Ms. Moncrief.

Ms. Mick said in the past it would have been considered disloyal not to support the fraternity man and vote as a block.

Both advisors agree that the upcoming school year will be a very significant one, as far as new memberships are concerned.

"We just don't know if they will be more interested or more independent, or just not interested in joining a fraternity or sorority," said Ms. Moncrief.

"This seems to be the issue most talked about," she said. "Have the Greeks changed enough from their stereotyped image of mere social clubs to appeal to the more independent students coming to Florida State today?"

"We hope we've changed enough to appeal to them," said Mick.

Progressive Greeks Ready For New Year

Although many traditions remain in the Greek system at Florida State, Greek organizations are moving away from their stereotyped images as social clubs.

Hazing and other ritualistic forms of initiation are already obsolete and block voting during student elections is on the way out.

As one fraternity's philosophy states: We look to progressive change as old ways lose their effectiveness.

Community service has long been a Greek tradition. All fraternities and sororities participate in service projects. Many actively raise money for the March of Dimes, Easter Seals and Heart Fund, while others work with underprivileged children.

The purpose of the Greek organization is to encourage each member to realize the importance of high scholarship, leadership, citizenship, individual responsibility, and a sense of belonging.

Under the direction of Panhellenic advisor, Dr. June A. Dugger, the Panhellenic Association is composed of a delegate from each chapter, plus the chapter president. Panhellenic is interested in every facet of chapter life. Its largest responsibility is the formulation of rules and the administration of rush plans. Panhellenic president is Cecelia Bonifay of Pensacola.

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) is similarly composed, with assistant dean of student affairs Harris Shelton as advisor. IFC works closely with the Panhellenic Association to promote unity between fraternities and sororities and in planning Greek activities. IFC president is Edward Stacker of West Palm Beach.

Annual events of note involving the Greeks include the Sigma Chi Derby and Greek Week festivities.

The Derby, sponsored by Sigma Chi fraternity, is a springtime field day for the campus based sororities in which the coeds are pitted in contests against their rival sororities in games such as tug-of-war. The Derby itself is run during the morning, in the Soap Box Derby tradition, with fraternities and sororities joining forces to sponsor an entry. A Miss Sigma Chi is chosen during the evening at a dance which concludes the Derby's festivities. Greek Week, which is "still another springtime event, is annually sponsored through the joint efforts of Panhellenic and IFC. Events include street dances, and an old fashioned carnival. Other events during the Greeks are the Campus Sing, which is a contest between participating sororities and fraternities spanning two days, and the crowning of Miss Greek.

FINANCES

The cost of joining and participating in a Greek organization varies according to the size of the membership, participation in pledge classes, maintenance of the house and the social activities planned by the house. The average cost of room rent in a Greek house is $120 per quarter. Most fraternities and sororities offer daily meal facilities in the house. The cost varies according to each house's plan. The average cost of three meals a day in a fraternity is $194 per quarter. On a monthly basis, the approximate board fee is $70 in a sorority house.

The average fee charged when pledging a fraternity is $20; and $82 when initiated. These fees are charged only once and vary according to each fraternity. The fees may cover the cost of the fraternity pin, national affiliation, additional paperwork and other factors. The pledge fee and initiation fee together averages $75 for a sorority.

Most fraternities and sororities charge social fees, dues and parlor fees, or various combinations of the three. They are paid monthly or quarterly, depending on the house. Social fees cover most social activities and the average monthly cost in a fraternity is $15. Most sororities combine the social fees with housing fees and charge anywhere from $111.50 to $130 per quarter.

Dues are paid on a yearly basis by fraternities and sororities, and the average cost is $11.50. Parlor fees, when charged, are used to cover additional house facility costs. The average fee is $6.50.

NAMES OF GREEKS

Seminoles Staggered In To Win , 9-7

By Dale Friedley
Sports Editor

Last Saturday night, junior kicker Frank Fontes and defensive back David Snell turned out to be the offense and sophomore James Thomas put on an outstanding final minute defensive effort as the Florida the Louisville line to block a 33 yard field goal effort by Roger Gruneisen that would have given the Cardinals a 10-9 lead. It was the second time in the game that Thomas had turned the trick since back in the second period he laid his hand on a 35 yard try.

But the officials ruled that Thomas was offside on the play and this gave Louisville new life.

Then from the 18 yard stripe Gruneisen tried again to win the game and as a measure of insurance, Coach Leo Corso stationed an extra man on Thomas' side.

But once again Thomas slithered through the line along with another soph, James Whitehurst, and both made a dive for the ball as it left the kickers foot. Whitehurst missed, but Thomas caught it with his right hand and knocked it to the ground.

Defensive end Ron Wallace then picked up the pigskin and returned it 43 yards. FSU ran out the clock after this and the Seminoles had "won" 9-7.

It marked the end of one of the most dismal offensive showings in the history of the school. Louisville had beaten the Tribe in everything but the score, the Cardinals picking up 283 total yards to FSU's 214. Only 76 of that 214 had come passing, possibly the lowest amount of air show that Seminole fans have seen in years.

	LU	FSU
First Downs	14	11
Yards Rushing	169	136
Yards Passing	114	76
Return Yardage	62	143
Passes	9-18-1	8-14-4
Punts	9-38	7-47
Fumbles Lost	1	3
Yards Penalized	5	21

The only FSU scores came on a field goal by the new barefoot specialist Fontes and a spectacular 71 punt return by Snell who only stands 5-8 but is harder to catch than a greased pig.

Fontes field goal came in the second period after the only penalty Louisville made all night had nullified a missed 52 yard effort by the little 5-4 JC transfer. Fontes' good effort was from 47 yards out.

Outstanding Freshmen

Misner Leads In Cross Country

With four veterans returning to the scene along with four of the most promising newcomers around joining the squad, the 1970 edition of the Florida State cross country team could be the strongest in the school's history.

According to Coach Dick Roberts, in his second year at the helm of the Seminole iron men, he has in his hands "as talented a group as any in the Southeast", and is very "optimistic" as to the possible outcome of the team.

Head Track Coach Mike Long adds that it could very well depend on the veterans of the team and their influence over the freshman as to how this leader will certainly place a large amount of responsibility on his shoulders. All-in-all it looks like a tough year ahead for this durable senior.

Another of the outstanding veterans is sophomore Del Ramers who came to FSU as a freshman along with his coach (Roberts) from Dunedin High School. In his senior year as a schoolboy, Ramers set the state high school record in the mile with a clocking of 4:10.1.

In his maiden year as a college runner, however, Ramers was plagued with illness and injuries but is healthy now according to Roberts and will be counted on to play a big role in shaping the success of the Seminoles this season.

Two other men coming back for the seminoles will be George Kaiser, mainly used as a half miler last season for the Tribe, and Jim Dobson who was the number six man on the squad last year and will return this season as a junior.

Of the newcomers, possibly the most promising is freshman Bobby Brooks from Northeast High School in St. Petersburg

RAMERS

Fla. In his senior year at Northeast, Brooks established himself as the top distance man for his area in the Southeast as he ran a 4:09.7 mile and a 9:13.8 two miles at the Southeastern High School Championships held in Atlanta.

Another of the stronger recruits will be a home town boy, Mark O'Brien. Running his senior year of high school at Leon, he was considered by many to be the second best runner in the Southeast, next to Brooks, after clocking a 9:16 time in the two mile. O'Brien is also a Seminole hopeful in an event that the Tribe has failed to compete in several years, the Steeplechase.

Jack Wise, is a transfer from the University of Alabama, who had to sit out last season because of an eligibility regulation, but will be fresh for the upcoming season. The junior distance man has a life time best of 4:15 in the mile.

Another freshman on the team is Danny Clark, an outstanding out-of-state runner.

group of runners is going to face this coming season against such stiff competition as the University of Florida and Georgia Tech.

Heading the returners will be the FSU school record holder in both the two and three mile, Ken Misner. In the NCAA championships last year Misner took 13 which was good enough for an All-America rating.

And from all indications, Misner could be even better this year than anyone had expected him to. On an accelerated distance workout program which has him running an average of 160 miles a week, he can be counted on to do extremely well. Also, his role as team

The three-pointer held up until the third period when Snell took off on his 71 yard ramble. It marked the second time in the contest that the Slocumb, Ala. native had broken into the clear on a runback. The first time, however, he was tripped up by his own blocker.

Fontes' extra point effort following the touchdown was surprisingly off to the right and this left the score 9-0. The missed conversion turned out to be extremely important at the end of the contest.

The seminole's offensive efforts were all failures with only one sustained drive being recorded all evening. That came in the late third and early fourth quarters as the Tribe drove 79 yards to the one yard line in 18 plays. But on a second and goal situation Art Munroe, after crossing the goal line, fumbled in the end zone ending the scoring threat.

This break seemd to awaken the Louisville offensive team which had been slumbering most of the second half. On the first play after the miscue, quarterback Gary Inman completed a 35 yard bomb to Larry Hart and the Cardinals were suddenly in business again.

On the very next play, Tom Jesukaitis broke through a stunned FSU defense for 37 yards to the eight. Two plays later, Bill Gatti, a thorn in the Seminole's side all evening, raced untouched into the end zone from four yards out. The kick by Gruneisen was good and it was 9-7.

The Tribe's next offensive effort failed and they had to punt out, but Ralph Calvin, returned the kick 15 yards to the FSU 45 and Louisville was in scoring position again.

The Cardinals picked up two first downs in a row, one coming on a pass from Inman to Paul Mattingly and the other from a Gatti run of four yards. In three plays, however, the Seminoles held setting up the dramatic field goal situations.

Corso had nothing but praise about his Cardinals after they returned to the dressing room. "I've never seen a team so far outnumbered and such an underdog which came back to nearly win," he said. "They were magnificent."

After the game, Coach Bill Peterson was rather bitter towards the offensive team. "Our offense," he commented, "did not play one play when everyone did his job."

In one final statement about the outcome of the game Peterson said, "Louisville got tired or they would have beaten us and beaten us bad."

FSU Takes On Georgia Tech On TV

By John Cunningham
Assistant Sports Editor

Saturday afternoon before a regional television audience the Florida State football team will attempt to protect its perfect record against a tough Georgia Tech team in Atlanta. Coach Bud Carson's Yellow Jackets, coming off a 23-20 victory over South Carolina, are favored to win by most sports writers.

Georgia Tech is led by Eddie McAshan at quarterback who wears No. 1 on his jersey. From Gainesville, McAshan is the first black quarterback at a major college in the South. The classy sophomore had an excellent first game last week completing 20 of 38 passes for 202 yards against Paul Dietzel's Gamecocks rated 17th in the nation before the game. McAshan, labeled "Steady Eddie" by Atlanta newsmen for his coolness in game conditions, directed a number of successful scoring drives by mixing his plays and effective passing to his running backs.

McAshan did most of his passing to senior full back Steve Harkey who tied a Georgia Tech record for receptions with 14 for 132 yards. Brent Cunningham, a speedy flanker, is also a favorite of McAshan.

Defensive standouts for Tech are Tock Perdoni, 236, at the tackle spot who is the Jackets No. 1 candidate for All-American honors and Jeff Ford at sideback, who intercepted 9 passes last season and returned them for 257 yards (a new NCAA mark). The Tech defense against South Carolina was not as effective as advertised but many people feel it has the potential to be extremely tough.

The Seminoles, last week against Louisville, appeared ineffective on offense, but tough on defense. Failing to produce a touchdown, the offense sputtered most of the game and came out an unimpressive victor.

One of the strongest parts of the F.S.U. team last week was the kicking game. Punter Duane Carrell was impressive with a 47 yard average, one punt sailing 69 yards, a personal high for Carrell. Frank Fontes thrilled the fans with a 47 yard field goal that floated well into the end zone stands.

David Snell also provided the crowd with something to cheer about when he returned a punt 71 yards for a score. He also was on his way for another score on a punt but tripped over his man before he could get there. He finished the night with a 42 yard average.

SNELL

Behind the tough running of Tom Bailey and the passing of both Frank Whigham and Tommy Warren, the varsity team easily trounced the combined freshman-reserve team 64-0 in an intraquad match at West Palm Beach on September 5.

The first play from scrimmage, a surprise 70-yard touchdown pass from Bailey to sensational sophomore end Barry Smith, set the tempo for the rest of the game. From that point on, it was just a matter of how high the score would get.

Bailey went on from there to score two more touchdowns and finish his evening's effort with 79 yards in 10 carries. His running mate in the backfield, Paul Magalski also put on a credible performance.

Both Warren and Whigham were impressive with Warren connecting on five-of-seven for 89 yards while the latter hit five-of-six and 56 yards. Both had one touchdown pass a piece. Sophomore Gary Huff also tossed a TD, this one going to big Kent Gaydos.

David Snell, the sophomore defensive back, put on one of the better individual performances of the evening, good enough, in fact, to earn him a starting position for the Seminoles' first regular season outing against Louisville. Snell intercepted a pass returning it 47 yards for a touchdown and he also took a punt back 50 yards for another score.

23rd Season For Stults

Jim Stults begins his 23rd year as Florida State's head swimming coach this year. In the past 22 years his teams have won 17 dual meets while losing only 1. He has had 21 winning seasons in a row with his only losing season being his first.

STULTS

This year's team will be led by two All-Americans. Phil Boggs, who finished second in nationals in the one-meter board competition, and an All-American in the three-meter and one-meter diving boards, and Dean Jerger is the All-American in the 50 yard freestyle. Florida State's first swimmer in this category. Also winning this year, are Ed

Anderson, Mark Jenkins, Lee Eisinger, and Lawton Harrison in the free-style events. In the back stroke Bill Gest and Tom Gest are returning along with Steve Driver in the breast-stroke. About a dozen other returning members of last year's team accompanied by approximately the same number of new men make up the balance of the team.

This year's schedule includes home meets with Florida, East Carolina, South Carolina, North Carolina, and South Florida along with the Southern Collegiate Championships, and the Independent Swimming Championships, and the NCAA Championships.

Interest in swimming is increasing all over the nation and especially in the south. Schools like Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina are putting more emphasis on this sport making it difficult for Florida State recruiting and remaining one of the best teams in the South.

INTRAMURALS

Under the leadership of a new director, Paul Dirks, men's intramurals opens its season with some orientation meetings which will discuss the upcoming swimming meet as well as the flag football season.

The first intramural meeting of the Greek season will be at 7:45 on Sept. 22 in room 352 of the Student Union.

The first Dorm-Independent manager meeting for the 1970-71 season will be held on Sept. 23 in the Union room 346.

Fence In Stadium Parking Changes

TALLAHASSEE-A chain link fence and new parking designations are some changes football fans will notice when they arrive at Florida State's Campbell Stadium this fall.

The fence was constructed around the inside of the playing field to comply with a new NCAA rule limiting the number of people on the playing field.

Capt. James Lewis of the Campus Security force, explained the construction of the fence and other changes at a meeting of law enforcement officials of the campus last week.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the Florida Highway Patrol, Sheriff's office, local police, campus security and the Florida Highway Patrol Auxiliary. The men met to discuss traffic control at football games at the stadium.

Lewis explained that traffic routes to and from the stadium will be the same as last year and motorists who are attending the games, but who get caught up in traffic will be guided to escape routes away from the stadium.

Lewis emphasized the chartered buses from out of town must display their booster tags prominently to be eligible to park in the booster parking lot near the stadium. Out of town buses not displaying this tag will be directed to "whatever parking lot they approach."

Chartered city buses will park south of the west stands.

Lewis said the general public will park south of the south end zone, in the area around the small golf course, the circus area, and on the lawn north of the baseball and football practice fields.

Veterans Hold Track Key

Veterans will be the key this season as the Florida state track team gets its season under way with several early indoor meets in December.

And veterans are just what Head Coach Mike Long will be counting on as the Seminole runners and field men go into their 16th year under able tutor. Seniors are returning men in almost all areas of competition and with the addition of some new names, the outlook for the

LONG

It was a very good race.

In the sprinting department, Mike Long is coming back from the year before in Brown and Eddie Nelson. Brown, a senior, has won 157 hundred and a 21 in the 220 and is a stronghold of the 440-yard relay while Nelson, a defensive back field player on the Seminole football team, runs the 100 and 220 in the off season to keep in shape.

Last year when the quick runner wasn't bothered by a knee and thigh injury, he ran a 16:100 and some great split times as anchor man for the school record setting 440-relay team.

A few freshman addition to the Seminole squad in the sprint field will be Joel Garren who runs the 100, 220 and 440 with equal efficiency. If Garren were to come through, the Seminoles would be greatly bolstered in the sprinting events.

In the 440-yard dash, besides

STOW

Garren, Randy Stow will return. The captain of the team last season, Stow often ran the open quarter as well as anchoring the mile relay team. His best time was a clocking of 46.9.

In the hurdles, all three of the top men from last year's team will be returning. Roger Pederson will be the high hurdler as will football star Barry Smith, both men having clocked time in the low 14 second range.

The intermediate hurdler for the coming season will again be John Fuss who has a 52.9 time to his credit. Another freshman who looks like a real comer in the intermediates is Snapper Starnes, a Leon High graduate.

In the distance events, Ken Misner and Del Ramers will lead the way in the mile and two mile, Misner being about the top man in the Southeast while Ramers has great potential which may bloom this season if he is to stay out of the injury list.

PEDERSON

Several freshman have a chance of making it big in the long races including Bobby Brooks, the state and southeast champion in high school last season with a clocking of 4:09.7 in the mile.

Another top performer from the schoolboy ranks who hopes to hit it big at FSU is Leon graduate Mark O'Brien. Jack Wise, a transfer from the University of Alabama, is another top prospect.

Bill Jackson, the school record holder in the pole vault with a leap of 15-7, will return for his senior year and hopes to do even better. Jay Young, a sophomore who developed well in his freshman season, will also return.

The Seminoles' strongest field event, however, could be in the jumping events. Charlie Galloway, one of the premier leapers in the southeast and the school record in the triple jump, will return. Galloway also finished tenth in the college decathlon championship last year and plans to work on it most of this season.

But the big story in the jumping department is the signing of Largo High School great Rudy Falana, the national high school record-holder with a leap of 25-3. He promises to be a big help in the Seminole scoring machine this season as is Don Wagner, a junior who was a consistent third place man in meets last season.

In the Javelin, Roy Dunn and Alan Landis return this season to give the Seminoles some depth at the position. The Tribe, however, has signed Jim Buck, the national junior college champion from Seminole Junior College who has a lifetime best heave of around 240 feet.

Judo Club Wins

For those new to the University who are not too well acquainted with the small sports on the school, you should know that Judo is possibly the most successful sport on campus.

Rising out of the cellar in Tully Gym about five years ago, the Florida State Judo Club (it having failed to achieve recognition status from the university) has developed by far the most advanced Judo program in the Southeast and for the last three years has been right in the thick of things when it came to national championships, finishing fourth in 1968, second in 1969 and third in '70.

From all indications, it appears that this year's edition will be even more successful with the loss of only two competitors via graduation, Bill Miller and Armond Gosselin. Player-coach John Ross feels that this could be the year for the big one.

His reasoning centers around the fact that the club has finally been granted out-of-state tuition waivers and several of the competitors who could have normally not attended the university at the high schooling costs are now coming in droves.

In all, 15 black belts have signed to join the team, nine coming from Okinawa, Japan, and one each from the Philippines, Guam, Detroit, Phoenix, San Diego and St. Augustine, Fla. In all that makes it a count of 27 black belts in the club.

Judo is just like wrestling in that it is run off in weight classes of 139 pounds, 154 pounds, 176 pounds, 205 pounds and heavyweights. There is in most tournaments an additional open division where any weight class may enter for a final championship.

Several of the more notable additions to the team are Jerry Dean, a second degree black belt

Faced with the task of living up to last year's 23-3 team, the greatest in its history, the Florida State University basketball team will have to overcome the loss of five lettermen to be a winner again this season.

With one-year of a two-year probation charge left due to recruiting violations, Coach Hugh Durham, going into his fifth season as basketball mentor of the Seminoles, is faced with a spectacular players in the history of the school, can clear the top of the backboard with his hands on a jump, but has shown in the past an inconsistency in his defensive play which caused him not to be a starter last season. With a little more work on the part of Durham, however, the 6-6 athlete could become an integral part of the Seminole strategy.

Other returning veterans who have a good chance of cracking the starting grid are John Burt, a 6-2 guard, Roy Glover, another guard and tough Dave Macomber, a 6-10 crowd-pleaser with his antics on the court.

Two junior college transfers brighten up the guard posts. From Broward JC comes Greg Samuels, at 5-10 a devastating scorer. Samuels averaged a heaping 29 points per game in his two years at Broward.

rebuilding job of filling three starting positions, including two of the posts which involve big men.

Gone from last year's squad are Dave Cowens, the 6-10 redhead who was the team leader and now is a rookie sensation with the Boston Celtics, Willie Williams, a tough board man at 6-9 and also with the same Celtics, Ken Macklin, the starting point guard, Jan Gies, one of the Tribe's super-subs, and Randy Cable, replacement guard.

The two returning starters from the 1969-70 team are Ron Harris, the defensive standout from Key West High School who scored an average of 7.2 a game, and 6-2 guard Skip Young, the one most people feel has the best chance of achieving some sort of All-America status for the Seminoles.

Young averaged 13.9 points per game last year and also contributed 127 assists to the Tribe cause while playing both the point guard position and a wing. Harris, 6-4, averaged 4.6 rebounds a game.

The Seminoles, however, have a couple of good sixth men returning from the season past in Vernell Eltzy and Rowland Garrett. Eltzy, a 6-5 jumping jack, was the fifth leading scorer for FSU with a 10.0 average and hauled in 5.2 rebounds a game. Eltzy is also an excellent showman with the ball and should find himself a place in the starting lineup at either a wing or the lower post position of the Seminole offense.

Garrett, one of the most

ELLZY

The other transfer is Charlie Green, a player who is joining the Seminoles in his sophomore year of eligibility from Lake City Junior College where he played his freshman season and averaged over 21 PPG.

But the biggest story of the season could be the development of the men from last year's freshman team that set about every FSU frosh and gymnasium record you could think of.

Biggest of them all is Reggie Royals, a 6-11 center who averaged 23.3 points a contest and grabbed off 22.8 caroms a game. "Tree", as he is called by his teammates, is destined to fill Cowens' high post spot and his development and improvement will be essential to the success of the 1970-71 outfit.

In the scoring department, though, there is Ron King, the highest single season scorer for average in the history of the school. As a freshman King hit an unbelievable 35.7 points per game including several 50 point contests. Durham has high hopes that the Louisville, Ky. native will be able to break into the starting group at one of the wing spots.

King's teammate in high school is Otto Petty and you must see this little 5-8 guard to believe him. Petty not only has the ability to shoot but has to be one of the sharpest and quickest thinking men to hit the court in years. He averaged 15 assists his freshman season and hopes to work his way past the likes of Young, Glover, Burt, and Samuels to gain a starting berth on the team at the point guard.

Others from the freshman squad who are hoping to break the starting team will be Mike Rhaney, a 6-1 guard from Florida High who averaged 7.1 points last year, Larry Gay, a Winchester, Ky. native who is a

Durham Says McHone New Frosh Coach

Morris McHone, a Florida State University graduate, has joined the Seminole staff as freshman basketball coach, it was announced by Athletic Director Vaughn Mancia.

McHone, a native of Marion, N.C., served as a graduate assistant last season under Head Coach Hugh Durham.

Before graduating from Florida State, the 27-year-old McHone attended Marion High School and Wingate Junior College in North Carolina.

McHone's first coaching assignment was at Zephyr Hills where his high school teams ran up records of 19-7 and 18-10 during the 1966 and 1967 season. From there he moved to Nova High in Ft. Lauderdale. His 1968-69 club went 22-4 and this earned him the Broward County Coach of the Year Award.

"Morris has a thorough knowledge of the game and we're fortunate in getting him," said Durham. "He will contribute a great deal to our program. He has already contributed this past year by doing an outstanding recruiting job."

McHone and his wife Sharon have a three-year-old son, Kimble.

Earlier this year, Bill Bolton joined the basketball staff as assistant to Durham.

Indian Freshman Boast First Seven Footer, All-Star

As it has been in the past few years, Florida State University's scouting has hauled in another group of fine freshman prospects to enhance their basketball program for the upcoming year.

Leading the way for the baby 'Noles this season will be "Mr. Basketball" from the state of Florida, Lawrence McCray, the first seven-footer to hit the school. At 7-0, McCray went to high school at Pensacola

Washington, the state AA champions, and there he averaged 17 rebounds and 14 points a game, usually playing no more than half of the whole contest.

Otis Cole is another blazer the Seminoles picked up in North Carolina. The King M native was a high school All-America and scored an average of 26 PPG in his senior year.

Artie Fryer from Middleburg High School in Tampa, Fla. and Bill Wright from Fort Myers High School are two more blazers the Seminoles picked up. Fryer, standing at 6-8, scored 19 points in a contest while the 6-7 Wright scored at only 13 point clip but rebounded well.

John Amick is another prospect from the state as he comes from St. Petersburg High School. Standing at 6-6, he averaged over 20 PPG and was devastating on the boards.

Cowens Ready To Take On Pro Tour

Dave Cowens, the Florida State basketball star from this past season, has been called by his professional coach Tom Heinsohn the "readiest" rookie he ever saw and it is beginning to look like the 6-10 redhead will have a starting position sowed down in the Boston Celtic lineup by the time the season begins.

Over the summer, Cowens played in several leagues which had on their teams such NBA greats as Willis Reed, Billy Cunningham, and Walt Bellamy along with hotshot Pete Maravich. But when the season was over and it came around to selecting a Most Valuable Player, it was the young Cowens who took home the honors.

His coach in the summer league was the great Red Auerbach, the man who had personally recruited Cowens. He played for the Seminoles. Auerbach said, "I've never seen a pre-season performance to rival his. He had his hand on every offensive rebound, ran the boys like Walt Bellamy into the ground and shot well. The coaches, players, and even the

Mancha Names "Bucky"

TALLAHASSEE—Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha has named Dabbs (Bucky) Wagner as Florida State University's new athletic academic advisor.

Wagner, 31 and a native of Canton, Ohio, replaces T. K. Wetherell, who has resigned to take a position with Florida Tech in Orlando. The appointment is effective immediately.

Wagner came to Florida State last year where he served as a graduate assistant in physical education. He played college football at Ohio University, where he lettered two years as a quarter back. In 1960, he was named to the All-Mid America Conference Club and led his team to a 10-0 record and the National College Division Championship.

He was a freshman coach at his alma mater from 1961 through 1966 before becoming a varsity assistant in 1967 and 1968.

"We are fortunate in having a man of Wagner's experience to take over such an important part of our athletic program," said Mancha.

Wagner is married to the former Ann Snee and they have three children, two boys and a girl.

referees were coming over asking, 'Where did you get him?'

Heinsohn feels that Cowens could very easily end up in the post position despite the fact that he will be giving up a lot of height and weight. "The heavier centers," said the Celtic mentor, "will go crazy trying to stay with him."

Another ex-FSU great now trying to crack the starting lineup in the Celtic camp is Willie Williams. Both Heinsohn and Auerbach have been extremely impressed with his agility, quickness and jumping ability, but it will be a tough test indeed trying to break into a team with such old-timers on the squad as Don Nelson, Tom Sanders, and Rich Johnson.

The Celtics with their ex-Seminole players along with Rod McIntyre and Rex Morgan from the University of Jacksonville, will return to Tallahassee on Sept. 22 when Boston will take on the Atlanta Hawks and Pete Maravich in Tully Gym.

So all-in-all it looks like a Seminole team with a great amount of depth. But to the winner Coach Durham wants them to be, several of the new and substitute players must come through and fill the shoes left by the like of Cowens, Williams and Macklin.

Tennis Team Has International Flavor This Year

Pete Barizon took over the reigns of Florida State's tennis team last year and led the Seminoles to one of their finest seasons. Under his direction the Tribe compiled a 17-7 record including wins over Florida and Georgia.

Returning this year to form the nucleus for the 1971 season are John DeZeeuw, last year's No. 2 man, and Mick Basinger, No. 7 on last year's team. Joining them are a group of talented freshmen from all over the Western Hemisphere. Heading this list are Ricardo Bernd, one of the top junior players from Brazil, Richard Legendre, from Quebec, rated No. 2 in Canada's Junior Division; Juan Oretiz, nationally ranked in the 18 year old division of Puerto Rico; Mark Harmeling, a junior player from New England; Rejean Gencos from Quebec; Nate Smith from Winter Park; and Steve Diamond from Miami. Others include Charlie Diggins, Frank O'Neill, Bob Pfaender, Neil Karadibil, Bob Boland, and John Harmeling.

Assisting Coach Barizon this season is Herb Rapp, last season's No. 1 player. Beside his coaching duties, Rapp is also handling the publicity for the team.

So it will be an extremely young squad that the Seminoles will field in cross country this season with only one senior, two juniors, two sophomores and three freshmen. Despite its youth, however, the Tribe runners have shown in the past that they have the capability of going a long way and with a lot of hard work and team leadership, the 1970 squad could be the best in the schools history.

Alwin Returns

Golfers Have Young Look

Florida State's golf teams have in the past ranked with the best in the nation and this year, Coach Scott Fletcher hopes, will be no exception. Last year, in his first season as golf coach, Fletcher guided the Tribe golf team to an excellent record. The Seminoles were victorious or placed high in all their meets, culminating in a bid to the N.C.A.A. tournament in Columbus, Ohio.

The team this year will be led by Mark Alwin, who as a junior is one of the brightest golfers in FSU history. New to the team this year are freshman John Ruby, winner of the New England State Amateur Golf Tournament; Junior College transfer Roby Wilson, and Jim Smith, the National Junior College champ, joins the team in January. Steve Mullins and John Godwin will be returning from last year's team.

Golf has been moving away from the dual match to more tournament play and the Seminole schedule takes them to tournaments in Miami, Cape Coral, and Houston. In addition, there are smaller meets at area schools, including a couple each year at the Seminoles' own course.

Anyone wishing to try out for the Seminole golf team should report to the University golf course on September 24.

Alwin Takes Killearn

Mark Alwin, FSU's Golfing star from last season, shot a final round 70 and easily coasted to victory in the third annual Killearn Invitational Golf Tournament, held at Killearn Estates Country Club, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

Alwin led from the opening nine holes of the 54-hole tourney shooting a 73 in the first round and then coming back in the second with a 75.

In the final round, however, Alwin completely out-distanced his opposition, shooting four birdies and three bogies for the 70. His 218 total was an amazing 12 strokes ahead of his next competitor.

Winning Streak

FSU Athletics Rate In Nation

The success of Florida State's athletic program, from the humble beginnings of a 0-5 record in its first football season in 1947 to the 1970 baseball team, which placed second in the National Championships, is unequalled for rapid development.

In just 22 years the Seminoles have developed one of the nation's best balanced and most successful athletic programs. Much of this success has come in the last decade as the Tribe made the jump from the ranks of a struggling independent to one of the country's top-rated programs.

In the last 10 years, Florida State's athletic teams have had seven winning seasons just seven years. In the last five years there have been just three losing teams out of the past three seasons when Florida State made its winning record.

The other two prospects are from out-of-state. One is Mike White, a 5-11 hotshot from Farmington, Mich., who had a batting average of .31 in 1969. The other is Jim Calkin, of the Atlanta Constitution, a writer, who went to the city and averaged 19 points a contest.

Other returning veterans on the team will be Ken Keller in the 100-pound class, Lee Webber in the 154, Almond Gosselin in the 175 and Ross in the 205.

The FSU Judo club will put on its annual exhibition match during the Activities Night on Sept. 19. Then on the 20th, the club will travel to St. Augustine for an open national tournament.

UNIVERSITY UNION

During that same decade, nearly 40 Seminoles have been honored with All-America ratings. Also, since 1960, the Seminole football team has been to four major bowl games, basketball to eight NCAA playoffs, golf to three national championships, tennis one and basketball one. In addition, the swimming and track teams have several outstanding individual performances in national championship competition.

Dean of the Seminole coaches is Bim Stults, tutor of the swimmers. The first and only tribe coach in the sport, he has suffered just one losing season—his first.

Mike Long has been coach of the Seminole Track team since 1955 and in his 15 years the Seminole runners have suffered just two losing seasons.

Bill Peterson took over the reigns of the Seminole football squad in 1960 and has transformed the Tribe into one of the strongest football teams in the country. His introduction of the "pro-offense" to the college scene has had resounding effect.

Florida State's basketball program is headed by energetic

PETERSON

Hugh Durham. The former Seminole cage student is well on his way to obtaining the three goals he established when he took over in 1966—playing in a national tournament, consistent top-ten ranking and a national championship.

Jack Stallings has been the Tribe's head baseball coach for only two seasons, but he has already taken the Seminoles closer to a national championship than any of his predecessors. In 1970, the Tribe had its best season, finishing 49-9-1, and finished second in the College World Series.

Florida State's golf and tennis teams were under the direction of new coaches last year, but both continued their winning ways. Scott Fletcher led the Seminole golfers to their third straight national tournament.

Pete Barizon's tennis team, after posting a 17-7 record, would have made the trek to the championships except for an eligibility technicality.

Lyttle Is In Yankees Good Grace

Ex-Florida State slugger Jim Lyttle is a regular starter for the New York Yankees now, after spending most of the season in the minor leagues serving in a pinch hitting role.

The change in pattern occurred when regular right-fielder Curt Blefary just couldn't seem to shake out of a prolonged slump he was having and the Yankee manager, Ralph Houk, decided to platoon the left-handed hitting Blefary with Lyttle in right.

Lyttle responded extremely well and in his first twelve games as a full-time starter, the ex-Seminole star had a batting average of .386.

Overall, Lyttle was hitting the apple at a .376 clip as of Aug. 30. At that time he had 24 hits

Ammann, Osburn Gone

With the loss of many players to the professional ranks, especially in the pitching department, the Florida State Seminole baseball team, number two in the nation last season, will be faced with the monumental task of rebuilding as Coach Jack Stallings goes into his third season as the Tribe manager.

Stallings, whose Seminoles went 49-9-1 for the 1970 season, lost all three of his top starters to the pro draft. They were Gene Ammann, the right-handed ace who recorded a perfect 15-0 record his junior year at FSU, Pat Osburn, the fireballing lefthander who had a great 12-2 record, and Mike Slade who had an 8-2 mark.

Then Mac Scarce, the Tribe ace reliever, signed a pro contract as a free agent and that was it for the four top Seminole hurlers.

Other players were lost to graduation. Topping this list is Dick Nichols, the All-America second baseman for the Seminoles who hit .343 as a senior. Other Tribe losses included centerfielder Greg Schnute, utility infielder Tom Porter, and pitchers Carl Gromek, Al Cleveland, and John Ferguson.

What's left looks something like this: At first base Doug Kasimier will return with both of his backup men also coming back, Jim Scheller and Mike Vasquez. Also, all three of the catchers, Harry Saferight, John Keith, and Dan Roatche, will be coming back to the wars in 1971.

The first hole in the Seminole lineup comes at second base where Nichols is gone. Right now the most logical replacement would be either former outfielder Larry Cocks or senior Rick Moss who saw very little action last year.

The shortstop and thirdbase positions are solid with Greg Gromek and Ron Cash returning to man the helms, but in the outfield it is a different story.

With Schnute gone and Cocks possibly moving to second, only John Grubb is left which gives the chance for two more holes in the starting lineup.

But the pitching staff is definitely the group that is full of leaks. Only three of the hurlers from the 1971 squad are returning, Tom Henson, Robin Flake and Dan Harbaugh. None of these men saw regular action in the previous season.

Possible replacements in the pitching corps are sophomores Bill Fuller, a lefthander, Bill Price and Dave Fernald, two righties, along with freshman hopeful Marty Rice of Leon High who is the freshman given the highest chance of making the varsity.

Other bright spots are Mike Lieber and Rick Snyder, both outfielders on the 1970 Renegade team. Three transfers from Gulf Coast Junior College could also make it big, two being infielder-outfielder Dan Doria and Dave Nichols along with pitcher Barry McQueen. Randy Dailey is a real comer in the outfield from Manatee JC.

But when it is all added up, many question marks keep coming out. Can the pitching of the 1971 team be brought up to the caliber of that displayed last season? Can the hitting remain stable enough to produce a winner?

Coach Stallings feels it can. He says that the first eight men in the order will be as good as, if not better than, last year. The key, once again, remains in pitching. The question is whether or not the Seminoles can find another Ammann, Osburn, and Slade.

Cappleman Waived

Former Florida State University quarterback Bill Cappleman has been put on waivers by the Minnesota Vikings after a long fall practice of shoulder pains and bench sitting.

Cappleman, who was the second draft pick of the Vikings last season, quarterbacked the first exhibition game of the season against the New Orleans Saints, a game in which the Vikings played for the first time. Cappel showed off fairly well even though the team lost 14-13 in a last second fumble recovery.

But after this rookie game the ex-Seminole standout was relegated to bench duty because of a recurring shoulder injury and a team plan which called for starting quarterback Gary Cuozzo to get as much work as he needed. Cuozzo took over starting assignment from Cappel who has failed, so far, to report to the Vikings because of a salary dispute.

Cappleman only saw action in one other contest as a Viking in a five minute stint in the fourth quarter of the New York Jets game, a contest the Vikings were leading 52-14 at the time.

By being placed on waivers Cappleman is in a position to be claimed by another team, although Minnesota officials say they will recall Cappel in the event that this happens. If no other team responds, the Tribe will

Freshman Football Team Looks To The Air Again

By John Cunningham
Assistant Sports Editor

The freshman football squad this year will be guided by Coach Don Blackwelder who came to FSU following a successful coaching stay at the University of Louisiana. Coach Blackwelder, who played his college football at Louisiana, directed the team at Edgewater to an opening 41-2 record.

The new 'Frosh' will be playing in the tradition of the Seminole football. They will be getting the ball in the air. To again the pass-catch tradition is the name of the game with the running game being a supporting role.

Leading the team this season is Fred Geisler, an All-State player from Orlando. Also on the team are Mark Dowley from Florida, and Dave Eddy, a receiver from Jacksonville, and George showing excellent potential. The defensive line is led by defensive end Johnny Lee (6-4, 230), and tackle Jim Howard (6-5, 230). Other defensive standouts are Paul Schmidt (6-11, 210) at Linebacker, Darryl Howton in the secondary, and George Sparling, also in the defensive secondary.

Satterfield, who is presently out with a broken jaw, but is expected to be ready for the

The corps of running backs, consisting mostly of converted quarterback, are led by Allen Kelly and Buzzy Lewis. The running backs this year aren't especially big or exceptionally fast, but according to Coach Blackwelder they perform their jobs adequately.

The 1970 freshman football schedule consists of four games. The opening game is October 3, against Georgia Tech in Tallahassee. It's an open weekend for the varsity and Coach Blackwelder is hoping for a large crowd. Other games are with Gordon Military Academy, The University of Miami, and the University of Florida.

Coach Blackwelder feels that he has a good offensive line with Don Spackman, Jim Hinsley, Keith Ottman, and Phil Arnold

Boosters Hold Eat-In

September 9 in the University Union, the Seminole Booster's Club sponsored a luncheon in which 850 people attended. Featured speakers were FSU President Dr. Stanley Marshall, Coach Bill Peterson and the entire FSU 1970 football squad.

Speakers representing the team in general were Ron Wallace and Tommy Warren.

Coach Peterson brought out in his talk that FSU had been operating on a football budget of about half that of other schools and that if they were to stay in national prominence, more money would be needed. A figure of $350,000 more a year was suggested by the mentor.

Of things in the future for Seminole football, Peterson also suggested an athletic dorm.

will be relegated to the taxi squad for the upcoming season.

Minnesota's second string quarterback is now Jacky Lee, an old-time AFL slinger who punts as well.

In the latest move, two teams attempted to claim Capleman so Minnesota officials automatically moved the ex-State thrower to the taxi squad.

"Bill Capleman is one fine quarter-back," said Jim Finks, vice president and general manager of the club. "He'll be our starting quarterback one of these years."

Barefoot Booter Is Seminole New Kicking Wonder

TALLAHASSEE--Frank Fontes, one of the country's outstanding placekickers, has signed a football grant-in-aid to attend Florida State University.

The Perth Amboy, N. J., resident attended Ferrum Junior College in Ferrum, Va., last year. He will be eligible to kick for the Seminoles this fall.

At Ferrum JC last season, the 5-4, 50 pounder booted six field goals of 45 yards or better. Longest of 1969 was 58 yards and he once kicked one 70 yards during a coaching clinic.

Fontes was born in North Africa and spent his early years there before his family moved to Perth Amboy.

"He has one of the strongest legs I've ever seen," said Florida State head coach Bill Peterson. "Not only does he have excellent distance on field goals, he can kick it into the end zone. This has been something that hurt us in previous years since short kickoffs allowed opponents the opportunity for runbacks and good opening field position."

Fontes, pictured below, was highly sought by many universities and originally signed with the University of Alabama. However, he decided not to attend Alabama when it was determined he would not have been able to kick for the Tide this fall, since Southeastern Conference rules require a junior college degree for immediate eligibility.

At Ferrum, Fontes was required to placekick with his shoelaces under junior college rules. However, he prefers to kick with his shoe off and he will have that option this fall at Florida State. "The signing of Fontes should really improve our kicking game," said Peterson. "And a good kicking game is something you have to have to produce a winning football team."

No Block Seating

There will be no block seating for football games this fall. The decision has been made after the administration decided to charge fans $5 to go to football games this year.

Student Government has been a vehement opponent of the ticket prices, and of the plan on University caused by an overemphasis on intercollegiate athletic expenses.

Student Body President Jim Sherman said, "The argument of intercollegiate athletics has been totally unresponsive to the desire of students to have an adequate athletic program. Upon the priorities of an educational institution and the financial resources available. Consequently, we shall not cooperate with them in paying block seating or other programs."

Discount Plan To Students

By John Worthington
Of the Flambeau Staff

Purchasing power is the key to the Student Discount Plan (SDP) organized by Student Government's (SG) consumer affairs office. SDP members receive discounts of five to 50 percent on merchandise purchased from specific local merchants.

Don Muse, secretary of consumer affairs and organizer of the plan, said he expected to have 1,500 members in the program by the end of registration. "The average student spends $100 a month with local businesses.

"Fifteen hundred students represent a purchasing power of $150,000 per month which can be used to influence merchants to join the plan," said Muse. "The more students we can get to join the plan the more effective we will be in getting merchants to join the plan," he said.

Presently, there are over 30 local merchants offering special discounts to SDP members. Participation in the plan entitles a student to a discount card which he shows to the merchant to receive a discount; a list of participating merchants and an association newsletter of consumer information with a list of new merchants in the plan will be mailed every third week.

The fee for membership is 50 cents. The fee is used to pay for the newsletter's postage and toward the start of a co-op bookstore sometime in the future.

Members can receive discounts on records, clothes, gasoline, auto parts and repairs, art supplies, wigs, dry cleaning and many other products and services.

SDP has been running into considerable trouble trying to set up the plan. Muse reported the disappearance of two 50-lb. boxes of literature on the program and maps donated by the Chamber of Commerce during the first half hour of registration Wednesday.

He said that certain local merchants, who now have a large share of the student trade, feel threatened by the plan, fearing it will take business away from them. However, Muse points out that many merchants were cooperative, as is shown by the 30-plus merchants who have joined the program.

Membership cards will be on sale in the Union Arcade all this week, or they can be purchased in the SG offices on the third floor of the Union.

"If student response to the program continues through this week then we can use the membership fees and the combined purchasing power to contact national concerns about joining the plan," said Muse. "We can also contact the Berkeley (University) co-op, a non-profit corporation which went national, and try to set up a local co-op food store."

Muse said that long-range plans for the SDP include the possible extension of the plan to include the faculty. There is also the possibility of cooperation between FSU and FAMU in the program, according to Muse.

When asked about the similarity between the SDP and the old Seminole Discount Plan, Muse said that the new plan has more merchants than the old program and that the discounts are good all the time on all merchandise on the SDP as compared with certain hours and selective products in the Seminole Discount Plan.

"The SDP will constantly remind students of the plan and participating merchants through the newsletter," he said.

Mancha, Sherman Debate Athletics

By John Snively
Of the Flambeau Staff

Student Body President Chuck Sherman and Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha will debate the importance of intercollegiate athletics as related to FSU Wednesday at 3 p.m. behind Moore Auditorium. The debate, sponsored by the University Union Forum Committee, will concentrate on the financial aspects of FSU's athletic program.

In an interview Friday, Sherman said he will read a prepared statement at the beginning of the debate and will make several specific proposals as to how the athletic program can be put into better perspective with the goals of the university.

One of the proposals Sherman said he will make is to have Florida State form a new athletic conference. This conference would be composed of schools which want to compete within specifically regulated athletic budgets.

"I have nothing against intercollegiate sports and don't want to see it done away with at Florida State," said Sherman. "I do feel, however, that the athletic program should operate within a reasonable budget and not have to depend on Student Activity fees and other sources which should be used for more educational and cultural activities."

Recently $190,000 was allocated to intercollegiate athletics out of the Student Activity budget for 1970-71.

Sherman said he does not think that FSU can or should try to play big time football on the level of Notre Dame or the University of Alabama. He explained that these schools can operate on tremendous budgets because they already have established traditions, sellout seasons and generous alumni associations.

In comparison, Sherman said, Florida State is located in a relatively small town and local support does not produce the needed income. He said the only way FSU can get the money for big time football is to draw from revenue which should be applied to growth of the entire university.

In addition to his debate with Mancha, Sherman plans to discuss intercollegiate athletics with other student leaders when he attends a national conference for student body college presidents in Washington, D.C. next weekend.

Sherman added that his plans to talk to the other presidents are to find out what the general attitude toward intercollegiate athletics is around the nation.

Athletic Director Mancha was in Atlanta over the weekend and was unavailable for comment on the scheduled debate.

London Center Gets Approval

The Florida Board of Regents approved Friday the establishment of a new study center in London, England. The program will begin next summer. The center will be similar to the study center which has operated in Florence, Italy for the past four years. The first class will consist of 100 students drawn from all schools in the state university system. The director and faculty will be from Florida State. Students will pay regular fees plus room, board and transportation. Additional state appropriations will not be needed. Total cost for the two-quarter program is $1,675 for undergraduates and $1,725 for graduates.

The center will be housed in rented buildings where students will live and attend classes. Students will visit various points of interest in England and well-known English lecturers will be utilized in class outings.

Approximately 30 percent of the students attending the Florence Center are from state universities other than FSU. Planners of the overseas programs are hopeful that even more non-FSU students will apply for both programs and that eventually the faculty can be expanded to include more non-FSU faculty.

Chancellor Robert Mautz, in recommending approval of the center, told the Regents that "the Florence Center program initiated four years ago has been a successful one and demonstrates that such an operation of much educational value can be operated without extra expense to the state."

England was chosen as the site because of its historical significance as America's mother country and because there are many facilities for research for both students and faculty.

FSU Prof Relates Days Of Desert Hijack

by Kathy Henderson
Of the Flambeau Staff

The longest day for Miss Sylvia Jacobson, a professor at Florida State, was last Friday as she waited—captive of Arab guerrilla hijackers.

"We sat waiting, not knowing when we would get off. There was no news," said Miss Jacobson, who was aboard one of the three planes, (Swiss, British, American) hijacked and flown to the desert last week.

The associate professor of social work at FSU who returned to Tallahassee last Sunday, said the 280 hostages including ten babies, 30 children, two pregnant women and a honeymoon couple were never sure of their fate.

"Until two Danish journalists who were in Amman were allowed to come on board late Wednesday, we felt completely deserted. They were hurried through the plane, but as they went through, they told us that all the world knew what had happened and that knowledge made us feel better," she said.

The hijacking had begun just after the captain announced that in a minute the passengers could see Brussels from the left side of the plane.

"A woman came running down the plane followed by a man with a gun. We crossed back over Italy and thought we were being taken to Africa," said Miss Jacobson, somewhat tired from the ordeal.

The TWA plane landed in the blistering bare desert sands followed shortly by the two other planes. The captain had saved enough fuel to make an escape to Beirut if possible.

"We were never allowed to mix with people from the other planes. We were told that no one would leave the desert until all their wishes were met," she said Saturday night, speaking at the Temple Israel in Tallahassee.

A truck drove up with a ladder and all visas were stamped with "voluntary visit to the desert on this day," said Miss Jacobson, who had just completed a course at the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, and was returning home at the time of the hijacking. She had boarded the TWA flight in Athens.

The FSU professor had had to destroy all the work done in her summer studies and a log which she had kept during the hijacking. "We had to throw out everything that was from Israel," she said. Miss Jacobson said she had later discovered that the plane was surrounded by four concentric circles: the first ring was armed men; the second, armed trucks; then the Jordanian army; and some 17,000 Israeli soldiers.

"We were actually safer on the plane surrounded by all the armies. Each army was protecting their own interest," she said.

"Our immediate captors were all women. They commanded the armed men," the social welfare professor said.

"They seemed determined that no harm should come to the women and children and none did. The same three women shared this duty the whole time," she said.

"Nata was a classic beauty, carefully coiffeured and groomed, though in regular army uniform, as were all the women, and heavily armed. She was an elementary school teacher.

"Palestina was very beautiful and always wore a headdress which she pulled up over her face whenever she was photographed to avoid recognition.

"Hela had been engaged to be married just before the Six Days War several years ago and had not seen her fiance since that time. She was an elementary school teacher," Miss Jacobson recalled.

The hostages received two meals a day after Monday. The food pattern was always the same: two plastic sacks each, one filled with fruit and the other with one or two "pitta"—Arab bread stuffed with chopped eggs, meat or jelly. "We all shared whatever food we had in our suitcases," she said.

"Sometimes we were sure everything was over for us and other times we would feel more comforted," Miss Jacobson said.

The professor said they stayed with the blinds down during the day to keep cool. The Red Cross provided portable air conditioners, but they were not powerful enough to cool the

Task Force To Hold Open Meeting

The task force on Student Publications open meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 8, from 7 to 9 p.m. in Moore Auditorium.

Dr. Robert J. Kibler, chairman of the task force, announced a week ago the study group's intention to hold the meeting. He said it is the group's last major task before it begins preparing its recommendations.

Kibler announced the date and site of the meeting in a statement released Friday.

Any student, faculty member or staff member may speak at the meeting, Kibler said.

"The task force is nearing the time when its report will be written," he said. "However, before that report is drafted, the group wants to be sure that every interested person in the university community has had an opportunity to present his ideas to the task force."

Persons wishing to speak at the meeting should call Miss Kathy McManus, secretary to the Board of Student Publications, at extension 4810 and request that their name be placed on the agenda, Kibler said. This should be done by Oct. 7. Kibler urged those who plan to speak also to submit their comments in written form that the comments might produce maximum results. However, this is not mandatory.

He invited those who do not want to speak at the meeting, but who want to address themselves to the task force, to submit a written statement.

President Stanley Marshall appointed the task force in June to undertake "a broad study of the relationship, function and purpose of student publications" at FSU.

This summer, the group interviewed students, faculty and staff affiliated with the FSU publications. The group also contacted colleges and universities throughout the country seeking information on their student publications.

Kibler said the task force's report should be completed by the end of this quarter.

Members of the task force are Dr. Richard Baker, professor of marketing; Dr. William Vandercreek, professor of law; Edwin Stacker, undergraduate student; Miss Mary Timmerlake, graduate student in education; Chat Sue, graduate student in student personnel work; Allen Morris, clerk of the Florida House of Representatives, representing the Tallahassee community; and Kibler, professor of speech.

Artists Series Ticket Sales Opened

Season tickets for the 1970-71 Artist Series went on sale at the Union Ticket Office Wednesday. Tickets will be available from 9 a.m.-4 a.m., Monday-Friday, through Oct. 15.

Since recent changes in Florida law prohibit special rates to faculty and staff, tickets for the eight-show season will be $25 for university personnel and the general public.

Artist Series committee chairman Hardin Goodman said the price provides a savings over purchasing each ticket on an individual show basis. It also is a change from last year when season-ticket-holders paid $25 for six of the eight performances.

Season tickets will cost $8 for students, and $12.50 for students' spouses.

Radio-TV Special Replaces Assembly

A special radio-television report to the University community will be made Wednesday evening in lieu of the convocation announced earlier for tonight in Campbell Stadium.

The presentations will be enhanced with films and other visual materials unsuitable to a stadium setting. The simultaneous broadcasts, over WFSU-TV, Channel 11, and WFSU-FM, radio, will be aired from 7 to 8 p.m.

Florida State President Stanley Marshall, the University's four vice presidents, and Student Body President Chuck Sherman will take part in the hour-long program. They will outline summer developments, fall plans, and make progress reports on academic, administrative and student programs.

Executive Vice President Cecil Mackey's report will concern budgets, organization, and urban redevelopment. Paul Craig, vice president of academic affairs, will describe the implications of reduced growth in student and faculty areas.

Administrative Vice President Robert Pierce is expected to discuss the University's physical development and supportive services. Acting Student Affairs Vice President Kimmel will talk about services for students and student interest in maintaining individuality.

FLS Offers To Babysit

Family Life Services (FLS) is again offering babysitting services to all married students and faculty of FSU.

FLS, an extension of the Office of Off-Campus Counseling, began the program last year with a limited number of women students. According to Mrs. Linda Hughes, FLS director, the program was beneficial to students desiring extra money and to married couples trying to find a sitter.

Students are needed to babysit on weekends, afternoons and especially during the football season.

Anyone interested in working as a sitter can contact FLS, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at 576-4279. In the evenings, students can call Mrs. Hughes at 576-6520.

Married students and faculty should call the FLS office to obtain a sitter.

Students will suffer financially because some local merchants are attempting to thwart a discount plan which would enable students to purchase products below the retail price.

In a college town where the student residents generally receive little income, it seems only fair to allow them an opportunity to buy below "hiked" prices.

There are approximately 30 merchants who will participate in this discount endeavor, people who still have old fashioned, home folk generosity for persons in a financial situation less stable than their own.

One may retort that everyone has to make a living which is true, but look at it in the dollars and cents light of a personal contribution to the future of our country. Students are here to gain knowledge which will insure a future with improvements for all mankind.

As the Bible says, "Love thy neighbor."

Handicapped persons in the Tallahassee area are fortunate to have access to the only outdoor recreation center of its kind, designed for the enjoyment of those with disabilities.

The project has been well received with hopes that other areas in the United States will develop to bring these people closer to normal life routines.

Again, sadly, there are the selfish few who destroy what they cannot have, what they are deprived of, or demolish solely for the sake of satisfaction. Be thankful that you have two feet to walk on and a brain to think.

Trout Pond Serves Area Handicapped

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—The unembellished brown and gold sign leading into the Apalachicola National Forest 12 miles south of Tallahassee reads simply "Trout Pond."

A little further in, another sign tells you it's a national forest—"a recreation area for handicapped."

It's the only recreation area in the United States that is designed exclusively for use by the handicapped, with every feature modified so that the halt and the lame—physically and mentally—can use it with as little assistance as possible.

On the wooden fishing pier—with 32 feet frontage on bream and bass-abounding trout pond—black-haired Barbara, with the help of a friend drove her wheel chair right under the rail, specially angled to make it comfortable for a wheelchair rider to rest her arms. Timbers around the outer edge keep the chairs out of the water.

Nick, nine years old and a resident of the Sunland Hospital for Retarded Children at Marianna, dangled a hook and worm over the side.

There's a swimming pool with a long ramp so wheelchair users can roll their chairs right into the water and cool off. There are benches in the pool for those who just sit—and four feet of water at one end for those able to swim.

There are also special steps, built to accommodate amputees on crutches or those who need to crawl. And there's a spray jet for those who can't go into pool. For the blind, there are special raised routing signs, bright white lines to mark the nature trails, raised yellow plastic striping to point the way to special places or signs.

The picnic tables, dressing rooms, water fountains, and toilet facilities are designed to accommodate the wheelchair user, or for the person on crutches. The doors are extra wide and equipped with delay-action closers which take about 30 seconds after opening to shut by themselves.

The U.S. Forest Service has already spent $131,300 on the project, which it hopes will become a model for similar projects in national forests in other parts of the country. To complete the Tallahassee facility, plans are to develop another 18 acres for camping for a total outlay when finished exceeding $268,000.

There is no fee and it can be used only by the handicapped and their families.

Flambeau, BOSP Touch

By Sam Miller
Associate Editor

The Task Force on Student Publications, when it submits its report to President Marshall later this quarter, almost certainly will recommend that significant changes be made in the present organizational structure of FSU's student publications.

Although the task force was instructed by Marshall to study all student publications, to include the yearbook, literary magazine and humor magazine, its report will center around the Flambeau.

This is proper because the task force's establishment was part of the president's response to a controversy which arose last spring over the selection of a Flambeau editor.

The controversy arose when the Board of Student Publications named as editor Jack Lieberman, known to students as "Radical Jack" because of his association with the Students for a Democratic Society and later the Young Socialists Alliance.

There were rumors a day or so before the BOSP met to select the editor that Lieberman was to be chosen. One BOSP member, Barry Mittan, told members of the Flambeau staff outright that four votes already were committed to Lieberman.

When Lieberman was selected, the staff protested. It charged the Board with unethical actions—claiming the Board had made up its mind to select Lieberman days before the interviewing of applicants was conducted.

(A subsequent investigation by Gerard Fowler, then Dean of Disciplinary and Judicial Affairs, revealed four student members had agreed before the interviewing to vote for Lieberman. One of the four, Bill McCauslin, had helped Lieberman fill out his application for editor and actually wrote the essay which applicants are required to submit with their application.)

In addition to their charges of a conspiracy to select Lieberman, staff members also charged that the selection was not conducted in an open meeting as is stipulated in the Student Body Constitution.

The BOSP agreed to conduct the interviewing and selection over again. This time, Richard Leslie, a graduate student with extensive journalism experience, was named editor.

The staff expressed confidence in Leslie, but also concern that he had never worked on the Flambeau. Because the BOSP had selected someone "from the outside" and because of the apparent conspiracy behind the BOSP's initial selection, the staff resigned in mass.

President Marshall, upon the recommendation of Dean Fowler, set aside the selection of Leslie. He subsequently appointed the task force, and the BOSP named an acting editor, Miss Sheila Snow, to serve until the task force completed its study.

Many of those who resigned have returned to the Flambeau this quarter. But their distrust of the Board and unwillingness to work under its auspices remain deeply ingrained. (Three of the students who apparently conspired to select Lieberman—Mittan, McCauslin and Hayne Dikes—still are serving on the Board. The fourth, Miss Debbie Nellis, has resigned.)

In a nutshell, the task force must recommend ways to get student publications, specifically the Flambeau, back on the road again. The distrust staff members have of the BOSP must be eliminated and a working relationship developed in its place.

It's quite an undertaking. And, in the eyes of one whose life at FSU has centered around student publications, it is well overdue.

huge metal plane. All passengers received good medical treatment, according to Miss Jacobson, who said one man had suffered a heart attack and two children developed tonsillitis.

She also recalled that each had been allowed to wash his arms and face from a community basin.

Families had been separated throughout the six-day ordeal, as a few men disappeared each night.

"Friday night all the remaining men were taken off the plane. We became awfully anxious. We had heard repeatedly that the plane would be blown up," Miss Jacobson said.

"There was never any hysteria or outburst of crying," she said. Finally Saturday, guerrillas had told the remaining women and children they could go.

"I think I was the third person to get into the bus, so I couldn't see exactly who all got off the plane," said Miss Jacobson, who thinks there are still several men held captive.

Israel Idle On Syria Aid To Guerrillas

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Deputy Premier Yigal Allon said Sunday night Israel would do nothing "for the time being about military intervention from Syria on the side of the Palestinian guerrillas battling Jordanian Army forces in the neighboring Arab kingdom.

In an interview on Israeli State Radio, Allon said he hoped the Syrians would think again before they penetrated too deeply into Jordanian territory.

It was the first official Israeli reaction to reports that armored infantrymen had invaded Jordan from its sister Arab state on the north.

Earlier, an Israeli army spokesman denied Arab guerrilla reports that Israeli warplanes had supported Jordanian troops in fighting Sunday at the Jordanian town of Ramtha, on the border with Syria. The charge was made in a broadcast by the Damascus-based "Voice of the Palestine Revolution."

"Nothing of this kind ever took place," the Israeli military spokesman said.

Prof Honored At Alma Mater

Dr. Eugene D. Nichols, head of mathematics education at Florida State, was presented the University of Illinois College of Education Distinguished Alumnus Award Friday.

The awards program "recognizes outstanding contributions to the field of education and thereby focuses public attention on the achievement of selected recipients. The total contribution to the profession is of dominant importance."

Well-known for his efforts in developing programs to teach "new math," Dr. Nichols received master's degrees in mathematics and education and his Ph.D. in mathematics education, all from the University of Illinois.

He currently serves as a director on the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and has written numerous articles and publications in addition to more than 15 textbooks.

He conducted Florida State's Mathematics Camp, a pioneering effort toward the discovery of recruits for advanced mathematics and scientific study while they still were in high school or junior high.

Tickets On Sale For Drama Season

A wide diversity of drama and entertainment will be offered by Florida State's Department of Theatre for the 1970-71 season.

Main stage highlights will include the productions of "Guys and Dolls", the avant-garde "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern are Dead" and the children's show, "Peter Pan".

Two plays will be premiered on the main stage during the year. One by Joseph Hayes will highlight the 1971 Fine Arts Festival, and another by FSU playwright-in-residence Frank Gagliano will be presented in late spring.

Season tickets go on sale today at the Union Ticket Office. General admission for the season will be $10.95, with student season tickets at $6.95.

A raffle will also be held for season tickets. If the raffle winner has already purchased a set of season tickets, he will be awarded a set of patron's coupons, and will then be eligible to attend all functions reserved for those with patron membership.

Tickets for individual productions may be purchased at the ticket office a week prior to each performance. Individual admission to "Rosencrantz" and "Peter Pan" will be $2.50, student tickets $1.50. Admission to other main stage productions will be $3 for general admission and $2 for students.

In addition to Main Stage attractions, the Studio Theatre will offer a varied assortment of productions priced at 50 cents per person.

Included in studio productions will be "Androcles and the Lion", "City Scene" by Gagliano, "Night School" by Pinter, "Hide and Seek" by Gagliano, "Voodoo" by Gagliano and a play by Nicholson.

"The main thrust of the 1970-71 season will be to try to get the public used to the 'habit of theatre'", said theatre spokeswoman Judy Herr.

MAKING IT THROUGH REGISTRATION—These unidentified FSU students did not seem to mind the hassle of registration in Tully Gym. Just in case they were having too good a time to have their student ID cards made, they can get one any day this week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Florida Room of the Union. Special arrangements have to be made through the Media Center for students who have lost the ticket stub obtained at registration. Cards cannot be made without this stub. (Bill Wood)

Correction

Dr. Robert Weaver will appear on Tuesday, Oct. 6, instead of Oct. 13 as was reported in the registration issue of the Flambeau.

Dr. Weaver, a guest speaker in the University Lecture Series, will speak in Ruby Diamond Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The expanded program will attempt to bring theatre to the Tallahassee community and FSU students. Main stage productions, said Miss Herr, will be directed toward the local community, while studio productions will be oriented toward the student body.

"This is perhaps the most important year for the department," said Miss Herr. "We now have a huge faculty, and more than 200 majors in the department. We will attempt to make theatre just as important to local audiences as films are, and this year the department will either make it or break it."

School of Music Offers Programs

Florida State students and area residents will be given a chance to participate in several programs offered by the School of Music this fall.

Included are a lecture series featuring prominent music faculty members, a "Piano for Pleasure" instructional course, and the University Chorus.

The lecture series, given on ten Monday nights during this quarter, will feature music faculty members presenting individual comments entitled "Music In Our Changing World."

Registration for the class will take place during the first class session at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 28. Registration fee for the series is $7.50.

Participants in the series will be encouraged to gain a new perspective on the contemporary trends and the future prospects of music. A wide range of subjects will be covered, including "Composing Music In the 1970's" and "Merger of Jazz and Rock."

Classes will be held in Room 205 Music Building.

"Piano for Pleasure" will begin at 7:30 Tuesday, Sept. 29, when registration for the class will be held in the music school class piano room.

The ten-week course, designed for those who have had little or no piano background, will be conducted by Dr. Jack Swartz.

Instruction will be given in the school's electronic-piano laboratory. Simple piano literature will be used with an emphasis on popular music. Students will be taught to play both "by ear" and by reading music. Practice time for all participants will be scheduled as part of the class.

Class tuition is $50 per quarter. Participants need not be enrolled in any other courses at Florida State to take either of these special courses.

The University Chorus, under the direction of Joseph R. Flummerfelt, will present a shortened version of Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" as a highlight of its third season.

The first rehearsal will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 22 in Room 205 Music Building, with members of both the university and Tallahassee community invited to attend. Students may earn one hour's credit for participation in the chorus. No fee will be charged to either student or community participants.

History Tutorial Program

The Department of History is starting a tutorial program designed to help students with an inadequate preparation for history at the college level.

"The program is designed to inculcate a love of learning, and a sense that the history department cares about incoming freshmen," said Dr. Michael Pulman, director of the program.

Tutors will receive one hour credit for an average of three hours work per week. Any upper division student may apply for a tutorial position. Students interested in tutoring or in being tutored should contact Dr. Pulman, Room 431 Bellamy, ext. 4337.

LANGUAGE MAJORS

NSA speaks your language

And furthermore, if you are especially adept in certain foreign languages, the National Security Agency is ready to give you immediate linguistic assignments or may even train you in an entirely new language.

Demonstrated ability in language research can lead to more complex and sophisticated duties. The systematic accumulation of information, examination of data and preparation of special reports are important parts of these assignments. And scientific linguists will find nowhere else the opportunities for practical applications of their craft.

At NSA you will be joining an Agency of national prominence—a unique civilian organization responsible for developing "secure" communications systems to transmit and receive vital information.

NSA offers you this opportunity to further broaden your knowledge of modern language or area studies, and to use your talents in a challenging and rewarding career while you enjoy also the broad, liberal benefits of Federal employment. In return, we ask that you not only know your language, but that you be flexible, naturally inventive and intellectually curious. That's a lot to ask.

Do you fit the picture?

Where to go...what to do: Language applicants must take the Professional Qualification Test (PQT) as a prerequisite to NSA interviews for employment. Pick up a PQT Bulletin at your Placement Office, the sooner the better. It contains a brief registration form which must be received in Berkeley, Calif. by September 30 (for the October 10 test).

In the Future Computer Counseling For Students?

Harvard University professor Dr. David Tiedman believes interacting with a computer can help you reveal your "inner self" and help toward realizing career goals. Tiedman, on sabbatical leave, has been lecturing on his theory to graduate students in counseling education at FSU this summer.

"Although, we normally think of interacting only with humans," said Tiedman, "it is possible to do it with a computer."

As he sees it, choosing a life-career usually involves some soul searching where a person nulls desires over in his mind.

If a student has difficulty in determining what his career should be, he usually seeks a guidance counselor, who asks helpful questions and attempts to guide a student toward a goal.

Often when talking with someone, Tiedman explained, "we tend to throw up conscious or unconscious barriers that veil our real desires without realizing it, as a defense mechanism."

The inhuman aspect of the computer can help a student lower these barriers and furnish the guidance process.

Like a perceptive counselor, the computer can help student understand himself in interpreting his questions and feeding back the statement to the student.

By re-interpreting the question, the computer changes the perspective of the student and helps him find the goal he wants. This is Tiedman's interaction process.

Tiedman said the reinterpreted questions are often more self-revealing than any answer.

Surprising as it may seem it now occurs to this writer that this was Vasari's idea. At any rate Vasari painted this horrendous mural inside which would shock you all. Try as he might, the mural still wasn't too hot, certainly nowhere near Michelangelo's work, which makes Vasari's work look feeble upon comparison. However, Vasari did write an interesting book entitled, "The Lives of the Artists", which tells of all sorts of scandal and danger, "platzangst", "weltanschmerz", of the agonizing and ecstatic lives of the Florentine Artists, who were all quite a crowd, admittedly. Including old Vasari himself.

Dejected Island Rich In Indian History

INDIAN KEY, Fla. (UPI) — Indian Key once was infamous as a pirates' lair, later as one of the most corrupt cities of its time, but now it is overgrown with thorny hemp plants and no one really wants it.

The tiny island sits undisturbed and uninhabited off the coast of Florida, with only a few ruins left to mark its 300-year history as a haven first for the pirates of the Spanish Main, then for a 19th century "pirate" who made his fortune salvaging wrecked ships—ships that sometimes may have been wrecked by the so-called salvage crews.

The history of Indian Key came to an end 130 years ago with a massacre by Seminole Indians, the second massacre in the island's history.

Indian Key, then known as the Matanzas, began its bloody history in the 1650's after fierce Calusa Indians killed some 400 survivors of a shipwreck off the island.

In the late 1690's a trader named Antonio Gomez settled the island and made friends with the Indians. Some of the customers at his trading post were pirates, who began using Indian Key as a base from which to raid Spanish galleons passing through the Florida Straits.

When the pirates were chased away in the early 1700's, Gomez abandoned the island to the vegetation which grew back into the area he had wrecked into cleared.

In 1825 Jacob Houseman, runaway son of a New York merchant, bought the island from two squatters and used it as a base for his wrecking business.

The wrecking-salvage business generally was conducted out of Key West in those days, with crews salvaging the cargo of vessels gone aground or sunk on the uncharted reefs of the straits and filing claims with a Key West judge.

Houseman, however, found a friendly judge in St. Augustine and filed there. If business was slow, it was said, Houseman would order the masters of his wrecking fleet to force cargo-laden ships aground. Sometimes he would have filed a claim in St. Augustine before news of the wreck had even reached shore.

As his profit grew, Houseman built a mansion near the center of the island and set up housekeeping with one of the women he had imported from Charleston, S.C., to entertain his guests and wrecking crews.

With the help of Negro and Indian slaves, he built a huge warehouse and four big wharves, as well as the Tropical Hotel. Located on the sandy south shore, it had two floors, a big dining room and plush gambling casino, as well as a wing that housed the Charleston women.

One man attracted to the island for other reasons was Dr. Henry Perrine, who had served 12 years as American consul in Campeche on Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula. He planted dozens of Yucatan hemp plants on the key in hopes of launching a profitable new hemp industry.

Houseman received a setback in 1839 when his wrecking activities became so blatant that his master wrecker's certificate was revoked.

To support his island, he decided to turn his scruffy wrecking crews into a militia and the Territorial Legislature agreed to ask the federal government for funds so it could pay him $200 a head for every Indian he killed.

The Seminole Indians heard about the plan before Houseman had collected any bounty money.

Before dawn on August 7, 1840 a Seminole war party beached their canoes on the southern shore of the island, near the hotel, and spread out. On signal, they stormed into the hotel and homes on the island, killing many islanders in their sleep. The Indians captured a huge arms cache, and set all buildings on fire before the left.

Houseman and his common-law wife managed to escape the Indians but Perrine was killed. All that remains on the island now are ruins, covered with vegetation and the descendants of Perrine's thorny hemp plants.

Just by a quirk of fate and a surprising 98-degree temperature in Florida State find a quarterback.

After the Seminole offense,

These things are to be expected of a new quarterback. All leaders have a different cadence to which the players must adjust.

But even though the Seminoles under Whigham interceptions while running six times for 42 yards. This is certainly a creditable performance in anyone's book.

And as for the six-foot singer's mistakes, chalk those up to inexperience. His two interceptions were the result of his throwing into double coverage when all of his receivers were covered. With a little bit of work on the part of Peterson, however, this problem can be cleared up.

Despite his mistakes, Whigham was extremely impressive in his debut on regional television. With his build and soft release on his passes, you cannot help but compare him to the man he Coach Bill Peterson along with the rest of his staff, decided to sit in the entire second unit and give the starters a rest on this extremely humid afternoon. Frank Whigham was the quarterback.

Whigham's first three sets of downs were not very impressive. Penalties and fumbles in the backfield were the major causes of trouble.

the Seminoles drove to the six-yard line where a field goal failed.

For the rest of the afternoon, FSU was a different ball club. Under the direction of the Sanford, Fla. native, the Tribe scored two touchdowns and had numerous other drives stopped by fumbles, penalties and other such bad breaks while Tech was scoring on batted passes and broken plays.

Whigham ended the game with ten completions in 25 attempts for 201 yards and two

Cowens, Willie Hot On Celtics

The 1970-71 season will be that of the "New Celtics", and new they will be in most vital areas.

Perhaps the most profound change in the Celtics, who will play the Atlanta Hawks in a preseason game in Tallahassee Sept. 22, will be in the forefront.

said. "He penetrates well for a guard and has all the inside moves of a forward, plus being an outstanding shooter. He should be able to help us."

Another Boston rookie and FSU grad, Willie Williams, also is expected to see action this season, especially in the preseason.

The coming season could be a crucial one for Jo White, who figures to move permanently into the starting backcourt, and for Tom Sanders, who must prove that his damaged knee is sound.

Mr. Big of the Celtics, of course, is John Havlicek, who returns after his finest season as

...tough on boards

Boston has added three good-looking rookies and one veteran, all of whom, it is hoped, will give the Celtics the board strength it lacked last season with the retirement of Bill Russell.

Number one draft choice, Dave Cowens, former Florida State star, is a very fast, very quick, strong-jumping center-forward. He also has a great touch from the outside.

"Dave won't overpower folks like Atlanta's Walt Bellamy or Wes Unseld of Baltimore, but he has better speed and a great instinct for the boards," said Coach Tom Heinsohn.

Second draft choice Rex Morgan of Jacksonville University is a 6-5 wingman who should see plenty of backcourt action with the departure of Larry Siegfried and Em Bryant via expansion.

"We'll use Rex both at guard and in the corner," Heinsohn a pro, leading the Celtics in practically every vital department.

The pivot remains a question mark but Coach Heinsohn was pleased with Henry Finkel's progress last season and had Jim Barnes and Rick Johnson returning as well as Cowens.

The Celtics are coming back and Heinsohn has a firm sight on a playoff berth in the NBA's Atlantic Division. Youth will be served.

The game in Tallahassee will be at 8 p.m. in Tully Gym, September 22. Tickets are available at the Athletic Ticket Office at Tully.

played under all last season, Bill Cappleman.

At moments, Whigham displayed some pinpoint passing and several times he showed that the bomb at Florida State isn't dead with some heaves to the likes of Rhett Dawson, who made one unbelievable grab, and a rejuvenated Jim Tyson.

Whigham also showed that he can run and scramble with the best of them, and on several occasions, when spotting a hole in the Tech defense, would run up the middle for big gains, something that takes plenty of guts when you figure that there are six linebackers and defensive backs out there to get you and no blockers to lead the way.

Certainly, one could say that his performance was something less than spectacular. Any time you lose there is room for plenty of improvement. But Whigham's showing was, for sure, a breath of fresh air after watching five quarters of boredom the preceding two games.

Peterson was also impressed with the performance by Whigham. "Considering the pressure," he said, "he did an outstanding job. He got in there and he got the job done and he'll be my starting quarterback in next week's game, no question about it."

...bright spot on dreary offense.

So take heart, Seminole fans. With the schedule the way it is, FSU will get a test this week against Wake Forest and then a week off before having to face the tough Florida Gators in "the" game. This will give Whigham and the boys quite a bit of time to work the bugs out.

Coach Jack Stallings has announced the first day of fall baseball tryouts as Wednesday, September 23. Baseball has become a prominent sport at Florida State with the varsity placing second in the nation and the 'B' Team Renegades ending with a 13-9 record.

All interested boys, especially freshmen and sophomores, should report at 4 p.m.

Pirates Bulge West Lead

By Martin Lader
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK, (UPI)—Willie Stargell led off the 10th inning with a homer and Gene Alley followed with a two-run triple to boost the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 9-5 victory over New York in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday after the Mets had taken the opener, 4-1, behind Jerry Koosman's sharp two-hitter.

The split ended Pittsburgh to stretch its first-place lead in the National League east to two full games over Chicago, which lost at Montreal Sunday. The third-place Mets, with five losses in their last six games, remained 3½ games behind with only two weeks left in the season.

Stargell tagged the second pitch thrown to him by reliever Tug McGraw into the right field bullpen for his 31st homer of the year. Manny Sanguillen then had an infield single and was sacrificed to second.

Dean Chance came on in his first appearance as a Met and delivered an intentional walk to Dave Cash before Alley brought both runners home with his triple to right center. Alley scored the final run a moment later on a perfect squeeze punt off pitcher Dave Giusti.

The Mets, trailing 5-2, tied the game with one run in the sixth on Ken Boswell's homer and two more in the seventh on a double by Cleon Jones, a walk and two-out singles by pinch-hitter Ron Swoboda and Bud Harrelson.

Health Center To Dispense The Pill

By Kathy Henderson
Staff Writer

Birth control pills will be made available beginning Wednesday to students at the Health Center. State University coeds seeking medical requirements must first see Dr. Robert C. Hunter, director of Student Health Services.

Any girl, married or unmarried, may receive birth control pills from the Health Center if she has a competent medical history and has had a physical examination from the gynecologist from the Health Center.

Dr. Hunter, head of the gynecology clinic, will be responsible for making the decision at the university level if it is safe for a girl to take the pill, Hunter said.

"The examination will include checking for blood clots, pelvic and breast examination, and a papsmear," he said.

A student unmarried and under 21 can also receive the pill with written parental consent, Hunter said.

"The individual consenting must know what they are consenting to. The format for obtaining consent has not yet been worked out, but we hope to have it within the next couple of weeks," he said.

The director of Student Health Services said he anticipates that students will make application to us and then, the clinic in turn would send the applications to the parents spelling out the problems connected with the pill.

"This is an advantage because it will allow us to intercede in crossing the communication barrier which exists in almost all families," Hunter said.

He explained for all students issuing the pill is "basically a medical question to be decided between the patient and the doctor, with the same medical restrictions as anywhere."

Hunter said they would obviously begin with those not requiring parental consent.

"We have to develop our techniques in operating the clinic. We don't want to have a large hump (amount) of examinations which we can't handle a year from now, since we will require annual examinations," he said.

"We'll start small and work up. We are opening the clinic on the fourth floor of the center and we will have six different examining stations," Hunter said.

Additional equipment has been ordered to make the clinic more efficient, Hunter added.

The cost of the contraceptive service totals $21 ($10 for the examination, $6 for a 6-months supply of pills, and about $5 for a lab fee), the director estimated.

Students must make an appointment with the gynecologist which will be kept confidential. However, the issuance of the pill will go on the student's health record.

"This is not a major decision or a change in policy. Issuing birth control pills is a basic requirement of the medical practice. The only decision I'm making is developing our capabilities so that we can handle it," Hunter said.

The medical doctor said he thought it was really something the college should have been doing all along.

Transportation Experts Meet Here This Week

South Carolina Governor Robert McNair, Deputy Secretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation, and Florida Representative Vernon Riffe will headline a two-day transportation conference here Thursday and Friday.

The conference is sponsored by the Department of Continuing Education and the Department of Urban and Regional Planning at FSU. Subject of the conference will be the role of the state in transportation.

Officials will meet to discuss their particular state's transportation problem. Present will be California Assemblyman John Foran; George Conking, Commissioner of the Connecticut Department of Transportation; and Louis E. Keeler of the Department of Highways.

Jacksonville Mayor Hans Tanzler, Sidney Swope, president of the Florida Bus Association and Prime Osborn, vice president of the Seaboard Coast line, also will be present to discuss mass transit, state wide transportation problems and metropolitan transit.

To Debate Athletics With Sherman

Mancha Wants No War

Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha said Monday he does not plan to present any kind of prepared statement when he and Student Body President Chuck Sherman debate Florida State's intercollegiate athletic program Wednesday at 3 p.m. behind Moore Auditorium.

Sherman said Friday he will join the debate by reading a prepared statement which will include several specific proposals as to how FSU's intercollegiate athletic program could be "altered to better serve the goals of the university."

Mancha said he will listen to Sherman's statement and then try to answer any questions which have been raised.

"I'm delighted to have the opportunity to discuss the FSU athletic program," Mancha said.

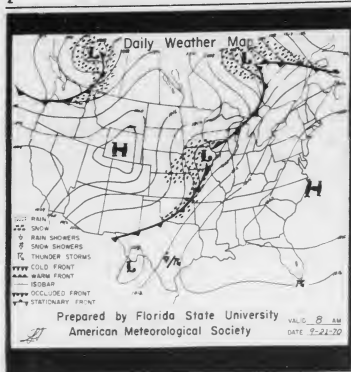

He added the athletic department is not trying to use the scheduled debate to create any kind of a "big war" over intercollegiate sports.

Mancha said he believes the athletic program at FSU is very much involved with the function of the university.

"I think we have a good program and welcome the chance to discuss it with anyone interested," he said.

Hendrix-Topic of Discussion

Acid-rock king Jimi Hendrix died last Friday in London of an apparent overdose of drugs.

According to British singer Eric Burdon, a close friend of Hendrix, the guitarist had spent the night with a girlfriend and "she found him in a coma and called for an ambulance." Burdon said, "All I know is that he had taken some sleeping tablets."

Three days after his death, Hendrix was still a topic of discussion at the rock concert in the Union Green on Sunday. Some rock groups played Hendrix material and Funk, Inc. dedicated their rendition of "Who Knows" to the late musician.

Both praised and condemned as a musician, people at the concert had their own varied opinions on Hendrix Funk, Inc.'s organist, John Christie, called Hendrix "an artist who was different from others because he combined expert skill and musicianship with creativity."

Christie was not the only one to praise Hendrix. Ai Rudolph, from Valparaiso, Fla., believes that the late rock king was one of the ten best guitarists in the world.

Opinions of Hendrix as a guitarist were not all favorable and many did not enjoy his material. Allen Dresser, an FSU junior, and Chris Drake, of the Third Condition, thought Hendrix took his gimmicks and distortions too far at the expense of his music.

Comptroller Summons Club Treasurers

A meeting of all treasurers of the organizations receiving Student Activities monies will be held Monday in Room 240 of the University Union, Student Government Comptroller Marc Sussman announced.

This meeting is being called due to the directive of the Board of Regents requiring a revised budget of all groups using funds from Student Activities fees.

The revised budgets are required since the final appropriated amount for 1970-71 budget by the Board of Regents does not match the amount used in the January's computations.

Attendance by the various treasurers of these organizations is mandatory, Sussman said. No money will be released from budgets of groups not presenting a revised budget in the standard form at the meeting.

Six Test Dates Set For Graduate Exam

Students preparing to go to graduate school may take the Graduate Record Examinations on any of six different test dates during the current academic year.

Testing dates are Oct. 24, Dec. 12, Jan. 16, Feb. 27, April 24 and June 19. Students planning to register for the first test are advised that applications received by ETS after Oct. 6 will incur a $3 late registration fee.

After Oct. 9, there is no guarantee that applications for the October test date can be processed. Equivalent late fee and registration deadlines apply to the other dates.

The Graduate Record Examinations include an aptitude test of general scholastic ability and advanced tests measuring achievement in 20 major fields of study.

Teachers Exam Slated

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations (NTE) Nov. 14, and Jan. 30, Apr. 3, and July 17, 1971.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges for specific advice on which examinations to take, and on which dates they should be taken.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from the Office of Evaluational Services, (OES), Kellum Hall Basement, FSU or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

OES has been designated as a test center for administering the NTE on Nov. 24.

At the one-day session a candidate may take the Common Examinations which include tests in professional and general education, and one of the seventeen teaching area examinations.

Exam results are used by many large school districts in the selection of new teachers and for certification and licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

The school systems and state departments of education which use the exam results are listed in an NTE leaflet entitled "Score Users" which may be obtained by writing to ETS.

Agostino The Mad Terrorizes Naples

NAPLES, Italy (UPI)—Police announced the arrest Sunday of a man believed to be "Agostino the Mad"—a daredevil motorcyclist who turned Naples upside down last month.

They said his real name is Antonio Mellino, and described him as a 23-year-old dweller in a Naples shanty town.

The antics of Agostino touched off rioting in Naples for several days. The mad motorcyclist used a souped-up machine to chase policemen, outrun squad cars, leap sidewalk furniture and terrify pedestrians.

In the process he picked up thousands of fans among Neapolitans glad to see authority defied. They massed on the streets to jeer police and in some cases threw rocks and bottles at them. The police replied with tear gas and baton charges.

More than 50 persons were injured in three nights of rioting that began Aug. 24, and about 150 arrested.

Agostino the Mad tore around the city on a Ducati 12500 bike that could exceed 100 miles per hour.

'Spirit' Trophy To Travel

Stan Hickey, assistant undersecretary of the Rally Bureau, said Monday that trophies for organizations showing school spirit at FSU will be awarded this year.

A meeting will be held tonight in Room 116 Bellamy for representatives from all organizations interested in participating.

The trophies will be given each quarter on a rotating basis. There will be an independent division and a Greek division. If an organization wins the trophy for two quarters in one year, the organization will be awarded a permanent plaque.

Activities Office Moves Into Union

Many students are unaware that Room 350 of the University Union houses the Office of Student Activities, a university service which secretary Linda Levins describes as a "support force" for the various groups and organizations on the FSU campus.

The Office is a new home for the office, which moved this year from Bryan Hall as part of a program to bring this service closer to the students and organizations it serves. In addition, a new post, the Dean of Union Activities has been created. This dean will supervise the Office of Student Activities as well as the Union Committees.

The Office of Student Activities does not exert control over organizations, but provides information, co-ordinates University activities, and assists in the planning and budgeting of organizations. The office compiles information about prospective organizations, but makes no decision as to official recognition.

The office has on file the current activities of university organizations. This information is available to any student who is interested in contacting a specific organization.

The Office of Student Activities will provide locked filing cabinets in which organizations can store files and records securely.

From the Editor's Desk

Nguyen Cao Ky, South Vietnamese Vice President, should not come to the United States to speak at a pro-war rally.

Ky recently announced he has accepted the invitation of sponsors of the "Rally for Victory" to speak at the demonstration. The rally is planned for Oct. 3 in Washington, D.C.

Despite considerable opposition in both Washington and Saigon to the appearance, Ky has refused to cancel it. Ky said Sunday it is a necessity for his people's struggle that he participate in the rally and "speak directly to the American people."

That Ky's appearance at the pro-war rally is a necessity for the struggle of the government of South Vietnam is, indeed, debatable. In fact, it is difficult to see that any good can come of his participation in the rally.

The American people are deeply divided over the war issue. Though the summer was relatively calm, the scars of last spring's reaction to the Cambodian invasion are deep. The calm which exists is a shaky one.

Ky's appearance would be protested by thousands. His outspokenness—which has included condemnations of U.S. doves—and lavish living habits—financed, at least partially, by U.S. funds—have made him the center of previous anti-war protests. As an aftermath to Kent State, this protest of Ky and the war would be the most intense ever. Violence would most certainly flare up. Injuries, perhaps even deaths, would most certainly occur.

Even strong supporters in Congress of U.S. involvement in the war oppose Ky's participation in the rally, feeling it can only further divide Americans on the war issue.

"My voice in the United States will be one of one warrior to another, of one ally to another," Ky said, perhaps trying to evoke the sentiment Americans held for their World War II allies.

Were he deeply concerned with strengthening the U.S.—South Vietnam alliance, Ky would take great pains, as did Churchill, to understand the American domestic situation and do nothing to make the job of his ally, the President, any more difficult.

Making a U.S. domestic crisis almost a certainty isn't the moral or expedient thing to do.

Litter Bits Hurt

To the Editor:

To those of us who have remained on campus during the summer break, the start of the quarter is made obvious in many ways—some more subtle than the sudden increase in traffic and the hoopla of football. I refer now to the large amount of litter which has appeared on campus in recent days.

On Sunday morning as I left the swimming pool and headed toward Woodward Avenue, I gazed upon the lawn behind the Union, strewn with paper and plastic cups, gum wrappers and newspapers. Everywhere I have walked this past week I have noticed trash left carelessly along the way.

When is the University going to put more trash receptacles on campus and see that the contents are frequently emptied? And when are the students going to become more responsible about using the containers which are already available?

Soon I hope!!

On Other Campuses SG Elections Apathetic

(Editor's note: The following is a reprint from the Palm Beach Junior College newspaper, The Beachcomber. Student Government elections at FSU commence in October.)

As has too often been the case in the history of PBJC's Student Government Association, last week's sophomore senate election was a sad exercise in futility.

With only ten candidates seeking the 12 open positions, voting became a student's expression of faith on a system that simply does not appear to be much more than a corpse—a pathetic replica of what democracy should be.

With less candidates than off-ices the elections denied every PBJC sophomore the right to select leaders that will be administering $4.35 of their $15 student activity fee spent directly by SGA each year.

Those ten individuals who sought to serve the student body deserve our thanks. Those students who went to the polls to offer their vote of confidence on their candidates have our appreciation. And those students—the vast majority—who stayed away from the polls should know that we share their dismay.

For the sophomore senate elections were a fiasco.

Today qualifying for the 12 freshman seats will open again. The PBJC system of government by the students will face a crucial test. Interested students could restore the faith of many of us by taking an active part in what purportedly is their government and seeking one of the freshman seats.

Or they can make a true anachronism of SGA by looking the other way and ignoring what they should view as a responsibility not only to their fellow students but to themselves.

Let us face some hard facts. Student Government is a way the administration has utilized to express its confidence on the students' ability to handle many of their own affairs—including their own money.

We think the students have the responsibility to demonstrate they are intelligent and most capable of handling their own problems. But, thus far this fall, we have failed to show this.

If by the time freshman qualifying closes next Friday the race has failed to attract some semblance of interest and participation we would have failed again—and SGA would stagnate.

If this happens, perhaps it will be time for us to take a good look at SGA to attempt to find ways in which to make it a truly functional institution.

Apartment Coming To University Housing

(Editor's note: Housing shortage is a problem at many universities, including the University of Minnesota as evidenced by the following reprint from the Minnesota Daily.)

Editorial

No one enjoys a housing shortage, but it is clear that the current lack of housing for University students and faculty will eventually prove to be a Godsend. New housing is being planned or built by the University and private developers, and the result will be a phasing out of the concept of dormitory living.

The University is increasingly acknowledging a basic truism: students are people.

It was just five years ago that the University radicalized dormitory visitation policy by allowing guests of the opposite sex in dormitory rooms from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday afternoons—providing, of course, that doors were left open 45 degrees.

Now open visitation is allowed where desired, with some silly restrictions.

And the new apartment style living will further help to provide students with the privacy all human beings have a right to enjoy.

The University's plans must still receive approval from the Board of Regents. Hopefully, they can be convinced that it is not the University's job to provide moral as well as educational supervision for students.

Story

By Dennis Sodomka

With the severe shortage of student housing this year, University officials have realized that they must build more on-campus housing. Even though the dormitories filled up faster this year than they have in many years (due in part to the housing shortage), most administrators talk about building apartments rather than dormitories.

Because of bureaucratic inertia, the first University housing project will not be ready for at least a year, so private developers will have to fill the gap. University officials are working primarily on medium and long range plans.

NO MORE DORMS

None of the plans for future campus housing includes dormitories; they all include some kind of apartment style living.

"I think you could safely say no more dormitories are planned for this campus," said Donald Finlayson, assistant to the vice president for planning and operations. "I think we've pretty well liked that issue."

"If we haven't flat out rejected the idea, at least we're ignoring it. There's no money out now for development or construction of dorm type buildings."

The biggest housing project now under consideration is the Como Ave. apartments, which will eventually have 545 units for faculty, staff and students. They will be built on the north side of Como Ave. where the intramural fields are now, with the first units available for occupancy by Sept. 1, 1971.

"There will be a variety of kinds of buildings from town houses to three-story walkups to medium-size apartment buildings," said Donald McInnes, another assistant to the vice president for planning and operations. "The architects have worked out some innovative designs in terms of efficiency, but the style of the project will be fairly conventional."

This will be the first University housing project to provide spaces for all three groups of University people.

"We felt that this kind of housing is more responsive to the development of our consumers—the students, faculty and staff," McInnes said.

Ecology Backlash

(Editor's note: The University of South Florida, in an article of the newspaper Orlando, speaks out on ecology.)

The ecology crusade, like all movements that try to force people out of apathy and into concern for themselves and society is facing a backlash.

The environment backlash takes two forms. One anti-ecology group thinks emphasis is misplaced, that environmentalists should place less emphasis on "animals in the wilds and fish in the sea" and devote more effort to saving people. The other group (which can be composed only of the smallest minds in the environment) thinks the whole thing is a lot of bunk that will blow away soon—the sooner the better.

The former school of thought makes a partial point. Our design should be to save ourselves. What they fail to realize is that our lives are inextricably linked to the lives of "animals in the wilds and fish in the sea." If you don't believe us, pay a visit to one of the departments on campus that studies the subject.

Marriage Counseling Offered Students

The marriage counseling service at FSU offers service to all members of the FSU community as well as to residents of Tallahassee. The clinic, located in Room 172 of the Bellamy Building, operates from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the regular school year.

Dr. John T. Greene, director of the counseling service, said that premarital discussions include exploratory and problem-oriented counseling.

In exploratory counseling, the counselor and couple discuss guidelines for the couple's potential as marriage partners.

Problem-oriented counseling is geared to resolve conflicts that occur before marriage or that may be obstacles to marriage. Such conflicts include concepts of man-wife roles, differences in religion, or differences in background.

The counselor may see married couples together or separately. Members of the staff do not counsel for or against divorce, Greene said, but try to help each couple arrive at the best solution to their problems.

Dr. Greene said that the counselors are second year doctoral students in the interdivisional program in marriage and family living. These students are eligible to counsel after they have taken a specific number of courses within the program.

Most of the counselors are professional people who have returned to FSU to specialize in marriage counseling. "A significant proportion of them are ministers, teachers, social workers, lawyers and clinical psychologists," Greene said.

Night Classes For Adults

Night courses for adults will be offered in the Tallahassee area this year. The School Service Center at FSU, located in the Division of Continuing Education, is coordinating the programs which will be taught by university faculty members.

Official registration will be held at the first class meeting; any student who fails to register at the first class meeting will be permitted to register at the second.

The following courses are offered for the fall quarter: Strategies of Instruction in Elementary School Mathematics; Innovations in Elementary School Science; Problems of Teaching Secondary Social Studies; Instructional Problems and School Organization and Juvenile Delinquency-Treatment and Control.

A class in economics is offered for the management personnel of the Buckeye Cellulose Company of Perry.

Health Center Changes

A patient appointment system, four new physicians, and establishment of specialty clinics are some of the changes expected to improve student health services at Florida State this year.

Dr. Robert Hunter, director of health services, announced that this year for the first time students will be able to make advance appointments for health care. In addition, walk-in clinics will continue to be available for students who need immediate attention.

Four new doctors, including two women, have been added to the staff. This brings the total number of women physicians to four. There are now 11 full-time and three part-time physicians on the hospital staff.

In addition to the general medical clinic, specialty clinics planned this year include minor surgery, mental health and gynecology. In the gynecology clinic, examinations and treatment for contraception will be available for married students, single students over 21, and other students with written parental consent. About one-fifth of all Florida State students are married.

Over-the-counter medications

(non-prescriptions) will be dispensed without charge but there will be a direct charge to students for all prescription drugs. Dr. Hunter said the cost will be below the price charged in outside pharmacies with student activity funds making up the difference.

Previously, students paid for only a few of the more expensive drugs. Dr. Hunter explained that the new system will allow the hospital to carry a more complete line and will enable physicians to prescribe refills.

There will also be a direct charge of $2 each for allergy injections. Dr. Hunter said they are provided as a convenience to the student and for the most part are required once or twice weekly for years.

Dr. Hunter also has asked Student Body President Chuck Sherman to appoint a medical advisory committee to meet regularly with the medical staff to make recommendations on improving service to students.

Dr. Hunter said there will be continuing emphasis on in-service training for all doctors, nurses and other hospital staff members.

"All of these changes are designed to improve the quality and quantity of service to our students," Dr. Hunter said. He continued, "Our emphasis is on quality and we intend to be the best."

New physicians on the staff are Dr. Frank G. Gagliano, a specialist in family practice; Dr. Jack Jones, a specialist in internal medicine; Dr. Johanna van Belle, and Dr. Margaret Westland.

Fall Elections

Filing for the Fall Quarter Student Senate elections will begin Monday, Sept. 28 in Room 331 of the University Union. Students interested in seeking a position in Student Senate will have until Monday, October 5 at 5 p.m. to fill out candidate forms.

In addition to the senatorial offices, a position is open for a National Student Association Coordinator. The election is scheduled for Tuesday, October 13.

students suffering from the heat of summer, the Williams Building is scheduled for renovation.

Cost of repairs and additions to the building totals more than $1,040,000, said Ray E. Green, Director of University Planning. The money to be used for the renovation was transferred from funds previously designated for renovation of the south wing of Westcott, Green said. Westcott was badly damaged by fire during the spring of 1969.

Thoughts of redoing Williams date back to 1956, according to Dr. Francis C. Townsend, professor of the English department which is based in Williams. At that time, air conditioning was proposed, but the proposal was dropped as an economy measure.

Because of the lack of classroom space during the early 1960's, coupled with the fact that the Williams Building was one of the most utilized on campus, other proposals for improvements were postponed.

With the addition of several buildings during recent years, the long-awaited repairs can now be made. Construction, however, will not begin until January of 1971, Green said, because arrangements could not be made to reschedule classes in other buildings before the fall quarter.

Completion of the work is scheduled for later in 1971.

Besides painting of walls and halls, improvements include air conditioning, new ceilings and lighting fixtures, and a new primary and secondary electrical system.

WILLIAMS BUILDING

... scheduled for $1 million renovation in January. (Jay Mesbahee)

Construction of enclosed stairwells, installation of fire alarm systems and installation of emergency lighting systems for fire protection equipment will also be made to bring the building up to standards with the Life Safety Code. The code was adopted by Florida last year, Green said.

LIBERAL ARTS MAJORS

PQT can open a whole new world of opportunity...

Each year, NSA offers challenging career opportunities to Liberal Arts majors through participation in the Professional Qualification Test. This year, NSA has scheduled the PQT for Saturday, October 10. Completion of this Test by the Liberal Arts major is a prerequisite to consideration for NSA employment.

The Career Scene at NSA: The National Security Agency is the U.S. Government agency responsible for developing invulnerable communications systems to transmit and receive vital information. As an NSA professional, you will be trained to work on programs of national importance in such areas as:

- Cryptography—developing & logical proving of new crypto-logic concepts
- Research—the gathering, analysis, and re- porting of substantive data

- Language—used as a basic tool of research into a number of analytical fields
- Programming—includes data systems program writing, and development of mechanical and administrative procedures
- Documentation—technical writing in its broadest sense, including research, writing, editing, illustrating, layout and reproduction

Your specific academic major is of secondary importance. Of far greater importance are your ingenuity, intellectual curiosity and perseverance—plus a desire to apply them in assignments where imagination is the essential qualification.

Salaries start at $8,000.00 and are supplemented by the benefits of career federal employment.

Advancement and Career Development—NSA promotes from within, and awards salary increases as you assume greater responsibility. NSA also is anxious to stimulate your professional and intellectual growth in many ways, including intensive formal as well as on-the-job training. Advanced study, if job related, is available, at any of seven area universities and can be partially or wholly reimbursed through NSA Fellowships or other assistance programs.

The deadline for PQT applications is September 30 (for the October 10 test). Pick up a PQT Bulletin at your Placement Office. It contains full details and the necessary test registration form. # Law School Admission Tests Given

The Law School Admission Test, required of candidates for admission to most American law schools, will be given on Oct. 17, 1970, Dec. 19, 1970, Feb. 13, 1971, Apr. 10, 1971, and July 13, 1971.

Candidates for the test should receive a copy of the Bulletin of Information, which includes the LSAT registration form and sample questions.

A copy of the bulletin, registration form and announcement can be obtained either by writing to the Law School Admission Test, Educational Testing Service, Box 544, Princeton, New Jersey, 08540, or from Dr. H. R. Glick, 544 Bellamy.

Registration for this test does not constitute application for admission to law school. Such admission must be made by writing appropriate papers with the institutions involved.

The registration form and fees must reach Educational Testing Service at least three weeks before the desired test date.

Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding entrance, applicants for admission to next year's classes are advised to register for the October, December or February test.

Also included in the bulletin are an announcement of the admissions services and the names of law schools participating in the services. Applicants to these law schools will follow new application procedures.

Chicano Moratorium'

'Chicano Moratorium,' a film protesting the Mexican American protest against the war in Southeast Asia, will be shown tonight in Moore Auditorium at 7:30.

The film was produced by Newline Films and revolves around the Chicano Moratorium of May, 1970, in which 7,000 people marched in Los Angeles.

Following the film, sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee, a discussion will center on the August 1970 protest march in which three people were killed.

Sorority Rush

Gamma Sigma Sigma, a service sorority, will hold rush registration today and tomorrow in Room 224 Union House 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The sorority's first rush party will be held tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Leon-Lafayette House of the Union.

The girls in the sorority work as ushers in campus events, as poll workers in university elections, and in other capacities in the university and community.

The FSU chapter was incorporated in 1967 and 1969 as the first chapter in the nation to have the national sorority.

Still another campus comedy has been released. Getting Straight is presumably set at Whittier College but has a student body analogous to Berkeley's. In this contemporary setting the social problems that confront today's youth are brought, once again, to light: the draft, black studies, relevance, sex, et al.

Like Zabriski Point the plot purposely lacks substance. The characters, trapped in an intellectual maze, thus are found suffering from an acute state of confusion. But, unlike in the humorless Zabriski Point a savior appears, Elliot Gould of *M*A*S*H* fame.

Gould is cast as a very hip, domineering contemporary prophet. Innumerable disciples gather at his feet to breathe in his words of wisdom. As in *M*A*S*H* Gould is superb, playing his part most convincingly, and is extremely funny at times.

Shortly after the first reel had begun it was obvious that the writer, Bob Kaufman, had his tongue firmly in cheek. To be more specific, the film is an outrageous put-on.

The audience is consistently bombarded with bits and pieces of mundane humor such as, "There is no gravity—the earth sucks." Lines similar to this occur so frequently that the audience is beaten into submission. After the first hour laughter becomes less frequent and audible, although the fast-space dialogue remains.

Director Dick Rush makes no claims of creating a unique film. Shades of The Graduate haunt the viewer in the sex scenes, and someone sounding like Simon and Garfunkel can be heard now and then. A voluptuous black chick seems to have mistakenly wandered onto the set from Three In The Attic.

The remarkable similarities to Zabriski Point are most evident when the local activists gather for a rap session. No one has anything to say but continues to speak nonetheless. The atmosphere of this gathering is reminiscent of a planning session for a high school prom.

Robert Lyons, who plays Nick, typifies the shallowness of Getting Straight. He is first seen stoned out of his gourd, doing all the "IN" things without thought or reservation. A letter of draft induction arrives and he begins to freak out: playing a bag, entering divinity school, trying to flee to Canada, but finally enlisting in the Marine Corps. Lyons is good but his part lacks substance and credibility.

The dialogue is unfortunately quite weak. The script not only suffers from a case of longevity, but from an overdose of ineptness as well. It is most discouraging that the overall excellent acting did not compensate for these shortcomings. The photography was catchy but not good enough to merit discussion.

Celtics, Hawks Here Tonight

Professional Stars Play First Game

Two of the nation's top collegiate performers last year, Florida State's Dave Cowens and LSU's Pete Maravich, make their pro debut here Tuesday night, Sept. 22, at 8 p.m. in Florida State's Tully Gym.

"I don't believe that this part of the state has ever had so much athletic talent in one place at one time," said Seminole Coach Hugh Durham. The Celtics and the Hawks are bringing two of the best players in the National Basketball Association to Tallahassee. The fans of this sport will have a treat in watching the game.

Although it will be their first appearance, it will not be their first meeting between Cowens and Maravich. As players they faced off in the 1969 Milwaukee Classic. The Seminoles won that encounter 102-100.

They were two different types of ball players in college," said Durham. "But they were both great."

Pete had a team built around him while Dave did a lot of self-sacrificing for the good of the team.

"I think from this standpoint," Durham concluded, "that Cowens' transition to the pros will be a lot easier."

Williams came on exceptionally strong for the Seminoles last year, but must make the difficult transition from the low post to an outside shot on the pros.

"His game improves as much as it did between his junior and senior years, though," said Durham, "he has an excellent chance of making it."

Durham also had kind words for Morgan. "We had the fortune, or maybe misfortune, of playing against him for two years. He is a great competitor and I hope he does well. It is a tribute to this entire area that three players from the region were drafted by one club."

The game is being sponsored by the Seminole Tipoff Club. Tickets are $5 for reserved seats and unserved seats in the end zone sections of Tully Gym are on sale for $3 at the athletic ticket office.

Intramurals

Under the leadership of a new director, Paul Dirks, men's intramurals ends its season with some orientation meetings which will discuss the upcoming swimming meet as well as the flag football season.

The first intramural meeting of the Greek season will be at 7:45 p.m. Sept. 22 in Room 352 of the Union.

The first Dorm-Independent manager meeting for the 1970-71 season will be held on Sept. 23 in the Union, Room 346, at 7:45 p.m.

Attendance at the intramurals organizational meetings is extremely important if you wish to enter a team in the program. After the organizational meeting divisions will be set up and a schedule will be announced.

Hawk's Bridges Kicked Off; Reinstated After Big Meeting

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Veteran forward Bill Bridges of the Atlanta Hawks was suspended briefly from the team by Coach Richie Guerin Monday, but was reinstated two hours later following a meeting with Guerin.

Guerin announced the suspension from the Hawks' training camp shortly after 11 a.m. He said Bridges was suspended indefinitely and removed as team captain for his "unbecoming" attitude.

A team spokesman said Bridges left the camp and returned to the team's motel from which he called Guerin. The coach then drove to the motel.

"He and Richie got together and talked it over and everything has been worked out," the spokesman said. "The suspension was dropped and he was reinstated as captain."

The Hawks' spokesman said the suspension grew out of a "bunch of intangibles" and refused to go into detail. He said Guerin told him "the incident is closed."

Immediately after the suspension was announced, Bridges had accused Guerin of "overreacting" and said he (Bridges) shouldn't have come to camp.

The 6-6 Bridges, a rebounding mainstay of the Hawks' forward wall, said the dispute was due to "personal problems" which had bothered him since last summer.

He said he had "reacted to a situation and Richie overreacted. I think that was the whole thing." Bridges said he wasn't ready to come to training camp and "I know now I shouldn't have come in."

Bridges said also he had been seeing a doctor all summer but he did not say what kind of doctor.

Maravich To Be Here Tonight Too

Take it from someone who's been there and was a great one himself, Pete Maravich is going to be nothing less than sensational in the National Basketball Association.

The authority is Bob Pettit, who for 11 years was the star of the St. Louis Hawks and an all-NBA performer every year and has seen Maravich in at least 20 games.

"I don't see how he can miss," said Pettit. "He has a fine future in the pros. If he doesn't get hurt, he could go down as one of the all-time greats."

So sure is Pettit of Maravich's potential that he said such things before the Pistol from LSU has played in his first pro game.

"He's got all the talent necessary. In my years in the NBA, I played with and against some of the best—guys like Oscar Robertson, Bob Cousy, Jack Twyman—and Pete has the ability to move right in with the all-time greats in the league."

Maravich makes his pro debut in pre-season with one of the games scheduled for Tallahassee on Tuesday night, Sept. 22 in Florida State's Tully Gym. The Hawks play Boston.

It's ironic, perhaps, that both Pettit and Maravich attended LSU and both signed with the Hawks, Pettit with St. Louis and Maravich, of course, with Atlanta.

ANNOUNCING

The International Club is trying to form a soccer team and would like as many people as possible to attend the organizational meeting. The team will be open to anyone but would especially like many foreign students to join the team and enjoy the sport of soccer and become active in university activities.

All persons interested in forming the soccer team are requested to attend the organizational meeting to be held at the International House on Friday, Sept. 25 at 8 p.m. The International House is located at 930 W. Jefferson. Your interest and participation will be greatly appreciated.

Coach Jack Stallings has announced that the first day of fall baseball tryouts will be Wednesday, Sept. 23. Baseball has become a prominent sport at Florida State; the Seminoles' varsity placed second in the nation last season. The B team Renegades finished last season with a 13-9 record.

All interested men, especially freshmen and sophomores, should report at 4 p.m. to the practice field.

Ross Stars

Judo Club Takes Meet

Florida State's Judo Club stormed through another open tournament this past weekend by taking the meet held in St. Augustine, Fla. Saturday. In all, FSU brought home three first places and three seconds.

Jerry Dean, the teams newest addition from San Diego, Calif. easily took home first place in the 176-pound class with two other Seminoles, Dave Friebe and Bill Kaufold, finishing second and third respectively.

Kaufold is a newcomer as well as Dean, Bill coming from San Louis Obispo, Calif. Friebe is a graduate student who used to be the captain of the University of Florida team.

None of the Seminole grapplers placed in the 154-pound division but little Ken Keller picked up a big second in the 139-class. Keller is a sophomore who spent his first season at Tallahassee Junior College.

In the 205-pound division, the men from Florida State

ROSS

... has a big day

brought home second and third with Bill Lain taking No. 2 and Bill Waitek getting the latter. Armond Gosselin, one of the steady members of the team, took third in the heavyweight division.

Player-coach John Ross was the star of the day, though, as he won the tough open division. Later on Ross came back to defeat Dean to take the overall championship, as Dean took second.

For their afternoon's work the Seminoles won the team title with their next closest rival being a club from Atlanta that featured several old FSU teammates, including Bill Miller who took home first place in the heavyweight division.

The next meet on the schedule for the club will be the State Open Championships to be held in Tampa, Fla. early in October.

BILL RIMBY—Florida State offensive tackle Bill Rimby was given this week's Tomahawk Award for his outstanding blocking job on Georgia Tech All-America tackle Rock Pearson. Rimby scored a 93 on Coach Bill Peterson's grading system for game films, one of the highest totals in two years. Rimby also scored 100 on pass plays and Peterson called his performance his "best game in two years." The weekly savage award went to Robert McEachern, the defensive tackle. McEachern was a demon on defense, making seven tackles and seven assists as well as scoring 73 on his films. (Pub.)

Alvarez Sport's All-America

Texas and Ohio State have placed three players each on Sport magazine's 24th annual All-America Preview Football Team, while Notre Dame and Southern Cal have each placed two men on the squad.

Two of the Texas picks, tackle Bobby Wuench and running back Steve Worster, are on the offensive club, with guard Bill Atesis named to the defense. Worster gained 649 yards and scored nine touchdowns in part-time play last season, including 155 yards rushing against Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl.

Ohio State tight end Jan White is on Sport's offensive unit while middle guard Jim Stillwagon and defensive back Jack Tatum help man the defense.

Mississippi's Archie Manning gets the quarterback slot in a year when great passers abound, while Wisconsin's Abe Thompson, a sleeper who gained 907 yards with a 3.7 team last season, gets the other running back position.

The wide receivers are Chuck Dicus of Arkansas and Carlos Alvarez of Florida. Dicus caught 96 passes for 1,542 yards during the last two seasons, while Alvarez had 86 receptions for 1,329 yards last season alone.

More Student Tickets Sold

Student season football tickets are still available for $10 at the athletic ticket office at Tully Gym. These tickets may be purchased throughout the rest of the week.

There are individual student tickets for the Florida-Florida State football game on sale today for $7 apiece. Today is the last day of the sale.

On Wednesday and Thursday, 1,000 date and spouse ticket packets that include a pass to the Fla.-FSU contest will go on sale at the ticket office for $19 a set. Date and spouse packets without Florida game passes will be sold for only $12.

After this week season tickets cannot be purchased. All tickets for the games will then be sold on an individual game basis at the cost of $3.50 each, with the exception of the Florida game which will be sold out.

PETE

In fact, Pettit set record after record in three years at LSU in the early 50's and in the late 60's Maravich broke them with the exception of rebounds. Pettit, of course, is 6-9 and Maravich is 6-5. Pettit scored 1,970 points in his career, Maravich 3,667.

"To go along with Pete's ability, there's a burning desire to win and utter dedication to the game," Pettit said. "He plays hard, wants to win and that's a hard combination to top."

Unlike many who declare Pete's no. 1 asset to the pros will be his ball handling rather than scoring, Pettit sees Maravich doing it all, so to speak.

"He has that rare ability to excel at both," Pettit said. "He's like Oscar Robertson, Jerry West and Bob Cousy. He's a tremendous ball handler, maybe the best I've ever seen, but he can shoot the ball well also. He should score well in the pros and get a lot of assists."

And last but not least of all, Pettit believes Pistol Pete will be a tremendous drawing card wherever he goes.

"He filled up every place he played while in college and it should be the same story in the pros. They'd better widen the turnstiles for this guy."

A&M Takes Scruggs

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Florida A&M officials decided Monday to readmit star football quarterback Steve Scruggs and nine other students who were arrested on drug charges last spring.

The decision, made by a special administrative committee approved by university President Benjamin Perry, means Scruggs will be eligible to return to his quarterback slot on the Rattler football team although he still faces trial Nov. 16 on charges of possession and sale of marijuana.

"I'm so happy I'm about to 'bout," exclaimed Rattler head coach Pete Griffin when a newsmen told him of the administration's decision. He said Scruggs would be allowed to move right back into his old position.

The decision to readmit the 10 students, who were among 14 arrested last May when police raided a house, was announced by Dr. Herbert Alexander, the university's vice president for student affairs. The four not readmitted have been convicted of the criminal charges and are barred from readmission for two years.

"Further investigation leads us to believe we may have acted hastily with regard to the 14 students suspended," said Alexander. He said the administrative hearing body decided to recommend that the students be readmitted in a special meeting Saturday and that Perry approved the recommendation Monday morning.

He said the university will act much more deliberately on suspending any students charged with drug sales or possession in the future.

"We were absolutely without any information except what we read in the paper," said Alexander. He said the students were suspended almost immediately after their arrests because the university thought there was no alternative under a 1969 state law.

Subsequent interpretations by the general counsel for the state Board of Education showed that the university had more flexibility in such cases, Alexander said.

Gibson Mad at K State Team

By Charlie Smith
UPI Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Kansas State University is not apt to be a fun place to be playing football this week.

Reason is, the Wildcats were upset by Kentucky, 16-3, last Saturday and Coach Vince Gibson is unhappy.

"We embarrassed ourselves and we embarrassed our fans," Gibson said Monday. "I've never been more upset over the way our offense played than I am now."

Gibson takes his Wildcats into what promises to be an even more unfriendly situation this Saturday night when they meet Arizona State at Tempe.

So what's he going to do?

"We're gonna crank up and get after their fannies and get the job done, that's what," promises Gibson.

Kansas State, which has a veteran offensive unit, could not keep Kentucky away from its quarterback Saturday.

"I'm just sick of it," Gibson says of his offensive line. "I'd hate to be our quarterback the way our offensive line is blocking."

To compound Kansas State's miseries, ace quarterback Lynn

Gretel Disqualified

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—The race committee of the New York Yacht Club deliberated four hours Monday and then rocked the America's Cup competition by disqualifying Gretel II of Australia in Sunday's race for bumping at the start and awarded the victory to American defender Intrepid.

The decision gave Intrepid, which lost Sunday's race to Gretel by 1 minute, 7 seconds, a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series for yachting's coveted trophy with the third race coming up Tuesday. It also touched off anger and unhappiness among the Australian crew.

Martin Visser, the Dutch-born helmsman who was steering Gretel at the moment of the incident at the start of Sunday's race, even talked of "going home."

"Intrepid executed what is known as barging—forcing a passage," said Visser. "And if we get caught in a situation like that again, we'll go home."

The race committee, after four hours of deliberation, upheld Intrepid's protest that Gretel II was guilty of a rule infringement relating to starting procedure and rights of way.

Gretel's counter protest that Intrepid had no right to ask for passage room around the stern of the committee boat, and was herself in violation, was disallowed.

Hinson And Beard Are Near Top

NEW YORK (UPI)—Larry Hinson and Frank Beard who tied for 18th and 23rd places respectively in the Robinson Open, both gained in the Professional Golf Association's point total list, it was announced Monday by the PGA Tournament Players Division.

While Hinson advanced from sixth place to fourth and Beard from seventh to fifth, George Knudson, who won the Robinson, failed to gain a spot in the top 10 despite his 120 victory points.

Several leaders in the point standings competed in the Alcan Goller of the Year event in Dublin, Ireland, but because of the small field of TPD members, the point system did not apply to this tournament.

In the money-winning division, Beard retained sixth place with $121,762, while Hinson jumped from eighth place to seventh with $114,049.

Bruce Crampton, who leads the point standings, and Billy Casper, who tops the money winners, both were idle, but retained their individual leads.

Rams Are Top Choice

NEW YORK—The tough Los Angeles Rams, led by quarterback Roman Gabriel, should battle their way to the pro football championship in the Super Bowl, according to an exclusive poll of more than 1,000 pro grid players appearing in the current issue of Sport magazine.

The poll, in which the players are asked to predict league standings and top individual performers in various categories, is similar to Sport's annual polling of major league baseball players.

With pro football realigned in the completion of the NFL-AFL merger, this is the way the players see the standings in the new division. In the AFC's Eastern Division, the Colts are picked by a narrow margin to nip the Jets in the standings. Cleveland is expected to run away with the Central title and Kansas City is a slim choice to edge the Raiders in the West.

The NFC standings, according to the Sport poll, show Dallas a heavy favorite over Washington in the East, Minnesota a top-heavy choice over Detroit in the Central Division, and Los Angeles a no-contest winner over San Francisco and the rest of the West.

In Sport magazine's listing for the top individual performers in 1970, quarterback Daryle Lamonic of Oakland is expected to earn "Most Valuable Player" honors in the AFC and the Rams' Gabriel is the NFC pick.

Hussein Calls On World Powers For Aid

U.S. Troops Standing By

WASHINGTON (UPI)—King Hussein of Jordan has asked the United States and other major powers what they would be willing to do to help him resist the attacks of Syrian troops, which have joined the Arab guerrillas, official sources said Monday.

They emphasized that Hussein had not appealed for military assistance in so many words, but asked generally what assistance he might expect, without specifying anything in particular.

Word of Hussein's request came shortly after Jordanian ambassador Abdel Ahmad Sharaf conferred for 90 minutes with Joseph J. Sisco, assistant secretary of state for Middle East Affairs.

However, Hussein's request for information on what action the United States and other big powers were prepared to take came before Sharaf visited Sisco.

U.S. officials said Sisco and Sharaf discussed the situation in general and talked at some length about how the Jordanian government could avail itself of the U.S. contribution of two field hospitals to the International Red Cross, which has yet to find some way to get them into Jordan.

The situation in Irbid, about 40 miles northwest of Jordan's capital of Amman, was described by diplomatic sources here as "desperate." This second largest city is near the Syrian border and was a major object of the Syrian tank attack.

Sharaf said after his talk with Davies that his government had not asked for U.S. military intervention.

It was not clear exactly why the embattled young king had put his request in the form he did. However, it was assumed that he did not want to risk the possibility of a flat rejection on the possibility of military intervention, believing it wiser to leave it up to the Western powers to decide what they could do to best aid him.

It is believed that his appeal went to the United States, Britain, France and Russia. The Soviet Union has supplied Syria with its military equipment, including the tanks it is using in the Jordanian drive, and Hussein undoubtedly hopes that Moscow will use its influence to get Syria to withdraw.

The United States already has sent a message to Moscow urging Russia to ask Syria to withdraw its forces, which were sent in to aid Arab guerrillas seeking to overthrow the Hussein government.

Hussein was believed to have felt it fruitless for him to take his appeal for help to the United Nations Security Council because of Syria's presence on the Council this year. Any appeal for help there could get bogged down in a lengthy debate and Hussein according to some reports from Jordan, was running out of time.

Up until Monday, the State Department had never disputed Syria's claim that those forces invading Jordan were guerrillas, not regular Syrian troops.

"I have no doubt that Syrian government armed forces are involved," said State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon alerted paratroopers, medics, and air transport Monday for possible evacuation of Americans from Jordan and sent naval vessels with Marines steaming toward the Mediterranean.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedman said the emergency measures were taken to protect the lives of 400 U.S. citizens now in Jordan, where the government is under attack from Palestinian guerrillas and invading forces from Syria. "We can tell you today we are continuing to take a series of precautionary actions to increase the readiness of the Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force units to support an evacuation operation for American citizens should that become necessary," Friedman said.

The alerted forces include the 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and other paratroopers from the 8th Infantry Division stationed in West Germany.

Should evacuation become necessary, it was believed the paratroopers would be used first to secure the airfield at Amman and clear an escape route between it and the capital city.

The alert order was issued Sunday night as Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard held a series of "overnight" meetings.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler emphasized to reporters that as of the moment there were no plans to evacuate Americans from Jordan and that Nixon still planned to visit the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean during his European tour that begins on Sunday.

NY Banks

Prime Interest Rate Cut

NEW YORK (UPI)—Three big New York banks Monday cut their prime interest rates at half-point to 7 1/2 per cent, sparking a round of rate cuts across the country.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., fifth largest bank in the nation, led off the move, followed quickly by Chemical Bank, New York Trust Co., which ranks sixth. Late in the day, Chase Manhattan Bank, third largest, followed suit.

Bank of America, the world's largest bank, said it is looking at the market factors and has the situation under assessment, but it hadn't made a decision yet.

Although many big and small banks around the country stood pat at 8 per cent, the spotlight already was shifting to interest rates not directly affected by prime rate moves, such as mortgages and consumer loan rates.

The prime rate cuts maketh the cost of borrowed money cheaper to the largest, most credit worthy business borrowers and, while many other business loan rates are scaled upward from the prime rate, consumer loan rates change only about a tenth as frequently as prime rates. Morgan Guaranty said it had also reduced its brokers loan rate a half point.

In Washington, Robert H. Pease, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, said the prime rate cut will make mortgages more attractive investments and the action "will be reflected, in time, in lower mortgage interest rates."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Monday that conventional home mortgage rates averaged a record 8.51 per cent last month, up from 8.49 per cent in July. Pease said the prime rate cuts "signal the growing availability of money to lend."

An official of one New York bank said consumer loan rates do not move in harness with business loan rates, but a cut in consumer loan rates nevertheless can't be ruled out. He said current demand for auto loans, for instance, is weak.

The current auto loan rate is 5 1/2 per cent, discounted and including life insurance, which works out to 12.74 per cent on a simple interest basis for a three-year car loan. Unsecured personal loans currently are six per cent, discounted, which works out to 12.38 per cent in terms of simple interest on a three-year loan.

Students Rap Agnew In Television Show

By H.D. Quigg

NEW YORK (UPI)—A college student accused Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Monday night in a face-to-face exchange of being a political joke whose public words made him a "precursor of violence." Agnew in a spirited reply hit at the "disgusting permissive attitudes of people in command of college campuses." To make him a scapegoat because of these attitudes, the Vice President said, was "one of the most ridiculous charges I've ever heard."

The exchange came at the end of a 90-minute taping of a television panel show in which Agnew took on five student leaders from a group of nine. They appeared on the David Frost Show which is shown at various times around the country on week nights by Group W.

It was scheduled to appear Friday in New York and several of the other large television areas.

Until the final exchange, the show was conducted in good spirit and without acrimony, with topics ranging over many areas of student dissent and of Agnew's recent speeches.

The student who accused Agnew was Richard Silverman, president of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, who is studying for a doctorate in political science in the field of urban violence. Things had begun to heat up in the final segment of the show with talk about the Kent State campus slayings and "hardhat" construction workers activists. Of Kent State, where four students died, Agnew said "the evidence seems to indicate the National Guard overreacted" in shooting. He said "they were not professional soldiers" and "I don't excuse what they did." But he added it was amazing how the American people had "forgotten the precursors" of the shooting-rioting for two nights and the burning of the ROTC building the night before and cutting of the hoses of firemen who came to the blaze.

The clash of the hardhats with young activists was out of "the rage of people who work to build this country" and not a premeditated attack. "I don't condone the violence," he said. "These people worked with their hands and worked hard to get where they are in this country."

Ralph Nader Seeks Recall

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Consumer champion Ralph Nader asked the Transportation Department Monday to order Ford Co. to recall 4 million cars made between 1965 and 1969 and replace lower controls arms on them. He said the arms were potentially unsafe.

Ford pulled back 85,000 cars used by police departments after the National Highway Safety Bureau recently found cracks in the lower control arms.

Several police agencies reported cars losing a front wheel when the part failed.

The Safety Bureau's Aug. 19 order said the cracks probably resulted from the abnormal stress of police driving and said regular passenger cars were safe.

Nader, however, wrote Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe Monday that the bureau's testing was inadequate and that Ford had cracks in its files where cars not subject to abuse of police work also had experienced lower control arm failure.

The part in question is installed in all full-sized Fords built between 1965 and 1969. It has been estimated that the recall of police vehicles and replacing defective arms had cost Ford $3 million to $5 million for parts alone.

Mancha Meets Sherman For Discussions Today

By John Snavely
Staff Writer

Intercollegiate athletics at FSU will be the subject of a debate between Student Body President Chuck Sherman and Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha today at 3 p.m. behind Moore Auditorium. A large crowd is expected to hear the two campus leaders discuss the role of athletics in relation to the goals of the University.

The debate is expected to center around one major topic: the amount of money being spent to make FSU a "big time" intercollegiate power.

Sponsored by the Union Program Council, the debate will begin with Sherman reading a prepared statement dealing with certain changes which he feels should be instigated by the athletic department.

Sherman said earlier the proposed changes are not aimed at eliminating intercollegiate sports at FSU, but instead attempting to put athletic spending on a saner kind of level.

One of the specific proposals Sherman will make is to suggest FSU take the initiative and form a new athletic conference. The conference would be composed of schools which have agreed to regulate their athletic budgets.

In an interview Friday, Sherman said he does not think FSU can afford to compete with such big time athletic powers as the University of Alabama or Notre Dame. He said these schools have tremendous game attendances and generous alumni associations to foot the bill for such extensive athletic programs.

Sherman said that since the FSU athletic department is unable to get sufficient funds from these sources, it is forced to draw from revenue which should be going to educational functions of the university.

One of the major sources of revenue for the intercollegiate program at FSU is the Student Activity fee. $190,000 was recently allocated to intercollegiate athletics from the Student Activity budget for 1970-71.

Athletic Director Mancha said Monday he does not plan to present a prepared statement during the debate. He said he will listen to the statement prepared by Sherman and then try to answer any questions which have been raised.

Marshall Addresses FSU

A special radio-television report on the state of the university by President J. Stanley Marshall is scheduled for tonight at 7 p.m.

The broadcast will be over both WFSU-TV and WFSU-FM radio.

The report, which replaces an originally scheduled convocation in Doak Campbell Stadium, will be repeated on the radio station Saturday night at 11 p.m.

The university's four vice presidents and Student Body President Chuck Sherman will join Dr. Marshall in the hour-long program. Dr. Ralph Bradley, the university's Distinguished Professor of the Year, will also address the university community.

The speakers will outline summer developments, fall plans, and make progress reports on academic, administrative and student programs.

Executive Vice President Cecil Mackey's report will concern budgets, organization, and urban redevelopment. Paul Craig, Vice President of Academic Affairs, will describe the implications of reduced growth in student and faculty areas.

Administrative vice president Robert Peirce is expected to discuss the university's physical development and supportive services.

Acting student affairs vice president Robert Kimmel will talk about services for students and student interest in maintaining individuality.

Televisions are available for viewing tonight's broadcast in the Union lounges and ballrooms but not in Moore Auditorium, as was reported in a campus circular.

Freon Car Inventor Speaks

Wallace L. Minto, inventor of a low pollution automobile engine, will speak at Florida State Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 275 of the Chemistry Lecture Hall.

The lecture, a physics department colloquium entitled, "The Kinetics Fluoro-Carbon Engine," is open to the public. Dr. Robert H. Davis, principal scientist of the FSU Tandem Van de Graff Accelerator Laboratory, said "Minto's engine uses freon as the working fluid in a closed system whereas a conventional steam engine uses water. Low pollution is achieved by a very clean burn of the fuel in the lean boiler."

"The physical principles are sound enough," Davis said.

This appraisal of the feasibility of Minto's engine is not shared by others in the field, however. Critics such as K.P. Murphy, a technical supervisor with Allied Chemical Corp., took issue last March in "Air Conditioning, Heating, and Refrigeration News" with the size of a condenser that a freon engine requires.

"As with the steam engine, the condenser takes up a lot of space," Murphy said. "In a car, which limits the size of the condenser, you just can't get enough air flow through it. It must be made smaller; but as yet, we haven't discovered how."

This problem may have been solved by Donbar Development

Corp., a New York based research company. Donbar has developed a compact condenser which Minto has hailed as "an important break through."

Minto's company, Kinetics Inc., has recently signed a contract with Donbar to include their condenser in his engine. Earlier in August, Minto signed a contract with the Nissan Motor Co., Ltd., Japan, to produce his engine for mass production and use in Datsun automobiles manufactured there. The new condenser will be used in these cars.

George Farris, president of Donbar, said that "Getting rid of the heat from the internal combustion in the past meant a large condenser. Yet, a condenser this size could not fit under the car's hood, so we put it in the roof.

Lewis Looks For Drug Law Reform

By David McMullen
Staff Writer

State-wide drug rehabilitation services and the beginning of drug law reforms may be sparked by an FSU student as he presents the fruits of a 10-week study to a group of local legislators in the capitol today.

Roy Lewis, a senior in the College of Law, has been working eight to 10 hours daily in preparation of the two-fold study.

Plans for the development of a drug rehabilitation clinic here in the Tallahassee area form the first part of the study. The clinic, Lewis said, could someday blossom into a state-wide service.

"At present there are no such clinics operating in the state," Lewis pointed out.

In addition, Lewis will present to the legislators a complete revision of the drug laws of the state, which he feels would be more realistic and in line with new federal statutes.

Marijuana, under the Lewis revision, would be removed from the list of narcotic drugs and punishment for possession would be reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor.

When questioned about the eventual legalization of marijuana, Lewis said, "There is at least a good possibility of it happening someday."

The drug rehabilitation clinic is, however, the heart of Lewis' study. "We have to face the drug issue now," Lewis said, "rather than wait and face the problems that New York State

Bombs And Fires*Nixon Calls For Campus Law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon called Tuesday for legislation to permit federal authorities to act immediately in cases of bombing or arson on college campuses even if local authorities opposed intervention.

Rep. Gerald Ford (R-Mich.) said after a meeting of Republican congressional leaders with Nixon that the proposal would be added as an amendment to a Senate-passed anti-crime bill, now being considered by the House Judiciary Committee.

Ford, the House GOP leader, and Sen. Hugh Scott, Republican Senate leader, outlined the legislation to newsmen following the two-hour, 45-minute White House meeting. Attorney General John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover also attended.

Ford said Nixon and Mitchell recommended that the FBI and other federal authorities be permitted to intervene immediately on any campus which receives any form of federal subsidy—virtually all of the colleges and universities in the nation—following an overt act such as a bombing or firebombing.

Scott also referred to "other acts of terrorism" but he declined to define them. He said the legislation would not be triggered by "throwing rocks or breaking glass."

The bill now before the House Judiciary Committee was approved by a subcommittee Monday on a day that saw Nixon gain important victories in his effort to get anti-crime bills through Congress before adjournment.

David and Julie Here

Trout Pond Dedication Sat.

David and Julie Eisenhower head up the list of national dignitaries who will help dedicate the Trout Pond Recreation Area for the handicapped Saturday at 2 p.m.

Trout Pond, located 12 miles south of Tallahassee in the Apalachicola National Forest, is the only recreation area of its kind in the United States. Its facilities are designed so that handicapped persons may use them with as little assistance as possible.

Eisenhower, grandson of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and his wife Julie, daughter of President Nixon, will arrive in Tallahassee Saturday morning.

Also participating in the dedication are Clifford Hardin, Secretary of Agriculture, and Edward Cliff, head of the U.S. Forest Service.

This marks the second time David and Julie have been in Tallahassee. Their first trip was in 1968 when they campaigned for Nixon.

Trout Pond offers a full range of outdoor opportunities for the handicapped. Facilities are available for picnicking, fishing and swimming.

A special ramp enables those confined in wheelchairs to roll their chairs down into the water of the swimming pool.

Special steps accommodate amputees or those who need to crawl. A jet spray of water cools those who can't go into the pool. For the blind, there are special raised direction signs which point the way of the forest nature trails.

Invitations to the ribbon-cutting event praise the opening of the U.S. Forest Service facility as "a new era of national forest recreational facilities for the handicapped and their families."

Florida's Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne and Rep. William Cramer of St. Petersburg, Republican Senatorial candidate, are expected to attend the event.

The U.S. Forest Service already has spent $131,000 on the project in the hopes that it will become a model for similar projects in national forests in other parts of the country.

Sadler Named

New Off Campus Counseling Head

Former director of financial aid William T. Sadler was named as director of off-campus counseling by Robert Kimmel, acting vice president of student affairs, Tuesday.

Sadler, who was financial aid director at FSU during 1965-66, has broad administrative experience and "will make a major contribution to our university," Kimmel said at the appointment.

Sadler's experience includes a three-year tenure as president of Gulf Park College from 1966 to 1969. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees in biology from the University of Mississippi.

The new director is a Kelllogg Fellow at FSU and has completed all but his doctoral dissertation in higher education here.

No Reasons For Non-Attendance

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—No school official has reported a single incident that would justify a regulation letting integration-troubled parents keep their children home in defiance of the compulsory school attendance law, State Education Commissioner Floyd Christian said Tuesday.

Christian gave the report in the face of claims by Ellis Rubin, representing United Citizens Inc., of "affidavits, letters and other proof" of incidents parents feel are dangerous or degrading to their children.

Cautioned by Christian against taking any action that would disrupt the 1.5 million attending assigned schools because of problems of the few that are out of the classroom, the Cabinet let the matter ride.

But Gov. Claude Kirk and Comptroller Fred Dickinson urged parents to tell local school officials of incidents and grievances resulting from "irresponsible" busing or other causes.

From the Editor's Desk

Although there is nothing novel in charging students admission to their school's athletic events, Florida State students were this year welcomed back with the proposition of season football tickets. Many colleges and universities—and even a goodly number of high schools—across the nation are faced with a gate fee. Students at the University of Florida, our sister institution, pay to watch the Gators play a multitude of annual gridiron classics.

The institution of a gate fee for students has created a controversy here in that some students, as well as in other parts of the country, are questioning the propriety of large funds for intercollegiate athletics. In our case, the lack of funds coming from other sources for athletics is hoped to be made up by student ticket sales.

Operating on a $1.6 million dollar athletic budget, as compared to U of F's $3.5 million, athletic director Vaughn Mancha will debate with Student Body President Chuck Sherman today at 3 p.m. on the issues on proposed for athletics. Presumably, both sides of the argument will be heard.

Students, and members involved in this afternoon's debate, should be ready to listen, weigh and consider both sides of this coin. Intercollegiate athletics have brought both fame and fortune to Florida State. Our athletes have compiled an outstanding record in every area of national athletic ratings. Students, on the other hand, have paid their $32.50 student activities fee, and with the initiation of ticket sales, have little to show for this fee, except a punched IBM identification card and their morning newspaper. The recommended Student Senate appropriation for athletics—drawn from those fees—was overridden by the administration, and more money added to the athletic till from student's fees.

Only through understanding the reasoning behind the stands on both sides can students effectively formulate, express and move to implement their opinions. We urge all students to attend this informative debate.

ROTC Cadet Reviews Camp

To the Editor:

I am sorry that the article I wrote on ROTC Basic Summer Camp was too long to be published. Since I feel that I have a valuable point to share with the university community, I would like to summarize the article.

I participated in the program this summer and decided not to continue. My conclusion for the experience is that there are a number of cadets all over the country who have been faced with a dilemma, and they feel that ROTC is the only alternative.

Many do not believe in what they are doing. Let the poll takers and statisticians decide just how critical the situation is. Let them decide why the cadets chanted, "Peace Now!" in the ROTC Club one weekend, or why we often sang peace songs on the way to the firing ranges. Or why commissioned lieutenants expressed similar feelings to us. Let the psychologists decide why we do things we don't believe in, even if it may mean killing.

For those of us who have not faced the dilemma confronting ROTC students, I ask that we start looking for the roots of the problem within ourselves. We can often follow those who would have us destroy campuses and provoke confrontations with police as easily as we can follow generals. Can we afford to criticize from our towers of safety?

If anyone would like to read my article, I would be happy to give them a copy.

Housing Discrimination 'Ridiculous'

By Arnold B. Sawislak
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thomas Hobbes wrote:

"The privilege of absurdity, to which no living creature is subject but man only." More recently, Joseph Heller summed it up as "Catch 22." Now comes Ernest Erber saying "The jobs go where the poor can't."

Erber, research director of the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing is talking about the following ridiculous situation: Hundreds of thousands of poor people in the cities can't find jobs. Thousands of businessmen in the suburbs can't find workers, even for unskilled and semiskilled jobs.

That is an absurdity for a number of economic, social and political reasons. It hurts business, lowers the quality of life and threatens the stability of society in both suburbs and cities.

It even offends history: Americans are the people who traveled thousands of miles over dangerous oceans and hostile land to find work. Now they can't ride a few miles on the world's best roads to get to jobs.

Now, Erber obviously is trying to sell something. He wants housing in the suburbs for poor blacks and other minorities. So he can be asked to back up his claims when he says in the Labor Department magazine Manpower that the well-known trend toward black cities encircled by white suburbs "creates costly artificial labor shortages."

Erber notes that between 1959 and 1967, New York City lost 47,110 factory jobs while its suburbs gained 138,440. He says this just represents the tip of an iceberg: The suburbs gained far more jobs in retailing, service establishments, utilities and the like in the same period.

But can't blacks, Puerto Ricans and others commute to jobs in the suburbs? Erber studied the Ford Motor Co. plant at Mahwah, N.J., where 2,000 blacks work.

Most must travel 20 to 40 miles a day by car to and from work because public transportation is designed to move people into the city and back to the suburbs at the very times when the Ford workers are going in the opposite direction.

Absenteeism at the plant is exceptionally high, especially in bad driving weather, and car ownership, maintenance and operation is prohibitive for many city residents, Erber says. But retail and service jobs generally pay quite a bit less than manufacturing, and such workers usually cannot afford expensive commuting. Before the rise of the suburbs, most unskilled workers could get to their jobs in the cities on foot or by public transportation, Erber says, but today the distances are longer and the transit services are poorer. But can't these people find housing in the suburbs? Erber says the process of housing left behind by suburban-bound citizens "filtering down" to the poor operated in the cities, but shows little sign of working in even the older suburbs of New York, which may not be fashionable but are convenient to the city.

There are open housing laws designed to help minorities, of course, but even where they are enforced the poor get little benefit because the suburbs use zoning laws and other political means to block construction of new low-cost, apartment-type housing that the poor can afford.

Erber's proposed solution is to stop building most of the public and other subsidized new housing in the ghettos: "Much of the effort should go into the suburbs, where the new jobs are."

Optimism Seen In Nixon Camp

By Stewart Hensley
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The

Nixon administration, in its anxiety to convince voters of the effectiveness of its foreign policy, apparently stirred up more optimism than was warranted on a couple of major fronts.

High officials now acknowledge that they are forced to deal with a certain amount of euphoria, both at home and among some U.S. friends abroad, because of overselling the positive and understating the negative in both Europe and the Middle East.

For months, it has been an article of faith among officials conducting White House and State Department briefings that a major preoccupation with Red China by the Soviet Union was going to make it easier to deal with on matters in Europe and the Middle East.

The thesis developed at numerous high level sessions was that Moscow was anxious to ease tensions and achieve more stability on the western and southern fronts because of the necessity to deal with its huge geographical and ideological enemy of the East.

True, officials occasionally threw in a small warning to the effect that it might not be completely smooth sailing in negotiations on nuclear arms limitation, European security and the Middle East. But the major emphasis was placed on the probability of great progress.

Now officials face the task of bringing the picture into better focus.

For example, on Aug. 14 a White House official said he was "extremely optimistic" about the possibility of getting an agreement with Russia to limit strategic nuclear weapons. Last week the same official acknowledged that he now was only "cautiously optimistic" and was not at all certain how the negotiations would turn out.

The administration's mood has changed drastically since President Nixon told newsmen last May he felt confident to predict agreement on a nuclear arms limitation, and subsequently said he expected it this fall.

In the Middle East, administration officials are smarting under criticism that they were naive in taking Russia at its word when the Kremlin promised to see that Egypt observed the terms of the Aug. 7 ceasefire and standstill agreement.

Officials have been denying this for a week, contending that they did not place any faith in Russia's promise but were counting on the strong pressures for peace on both sides of the Israeli-Arab conflict to bring the situation to a peaceful solution eventually.

The U.S. contention is that Russian-supported Egyptian violations so far have not tipped the strategic military balance against Israel.

Muse Writes Open Letter

(Editor's note: Don Mus, secretary of consumer affairs for Student Government, submitted the following letter to the Flambeau as an "open letter" to the director of the university health services, Dr. Robert Hunter.)

Dear Dr. Hunter:

As you are aware, you are now charging all students for prescriptions. After comparing your prices we find that they are approximately one-half the cost of the same medicine in local pharmacies. In view of the fact, on behalf of the married students of the university, I hereby request that you allow married students' wives and children's prescriptions to be filled at the Health Center Pharmacy.

This would permit a considerable savings to many students who are in need of such savings. Since you are set up to take the money, have the necessary licenses, and as many personnel as any local pharmacy, we hope that you will look favorably upon this request.

US Warned Against Intervention

By United Press International
Two brigades of Jordanian troops marched into northwest Jordan Tuesday and dug in for what appeared to be a showdown battle with invading Syrian tanks and Palestinian guerrillas, Israeli military dispatches said.

Thousands of American Marines and army paratroopers remained on alert for possible use in getting stranded U.S. citizens out of Jordan on the sixth day of its civil war. President Nixon was reported to have told Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott in Washington that he was "prepared to preserve the proper interests of the United States in the current Middle East crisis."

Egypt, Syria and the main Palestinian guerrilla organization joined in warning the United States against intervention in Jordan. An Egyptian spokesman in Cairo said such a move would threaten world peace and endanger the lives of American hijack hostages in guerrilla hands.

King Hussein has asked the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France for diplomatic help in restoring peace to Jordan, the White House announced Tuesday. But there was no firm word whether Hussein had also asked for American military assistance.

Arab reports on the fighting in Jordan said more than 10,000 persons had been killed with thousands more wounded or dying of starvation and thirst. The International Red Cross said the food supply situation in the capital of Amman was critical and that conditions in one Palestinian refugee camp were "absolutely catastrophic."

The Palestine liberation organization chief in Cairo, Gamal El-Sorani, said 120,000 shells were fired on Amman during the first five days of the war and that half of the city was destroyed.

The Israeli military correspondents reported the Jordanian troop movements Tuesday from Tiberias, an Israeli resort on the Sea of Galilee not far from the battle zone. The Israelis said the two brigades—about 8,000 men—moved northward before dawn toward Irbid, the Jordanian city which was reported seized by the Syrian-backed guerrillas Monday. Irbid, Jordan's second largest city, is 45 miles north of Amman.

The fighting around Irbid, 18 miles from the Jordan River, brought the combat extremely close to Israeli-occupied territory and Israel was on full alert. Premier Golda Meir convened an emergency session of her cabinet to hear a briefing by the military chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, on "security problems."

The report of the two Jordanian army brigades moving into northwest Jordan coincided with an announcement by the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) in Beirut, Lebanon, that Jordanian warplanes joined the war for the first time Tuesday.

In Amman, the military government reimposed a "shoot on sight" curfew and guerrilla reports said a guerrilla rocket attack had destroyed part of King Hussein's palace just outside town after palace guards opened fire on the Al-Baqaa refugee camp.

Reports in diplomatic circles in Beirut said some of the Amman fighting Tuesday raged around the U.S. Embassy. An Arab correspondent who was able to file a dispatch from Amman to Cairo said hundreds of houses had been destroyed and thousands of bodies were in the streets and under rubble.

Agnew Speaks Against Super-Permissiveness

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Tuesday singled out a member of the Federal Communications Commission as the type of "super-permissive" government officials who have encouraged the country's youth to use marijuana and other drugs.

Agnew did not name the official in his speech to a fund-raising luncheon but he made it plain he was referring to Nicholas Johnson, who was appointed to the FCC in 1966.

The vice president said he was "surprised and shocked" by Johnson's reaction to a speech he made in Las Vegas last week in which Agnew said some "proponents of the drug culture are misusing popular music to get across their message."

"This appointee of a previous administration promptly took the side of the rock musicians and echoed their pronouncements about how many songs were produced with anti-drug lyrics," Agnew said.

Johnson last Thursday told a group of foreign service officers that Republicans should stop accepting campaign contributions from liquor and cigarette makers and from corporations whose ads promote the drug culture.

"Perhaps the critical point is that young song writers and performers don't make political campaign contributions, but that Ford, TWA and other drug-impulse merchandisers do."

Man Drowns In Wine Vat

MINAS, Uruguay (UPI)—Police reported Tuesday that warehouseman Pablo Aldrovandi Garcia, 37, drowned in wine when he fell into a 4,000-gallon vat while inspecting its contents.

Cambodian Troops Move Northward

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian paratroopers spearheading the largest government task force of the war advanced northward Tuesday after being stalled for eight days by a Communist blockade. They flanked a village where North Vietnamese troops were reported dug in 52 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, a force of 3,000 South Vietnamese Marines and "Mam"men swept through flooded rice paddies southeast of the Key Mekong River ferry crossing at Neak Leung and rounded up 160 suspected Communists.

A spokesman for Laotian fighting forces in a Hanoi broadcast heard in Tokyo charged Tuesday night that South Vietnamese troops with U.S. advisers had launched an offensive in the Attoupeu area of southern Laos. The Attoupeu district borders the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

In South Vietnam, the U.S. military command reported the loss of two more helicopters and said five Americans were killed and five wounded in the downings. It said both helicopters were on mercy missions.

The U.S. command also announced that the last units of the 9th Infantry Division had begun a final "stand down" prior to leaving Vietnam under President Nixon's phase four withdrawal program.

'Got a Groovy Thing Going'

In a new approach to half-time entertainment, the Marching Chiefs will present a coordinated musical theme throughout the 1970 football season.

"Got a Groovy Thing Going" will be divided each week into four segments, "The Spirit of Our Times," "Bent Arrow Award," "Those Were the Days" and "Happiness Is..."

The pointed shaft of the bent arrow will pay mock tribute to such things as litter bugs and other public pests. Who gets the bent arrow for the day won't be known until the band takes the field at the half.

"The Spirit of Our Times" will open each show with tunes chosen to capture in a reflective way the feeling and moods of today.

In a reminiscent vein the segment entitled "Those Were the Days" will give a glimpse of what it was like musically "way back when."

The "Peanuts" cartoon phrase, "happiness is..." will receive a different musical interpretation each week as the Chiefs go through their formations.

"Got a Groovy Thing Going on Campus" will open the series when the Seminoles meet Wake Forest at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Doak S. Campbell Stadium.

Saturday's "Spirit of Our Times" will feature a teepee formation with the cheerleaders and band introducing a new cheer and involving everyone in the spirit of the hour.

The music, "Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered," will salute the freshmen as the band forms a large bow and arrow.

After playing the sequence theme "Those Were the Days," the band will perform a drill routine as they play a medley of old favorites, "Three Little Fishes," "Mairzy-Doats," and "Hut Sut Ralston."

New Numbers

In an effort to ease the near capacity usage of campus switchboards, Southeastern Telephone Company recently changed the FSU dorm telephones to off-campus lines.

Monte Drake, Assistant Director for Planning, said FSU is rapidly nearing the maximum capacity of its telephone lines. By changing the 13 dorm telephone numbers, the company released 92 lines to the use of the general campus.

Of the 1,500 lines on campus, approximately 1,350 are in use, with the rest expected to be filled by the end of the year.

Southeastern Telephone has promised the university an additional 500 lines by September, 1971, Drake said.

'The Virgin Spring' Starts Cinema Series

Ingmar Bergman's Academy Award-winning film The Virgin Spring will start off the fall season of the Cinema Art Series Wednesday at 8:45 in Moore Auditorium. Admission is 50 cents.

Guitar Lessons

A demonstration in classical guitar will be given tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in the Leon Room of the Union. Bill Hart will discuss the requirements for a class he will be instructing in classical guitar.

The series of classical guitar lessons will begin Monday, Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. in Room 352 Union.

The fee for the 10-week course is $5, and participants must be able to read music.

Based on an old Swedish folk ballad, The Virgin Spring tells the grim story of the rape and murder of a young girl and the vengeance enacted by her father (Max von Sydow) upon the men who committed the crime.

Bergman evokes a dark world of violence and ignorance in which Christianity and paganism battle for dominance. Critic Peter Cowie termed The Virgin Spring "a stark excursion into medieval legend that contains some of the most tender and some of the most obscene sequences ever made by Bergman."

Cowens Good

Celtics Romp 121-103

Dave Cowens and Willie Williams returned to Tully Gym last night in their pro debuts along with ex-Jacksonville star Rex Morgan and Pete Maravich as the Boston Celtics opened the 1979 National Basketball Association pre-season action with a convincing 121-103 win of the Atlanta Hawks before a crowd of 3,500.

Walt Hazzard and Lou Hudson led the Hawks to a five-point first quarter lead as both clubs traded the coin quite often in the early going. But with five minutes left in the half, Don Cheney hit a two-point that put the Celtics out front to stay.

Cowens scored nine in the first half of action which had the men from Beantown leading 55-46. Maravich only had two points in the first two periods.

At the beginning of the second half, the Hawks' fate was sealed as Cheney, Steve Kuberski and little Art Williams constantly hit and puffed Boston out to a 91-69 third quarter lead.

Then it was Cowens' turn again and he teamed with Morgan and Cheney to pull away to as much as a 30-point margin with 9:16 left to play in the contest.

Cowens ended the night with 16 points and nearly 20 rebounds and he showed a great amount of hustle which pleased his coach, Tom Heinsohn. Maravich, getting a fast quarter barrage of 14 points, ended the night with 18 also and Morgan finished with 11. Williams scored three.

John Havlicek, the perennial Celtic, scored 11 in the first half and then saw little action in the second. High men for the Hawks were Hazzard and Hudson.

JOHN LANAHAN
Lanahan to start at fullback

Lanahan Shifted

John Lanahan, who was moved from his former defensive back position about three weeks ago to the backfield as a fullback, was the object of a surprise move yesterday as Coach Bill Peterson demoted former starter running back James Jarrett to the second team and moved Lanahan into the vacant spot.

The change was the culmination of a long week of frustration for Peterson, who was extremely disappointed over his runners in the first two ball games of the season. The starter in the first contest against Louisville, Paul Magalski, was placed on the third unit.

A sophomore last season, the six-foot Lanahan started two games at the safety position early in the season before he injured his knee and was out of commission for the remainder of the season.

During the off-season he had an operation and now the knee is mended and responding well to all activities.

"He's looked good in practice," said Peterson, "and we're going to give him a try."

The only serious injury of the injured cheek of flanker Don Pederson who got negative reports on his X-rays after being hurt in the Georgia Tech game. "We think maybe in a couple of days he will be alright," said Peterson.

Another bright spot in the Seminole game plan has been the return of starting monster man Buddy Gridley. Steve Gilead, who played the monster this past week, will return to his usual linebacker post.

Flambeau SPORTS

Skiing Club Formed By Comptroller

For all of you skiing buffs at Florida State who for years have been waiting for a group of your own, the Water Skiing Club of FSU has come to save the day.

The club, which will be designed for anyone who wishes to join, will have its first organizational meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 30, in Room 352 of the Union.

Even if you have never water skied, you are welcome to participate. Instruction in this fine art is planned and the facilities that will be used are those of the Seminole Reservation on the shores of Lake Bradford.

Marc Sussman, who is also the Student Government comptroller, has communicated with the Reservation director, Gene Wilson, who is very eager to assist the club in any or all of its activities.

Weekend gatherings at the lake would be set up and those people who own boats would be asked to assist in making the club the tremendous success it can be.

Such clubs are already in existence at all the other state schools and they have competition already set up. These clubs have approached FSU for dates to hold meets and if the club is formed these competitions will be held.

Sailors Host Kash Meet This Saturday

The FSU Sailing Association will host the Southeastern Intercollegiate Sailing Association (SEIAS) fall meeting this coming weekend.

At least two representatives from the New Orleans and Baton Rouge campuses of Louisiana State University, Loyola, Springhill College, Pensacola Junior College, the University of West Florida and FSU will meet Saturday night to arrange this next year's regatta schedule.

FSU, in conjunction with the scheduling meeting, will host the Michal Kash Regatta. Since Florida State graduated its top racing skippers last June, this regatta will help pick out who will race for the Seminoles this fall. The skippers meeting for the regatta will be at 9 a.m. Saturday at the boat house on the Seminole Reservation.

Because of the scheduling meeting and the Michal Kash Regatta, there will be no lessons this coming weekend, but everyone is welcome to come out and watch the races.

The following weekend lessons and interclub races will resume with lessons Saturday at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. The skippers meeting for the races Sunday will be at 1:30 p.m. at the boat house.

Texas Rated No. 1 By Poll

By Steve Smilianich
UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Darrell Royal isn't about to begin comparing his current University of Texas football squad with last year's national champions but the Longhorns coach finds it difficult to hide his enthusiasm for the 1970 outfit.

Rival coaches apparently are high on this year's Longhorns too as evidenced by the support Texas got in the first weekly major college ratings made by the United Press International coaches rating board.

Texas, a 56-15 victor over California in its season opener, received 22 first place votes and 341 points as the defending national champions would up in the same spot they finished at the end of the 1969 campaign.

"We've won only one game is all," said Royal. "Last year's team won 11. We'll just have to wait until this one wins 10 or 11 and then we can do some comparing."

Nevertheless, Royal called his team's performance "the sharpest opening game we've ever had."

The Longhorns outpolled unfried Ohio State for the no. 1 spot. Coach Woody Hayes' Buckeyes, who open their campaign next Saturday at home against Texas A&M, got one first place vote and 271 points.

Penn State, which finished last year as the no. 2 team, received one first place vote and 202 points to edge Stanford for the no. 3 spot. The Nitany Lions, who owned a 23-game winning streak, longest current string in the nation, started the new season by trouncing Navy, 55-7.

Stanford, a two-time victor, was ranked fourth, followed by Pacific Eight Conference rival Southern California. Missouri, also victorious in two starts, was rated sixth, followed by Mississippi, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Michigan.

The second ten consisted of Houston, UCLA, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Florida; Purdue and Colorado tied for 16th; Arkansas, Auburn, Washington and West Virginia tied for 19th.

Royal says he appreciates the vote of confidence from the 34 other coaches making up the rating board "but the only time that counts is when the season is over."

"My philosophy is for us to win our games and let the polls take care of themselves," said Royal.

Many people are asking Lewis why he feels Tallahassee is the best place to begin the rehabilitation services. Lewis points to the three educational institutions in the area. "They can see that the program gets all the help that it needs. We have the School of Pharmacy at FAMU, the Schools of Nursing at FSU, FAMU, and Tallahassee Community College, not to mention the departments of Social Welfare and Psychology at FSU and FAMU," Lewis said.

"The purpose of the center would be to rebuild the physical and mental health of the addict and to prepare him for re-entry into society," Lewis said.

According to Lewis' plan, the center would have facilities for in and out patient clinics, work therapy, vocational training and academic training. In addition, the clinic would provide various after care services which would help in the "transitional period between total confinement and re-entry into society," Lewis said.

Lewis explained that after he submits the results of his study to the legislators, it will be up to them to decide what they want to do in the forthcoming session of the legislature.

"At least they will have the facts and figures to work with," Lewis said.

Will Go To The People With 'Our Message'

Marshall Sees Public Distrust As Threat

Distrust of and hostility toward universities is a "threat to higher education" which must be countered by "taking our message to the people more vigorously than ever before," President Stanley Marshall said during his part of a special report on the state of the university Wednesday night.

"It is a threat to our financial support, our freedom to administer the universities without undue interference from outside, and to our freedom to live and work under the conditions of freedom essential to the academic enterprise," Marshall said in the radio-television report.

The universities themselves must accept part of the responsibility for "the breakdown of faith and goodwill" between the academic community and the public, he said.

"Too many of us have remained silent and motionless while our institutions of higher learning have come under the most vicious and senseless attacks from their own people."

"But that posture of immobility by faculty and students has begun to change and I now see a firmness on the part of universities which I believe will vouchsafe the process of education on the campuses and also insure the understanding and support of those from the community outside whose support is vital to our enterprise."

Marshall said he plans to spend a lot of time in the year ahead delivering "our message."

He said he will try to help "the people of Florida and our legislators in particular understand that this is an institution dedicated to serving this state in the future as it has in the past."

Marshall said he also will emphasize that the majority of the university's people "are

Announcement of plans for acquisition of about six blocks adjacent to the campus and construction of a student housing facility, and a $25 million for construction and renovation were the highlights of presentations by the FSU vice presidents in Wednesday night's radio-television report to the university community.

Dr. Cecil Mackey, executive vice president, described plans by the City of Tallahassee to acquire, as part of a federal urban renewal project, six city blocks and donate them to the university.

Mackey said part of the property will be used to construct two apartment-style dormitories, which will cost about $2 million. The university has no specific land use plans beyond this as of now, he said.

The university will assist in relocating the residents of the area, Mackey said.

Mackey said the university has no further plans for significant land acquisition. He said small, individual parcels of land adjoining the campus may be secured for parking or similar functions.

He said there are no plans for expansion of any kind north of Tennessee St.

This apparently was a response to the many rumors that the university will eventually expand into the black residential section, Frenchtown.

Dr. Robert Peirce, vice president for administration, described "pressing and even critical" needs for space which he said will require about $25 million to be met.

"More than 100,000 square feet of space on this campus have been condemned or are otherwise unusable," Peirce said. He cited the Dittenbaugh building as an example.

The university's physical plant division has estimated that repairs will cost more than $10 million, Peirce reported.

At least 500,000 square feet of additional space is needed, he said. He estimated the cost of this to be about $15 million.

"We should accomplish now some $25 million worth of repair, renovation and construction," Peirce said.

Sherman Says His Points Dodged

Athletics Debate Wasn't

By John Snavely
Staff Writer

About 300 students gathered Wednesday afternoon to hear Student Body President Chuck Sherman and Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha debate the future of intercollegiate athletics at FSU, but the debate never materialized.

Sherman began the discussion by reading an eight-page statement entitled "Intercollegiate Sports at FSU: A Proposal for Change."

He cited the dissension among athletes and coaches and the skyrocketing costs of intercollegiate sports as indications that the time has come for reform.

Sherman concluded that FSU will not be able to compete with the big time athletic powers without severely curtailing other activities of the university. He said that even if FSU could afford to broaden its athletic program, there are many compelling reasons why it should not.

Concerning the treatment of athletes, Sherman cited four reasons why the present athletic program does not permit them to be treated as equals in the university community.

He cited the strict disciplinary life, hair and dress codes, concentration on athletic rather than academic pursuits and restrictions on involvement in campus political activities which are open to all other FSU students.

Sherman said he felt the big business element of intercollegiate sports is a threat to the integrity of the university.

Referring to head football coach Bill Peterson, Sherman said, "Though students are told to go through the regular channels when they have a grievance, Peterson can pick up a phone and call an important state government official to gain his objectives. This shows his contempt for the normal university decision-making procedures and exposes as a facade the belief that students and faculty can exercise any real influence on the nature of athletics at FSU."

He also referred to the questionable practice of Peterson using his position as a state employee to advertise products on television for his personal profit.

At the conclusion of his statement, Sherman presented a specific proposal to "change our program from expensive over-emphasized athletics back to amateur athletics in the classical tradition."

Special Showing Of Propaganda Film

A special showing of the Nazi propaganda film "Triumph of the Will" will be held at 7:30 tonight in 275 Chemistry Lecture Hall.

Produced and directed by Leni Riefenstahl, "Triumph of the Will" has been recognized as a classic of the propaganda films genre. "It's one of the films you always read about in history books," said David LeRoy, an assistant professor of communication who is supervising the showing.

Made in 1935 to cover the Nuremberg conference of the Nazi party, the movie is an attempt to show party unity after the divisive Rohen incident. The incident was a quarrel between the SA division of the Brown Shirts led by Rohen, and the Himmler-led S.S., who considered the Brown Shirts unprofessional ruffians.

"This film is the masterpiece of Nazi propaganda," said LeRoy. "It shows the unification of the party using great masses of people and thundering music."

LeRoy also noted that the splices of Nazi rallies, Hitler oratory, and troop parades used in most World War II documentaries and later films came mainly from "The Triumph of the Will."

Activities Office Reports Trouble

Storm Eddy of the Office of Student Activities reports that the office is having trouble locating various campus organizations and their leaders.

"In order for this office to function properly, each organization should keep its file complete and up-to-date," Miss Eddy said. Several organizations have been deficient in this duty, and information for prospective students has not been available, she added.

Miss Eddy related the incident of the American Bicycle Association, an organization which has a constitution on file in the office. Miss Eddy said they have not received any further information concerning the address or whereabouts of the association.

The Office of Student Activities is located in Room 350 University Union and is accessible to all students and campus organizations.

School of Music

Lecture Series To Begin

Ten members of the Florida State School of Music faculty will speak during the "Music In Our Changing World" lecture series that begins Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 205, Music Building.

The 10-week series is co-sponsored by the School of Music and the Division of Continuing Education. A $7.50 registration fee is payable at the first class session.

Open to students, faculty and area residents, the program is intended to provide cultural enrichment while acquainting the participants with School of Music faculty members.

The series will open with Clifford Madsen speaking on "The Psychology of Music," followed by an Oct. 5 lecture by Thomas Wright on "Music Appreciation In Our Changing World."

The Oct. 12 lecture will be "Russian Music Education" by School of Music Dean Wiley L. Housewright. Richard Mayo will open the Oct. 19 lecture, "The Music on the Other Side of the Tracks—A Look at Rock and Jazz."

Carlisle Floyd will speak on Oct. 26 on "Writing the Opera: 'Of Mice and Men'." John Boda will deliver the Nov. 2 lecture on "Composing Music in the 1970's."

"Choral Music Today" will be the Nov. 16 talk given by Joseph Flummerfelt, and on Nov. 23 Raymond Meyer will speak on "Brake Drums, Snare Drums, Oil Drums and Ear Drums—The Contemporary Percussion World."

The Nov. 30 lecture "Why Opera Was Murdered" will be given by Eugene Talley-Schmidt.

Indian Harvest Dance Offered This Quarter

The Bhangra, a traditional harvest dance from Punjab, India, will be taught this quarter as a non-credit course.

Instructor Gogi Basi, a graduate student in math and native of Punjab, terms the dance "as old as the culture" of the area.

"It is a very colorful, vigorous dance," said Basi, "and very good exercise." Having known the dance since childhood, Basi recalled that it was performed in the evenings during special occasions and holidays.

Interest of various FSU students in the Bhangra spurred Basi to teach the course, he said. Basi has both taught and lead various Bhangra dance groups in the U.S. He won first place in an international folk dance contest in Gainesville last year.

The first meeting of students interested in the eight-week course will be held Monday, Sept. 29, at 8 p.m. in Room 40, Chemistry Classroom Building.

Vespers Service Tonight

A vespers service will be held tonight at 6:30 at the Baptist Student Union (BSU). Mr. Charles E. Lovell, minister of music at First Baptist Church, will be the guest speaker.

A rehearsal for the folk musical, "Natural High," will follow the service. Rehearsals for "Natural High" will be held each following Thursday evening at the BSU under the direction of Mr. Lovell.

The musical will be premiered in the tri-state (Fla., Ga., Ala.) area in the near future.

flambeau weather

By Langdon Kellogg
Flambeau Meteorologist

Hot, humid weather continues from the Southeast to the Ohio Valley and Mid-Atlantic states while unseasonably cold weather moved into the Southwest. Heavy thunderstorms occurred along the cold front separating the two air masses.

In the tropics there were several areas of disturbed weather which will be monitored by satellite pictures and reconnaissance aircraft.

An increase in the shower activity is expected in the Big Bend area for the next few days as the high pressure ridge over the Southeast gradually moves southeastward. The high temperature today will be in the low 90's with the low tomorrow morning near 72.

To Conduct Studies

Candidate Calls On Students

Public Service Commission candidate Wilson Wright today called for the use of university staff and students in conducting utility service and rate studies.

Wright, speaking to supporters in Miami, said one of the handicaps of the Commission in conducting its hearing is the difficulty the Commission has in keeping men on its staff with the know-how to analyze and evaluate the complicated presentations of the utility companies.

"The Commission salaries are so low as compared with private enterprise, that they keep losing their best men to private business," Wright said.

"And unless we have the best men working for the state, the consumer goes into the public hearings at a disadvantage, as he faces the barrage of highly skilled attorneys who represent the utilities."

Wright recommended that the state use the "pool of capable talent available right there in Tallahassee, on the staffs of FSU and Florida A&M."

"We've got some of the top business and legal talent already working for the state, in the College of Law and the School of Business. It's just a matter of enlisting their help."

"In fact, I can visualize the development of a special course during which time the students would work for the Commission, actually working on utility studies, analyzing utility reports, and making recommendations, while earning university credit for their experiences.

"The use of interns, which is what these young men and women would be, has been most successful in other areas of government, and I am certain it will work at the Public Service Commission," Wright said.

Wright also hit again at his opponent's "record of callous disregard" for the consumer.

Wright said Bevis' vote and support of the "tremendous legislative pay raise and the cane pole fishing tax indicate his true interests."

Leadership Conference

Student Government has scheduled a leadership conference for all campus organization leaders on Saturday, Oct. 3, in the Bellamy Building.

The conference is designed to promote understanding and communication between all campus interest clubs and social and honorary organizations, Carter Jones, secretary of internal affairs and workshop coordinator, said.

Jones also said that almost all of the 250 campus organizations will be represented. He added that the meetings will include discussions on how organization leaders can motivate their club members and promote communication within each group, as well as give newly elected officers a chance to get to know officers of other clubs.

Minto To Speak Today

Wallace L. Minto, inventor of a low-pollution freeon-powered automobile engine, will speak in Room 275 of the Chemistry Lecture Hall today at 4:30 p.m.

The lecture is part of a physics department colloquium entitled "The Kinetics of the Fluoro-Carbon Engine," and is open to the public.

"The Minto engine uses freeon as the working fluid in a closed system whereas a conventional steam engine uses water. Low pollution is achieved by a very clean burn of the fuel in the freeon boiler," said Dr. Robert H. Davis of the Tandem Van de Graaff accelerator laboratory.

There is disagreement among scientists over whether or not the use of Minto's engine in passenger cars is feasible. The problem centers on whether you can get a condenser large enough to permit sufficient flow of air through it and small enough to fit in a car.

This difficulty may have been solved by the invention of a compact condenser by the Donbar Development Corporation. The new condenser can be installed inside the Minto engine instead of on the car's roof as has previously been necessary.

Minto's Kinetics, Inc. has signed a contract with Donbar giving them worldwide rights to the condenser.

"Instead of bringing air to the heated surface to be cooled by the compressor, it brings the hot surface to the air," said George Farris, president of Donbar. Donbar's condenser "uses rotary centrifugal force to transfer the heat," he said.

Nissan Motor Co. Ltd. (Japan) signed a contract for mass production of the Minto engine for use in production of Datsun automobiles. Minto has signed other contracts with Japanese firms for the use of the engine in boats, tractors, bulldozers and heavy construction equipment.

There will be a coffee with Minto present for interested students at 3:30 p.m. in the ground floor lobby of the Keen Bldg. The coffee is sponsored by the Society for Physics Students.

Prominent Dignitaries Speak At Conference

John P. Olsson, Deputy Undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Transportation, and Gov. Robert McNair are among prominent dignitaries who will meet at FSU today and tomorrow for a conference entitled "The Role of the State in Transportation."

The conference is sponsored by the FSU Department of Continuing Education and the transportation center of the Department of Urban and Regional Planning.

Funding was made available from the Urban Mass Transit Administration under the terms of Title II of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964.

Olsson will speak at the Apalachee Parkway Holiday Inn at 7:30 p.m. He will speak on federal-state cooperation in solving transport problems.

Jacksonville Mayor Hans Tanzler, Sidney Swope, president of the Florida Bus Association, and Prime Osborn,

JOHN P. OLSSON

From the Editor's Desk

What will be the fate of intercollegiate athletics in the future? In yesterday's debate, Student Body President Chuck Sherman says FSU will not be able to stay in the "big time" because the numerous demands upon tuition fees grow greater every year and sources outside the university will soon dry up.

Athletic Director Vaughn Mancha contends that the football program pays for itself, bringing revenues of $1.1 million while utilizing only $900,000 for expenses and so all other monies go towards the non-revenue sports. Therefore, the students, alumni and other outside sources must pay to enable competition for the smaller sports programs.

To alleviate this money problem, Sherman suggested FSU should take the initiative to start a conference where athletic money would be limited, thus operating on a regulated budget.

Dr. Coyle Moore Sr., whose son is commemorated in the naming of Moore Auditorium, spoke of the situation and presented facts which are true.

"Athletics is the symbol with which we compete" for our salaries, grants, buildings, etc. in the legislature. The fame we gain on the field determines the money in our pockets.

Certainly, the basic function of a university is education but athletic competition is an education in itself for the players and a source of recreation for the spectators. And the greatness of our athletics can also draw attention to the greatness of our educational facilities by the publicity exposure.

Attendance has slackened in the area of football and would become even less if we were to withdraw into our own conference because we would not be playing any significant schools which would draw a crowd.

But attendance has grown in the smaller sports and they may, someday, be able to support their own weight as does football.

Last year's additions to the baseball stands were pocketed every game as the Seminoles played to become second in the nation. Students had to resort to closed circuit television in order to watch basketball games because of limited capacity in Tully Gym.

FSU must decide to either continue athletics on a large scale to maintain a competition level with neighboring schools or drop sports altogether because a small scale operation would never survive the attendance drop since other big name schools are within reasonable distance. It would be unfortunate to lose such a great American pastime.

Shocking Trend

Females Losing Morals

To the Editor:

I believe that a dress code should be reinstated at Florida State. As a student who has watched the changes in dress and conduct at FSU over the past several years, I am deeply shocked and discouraged by the trend toward nudity among many female students.

Several years ago, there were rules against wearing pants on campus. Now many young women parade around in skin-tight jeans and shorts. It is really revolting to watch some of the disgusting outfits that pass for "pants suits."

Another trend has been toward bralessness. No lady with any kind of self-respect would leave the privacy of her own room in some of the get-ups that young women now wear to cover (barely) their bodies. I think that there is nothing more revolting than watching some young woman bounce across campus in some sort of scarf, blouse or halter that covers almost nothing.

If a dress code were reinstated, some of the lax behavior leading to the immorality at pop festivals, demonstrations and drug abuse would be stopped. I also believe that students just might stop demonstrating if they had something better on their minds, and would study more, thereby increasing their chances of future advancement.

And maybe they would think about the safety of their country more, instead of being misled by the radicals who seem to like to advocate the immorality and pervicaciousness that is leading this country to ruin.

WHO SAID THAT ?!

"WHEN RESPECT FOR THE UNITED STATES FALLS SO LOW THAT A FOURTH-RATE MILITARY POWER LIKE NORTH KOREA WILL SEIZE AN AMERICAN NAVAL VESSEL ON THE HIGH SEAS, IT IS TIME FOR NEW LEADERSHIP."

Housing Crowds Residents

To the Editor:

Florida State University's housing office has decided that the enormously spacious rooms which it provides in the dorms are too large, especially in Salley Hall. After all, if you can squeeze two beds into the room side by side, what other need have you of floor space. In previous years, one could bunk the beds in Salley and thus have a little breathing space in the room. However, it seems that this year some enterprising bureaucrat in the housing office has given an order from "on high" to collect all the poles that were used to bunk the beds and hide them away.

Obviously, this move has been made for our safety. It seems that a girl was seriously injured during the summer quarter while trying to get into the top bunk in her room. Any student who has lived in Salley Hall could tell the graduates of idiot school employed in the front office of housing that the fact that the beds were bunched was not the cause of the accident. That girl was injured because she slipped on a stool that is extremely top-heavy, and tips over very easily when someone stands on it. I personally have slipped many times on these stools, and I have seen my roommate slip on numerous occasions also. Generally when someone slips the stool goes one way and the person the other; however, in this particular accident the girl fell directly onto the overturned stool leg.

The injuries that the girl sustained could have just as easily been obtained if she had slipped while using the stool to stand on to get something out of her closet.

Following the housing office's logic in removing the poles used to support the beds, I ask whether if someone slips in Kellum Hall and suffers a similar accident, will the housing office see the solution as sealing up the top bunks and making all the rooms singles?

English Majors Dying From The Heat

To the Editor:

It's a 90-degree blistering afternoon. A student, dripping with sweat, hurries from his chemistry class on one side of the campus to an English class on the other side.

He's not a science major. He could care less about his air-conditioned chemistry class.

Finally, 10 minutes late, he trudges his way into the Williams Building and takes the only seat left in his class—one next to the wall and far away from the sweltering room's only ventilation—a window.

On FSU's campus, it seems that science and government march on as new air-conditioned buildings continually go up to accommodate the students.

But woe to the poor English major, condemned to write in-class themes where the ink runs together and take notes on paper already soaked from sweaty hands and listen to lectures which might have been interesting if he could have heard them over the big old-fashioned fan which is supposed to keep the room cool.

What's wrong with English? I'm sure it won't die out like Latin, unless, of course, all English teachers die from the heat.

English teachers are sadly needed in every level of education. They are much more necessary than some non-scientist taking some silly auditorium science class that he may either cheat his way through or barely pass.

Why do we build more and more science buildings on our campus and simply say the hell with English?

Some of our professors may be older than most in other fields and may be less progressive but a lot of English is not progressive. This does not mean anyone can learn it much easier if they are hot and so sweaty that they slide right out of their antique desk.

Anyway, what I am trying to say is that something had better be done soon unless they want a student to die of heat within the next few days. Renovation will be great but some of us English majors may not live to see it.

SHRILING KAPPA ALPHA THETA—Theta archivist Leslie Mason pauses on her way to class to look over the new addition to her sorority house. Leslie invited the photographer and anyone else to come visit her new house. (Bill Wood)

Thetas Return To New House

By John Harrison
Staff Writer

A dream that began three years ago became a reality this fall when the members of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority returned to their 510 W. Park home. A new addition, valued at $250,000 and more than doubling the old house capacity, had been built by the alumnae.

The addition increases floor space from 8400 square feet to 17,100 square feet. It includes 12 bedrooms, a large dining room, an institutional kitchen, a guest room and an upstairs TV lounge.

Although dedication of the new facilities is not planned until the Theta district convention on Feb. 19-21, an open house is planned for mid-October. Theta president Sarah Harrison expressed a desire that the open house give the entire campus "an opportunity to enjoy our new house with us."

The Thetas take special pride in their new kitchen, capable of serving up to 200 persons.

The kitchen facilities include a walk-in freezer, a walk-in refrigerator, an institutional gas range, and an oversize convection oven. The kitchen is divided into three separate areas for preparation, serving, and clean-up so that all three operations may be carried on simultaneously.

President Harrison believes that having room for all the chapter officers to live in the house will make chapter operation more efficient. She also said that increasing the number of sisters living in the house will strengthen the ties of sisterhood.

Mary McInerney, women's vice president at Florida State University, thinks the infirmary's decision to dispense the pill to campus coeds is long overdue.

"It's strictly a medical decision and that's how it should be treated. This service should have been provided more openly and at a greater dispensability a long time ago," Miss McInerney said.

"The big issue is not women suddenly using pills. It is not a moral decision," she said.

The women's vice president said she is "glad that the health center has increased their facilities so that they can accommodate the increasing number of women on campus."

Miss McInerney has been working with Dr. Robert C. Hunter, director of student health services, in planning an informative booklet on birth control.

"I think there is ignorance in this area. If it's put out in a presentable fashion where students won't feel embarrassed, then it will be helpful," she said.

New Rush Policy Successful

"This will be the best rush that Florida State has ever had," said Assistant Dean of Student Affairs Harris Shelton. Shelton, also Interfraternity Council (IFC) advisor, said that his optimism was based on the new open rush policy and on a focusing of IFC efforts on "service to its members, not regulation."

Noting an increased interest in fraternities among people living in dormitories, Shelton said that the move to open rush should have been made years ago. The old style rush placed too much of a burden on persons going out for rush, he said.

Fraternities "almost priced themselves out of the market," Shelton said, because of the requirement that the rushee visit each of the 21 fraternities scattered across the campus.

Asked about the attitudes of President Stanley Marshall and Student Body President Chuck Sherman, Shelton said that "President Marshall will do any reasonable thing to help the Greeks." Shelton said that Sherman was not personally against fraternities and sororities.

Shelton expressed delight that fraternities are placing

Beta Eta chapter of Pi Kappa Phi (Pi Kaps) sent chapter president Clark Rensinger and secretary Herb Brownette to Chicago. Beta Eta Chapter received the National Champion Master Champion Award and the President's plaque.

The Master Chapter Award is given to the Pi Kappa chapter which shows the most excellence in chapter management and campus involvement. The President's Plaque is awarded to the chapter with the best publication.

Phi Sigma chapter of Phi Gamma Delta (Fijis) was represented by president Bob Wurzel, treasurer Don Stuart.

Phi Sigma chapter placed second in the Brightman Award competition, and received honorable mention in competition for the Coon Plaque and Condon Cup.

The Brightman Award is given to the Fijis chapter best exemplifying that Phi Gamma Delta is "Not for College Days Alone." The Condon Cup is given to the most improved chapter, and the Coon Plaque recognizes outstanding work in publications.

more emphasis on scholarship. He also said that he was happy that fraternities are becoming aware of the problems of the community around them.

Shelton noted a trend toward smaller fraternities, whose excellent financial standing coupled with good scholarship and active alumni make them particularly attractive to the influx of junior college transfer students.

Decision To Dispense Pill Overdue?

Other students interviewed on campus generally agreed that FSU is behind the times in dispensing the pill.

"I think this should have been done long ago," one junior commented.

"The pill should also be given to girls under 21 without parental consent. I think if a girl wants to take them and she knows what she's doing, then she should be able to," he added.

Several FSU coeds said they were in favor of dispensing the pill on campus, but that parental consent should not be required for those under 21.

"I know of several girls in my dorm last year who were taking the pill and they weren't 21," a sophomore coed said.

"They are putting out so much information all over the world about birth control and population explosion, they should make them available to any coed who wants them," she said.

Another sophomore said that girls should be made aware that there are other methods of birth control, and that the pill is not right for everyone.

"I wouldn't take them myself," she said.

"I had mixed emotions about it," a freshman commented, explaining that he had reservations about a 21-year-old student who was unmarried taking the pill.

"I question the parents of 18-year-olds who would let them take the pill," he said.

Another freshman male student said it was good the campus had made the pill available.

"I know for a fact it takes at least a month to get an appointment with an off-campus doctor," he said.

St. Leo Students In 'Open Defiance'

SAINT LEO (UPI)—Students at Saint Leo College continued their widespread violation of dorm visitation rules Tuesday night and the editor of the college newsletter called Wednesday a co-chairman of the board of trustees to step down.

The students at the small college of 1,200 began their open defiance of a rule prohibiting females from being in rooms of male students Monday after the board of trustees declined to act on a policy change.

Current policy restricts visits of women to the male dorms to the public lounges of two of the five dorms. The students want full visitation privileges contending that visiting a dorm room is the same as visiting a person's home.

John W. Frank, editor-in-chief of The Lion, criticized the board of trustees for lack of concern on the part of the trustees. "When a group of men, almost completely removed from the college experience, decide the lives of 1,200 people without showing any understanding of the situation whatsoever, they are failing to administer their expected responsibilities," Frank wrote.

Graduates

Students who plan to graduate December 15 must complete an application in the Office of the Registrar by October 2. The $10 diploma fee is no longer required.

Racquettes Tough Again

By Ginger Augenstein
Sports Writer

FSU constantly has something to be proud of and the girls tennis team, the Racquettes, is no exception.

The Racquettes, under the direction of Miss Ann Gables, are quite happy with their winning records. In past years, when taking on the University of Florida, they have suffered only two losses in 21 years.

Besides the regular spring competition, the Racquettes will also have a full fall schedule. Although the schedule has not as yet been confirmed, the team will tentatively open the fall season here at home with Rollins College of Winter Park, Florida. They will then move on to their first road trip to Pensacola, Mobile and New Orleans from October 29 to October 31.

Adding a touch of spice to this year's fall matches will be a special duel between the Racquettes and the Tallahassee Women's Club. This match will be held on Montgomery Gym courts, and spectators will be more than welcome.

Leading the girls this year will be last year's president of the club, Ann Roberts, from Coral Gables. She will head the group in the number one spot. The number two spot will go to Kathy Pressly.

ANN ROBERTS

Tyson Top Receiver, Lohse Big Tackler

Jim Tyson is leading the corps of Seminole receivers in receptions with six, but Rhett Dawson leads in total yardage with five receptions for 123 yards, the longest going 29. Barry Smith leads in average yards per catch with a 31-yard average.

Tom Bailey, the hard running fullback, is far ahead in the rushing category and closing in on his bid to become the top ground gainer in Florida State history. Bailey has 106 yards and is the closest one behind being quarterback Frank Whigham, who has 64 yards and carries for a 10.3 average. Tommy Warren is the third leading rusher with 50 yards gained followed by Art Monroe.

In the defense department Bill Lohse, the hard hitting linebacker, leads with 13 tackles, 16 assists and three big plays. Dan Whitehurst, also a linebacker, is second with 12 tackles, 15 assists and two big plays followed by Robert McEachern, James Thomas and Ron Wallace.

Once again the kicking game bears impressive statistics. Duane Carrell has booted 14 punts for 620 yards and an average of 44.3, his longest going 68. The punt returns are also excellent with David Snell averaging 24.3 yards on four returns. Frank Fontes, the barefoot field goal specialist, is one for three in his department.

The first meeting of the Florida State Skiing Club will be on Sept. 30 at 8 p.m. in Room 352 of the Union. All are welcome, including beginners.

First Autocross Held Saturday

This Sunday, September 27, an autocross will be held on the old airport behind the Tallahassee Community College.

Sponsored and run by the local branch of the Sports Car Club of America, the event, which features driving skill and maneuverability rather than high speeds, is open to all interested people to watch or compete.

The course is laid out by markers and the object is to go through the course as quickly as possible. One car is allowed on the track at a time and that car races against the clock.

Penalties are assigned for hitting the course markers or for deviating from the course. Trophies are awarded to the top cars in the various classes.

All those interested in cars and handling are invited to the event. Registration and practice begin at 9 a.m., with timed runs beginning after a drivers' meeting at 12:30 p.m. Although most cars are street cars, they are all inspected by the officials to assure mechanical soundness.

In addition, all cars must be equipped with seat belts with a metal-to-metal buckle to comply with the insurance requirements of the SCCA.

Arkansas First Tampa Seventh

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arkansas has proven itself in its conference. Now the Indians are looking for national honors.

Bennie Ellender's team took a big step in that direction Wednesday when Arkansas State was voted the nation's No. 1 small college football team in the first weekly balloting by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

Arkansas State received 97 points in the balloting to outdistance defending champion North Dakota State and Akron, which tied for second with 79 points. Delaware was fourth with 77 points and Montana, a close runner-up in last year's final balloting, was fifth at 75.

Completing the Top 10 were Texas A&M in sixth, Tampa and Northern Michigan ninth and Drake 10th.

Louisiana Tech, which sent no. 1 draft pick Terry Bradshaw to the pros last season, was ranked 11th followed by Tennessee State and New Mexico Highlands. Wittenberg and Grambling tied for 14th, Wofford was 16th, Western Carolina 17th, Northern Colorado, formerly Colorado State College at Greeley, and Fresno State were deadlocked in 18th and East Tennessee State was 20th.

Arkansas State, winner of two straight Southland Conference titles, finished 8-1-1 last season. The Indians lost nine veteran starters and face one of the toughest schedules in their history, facing major colleges, the Citadel and Wichita, and small college powers Louisiana Tech and Southern Illinois. Wichita fell 53-14 in a season opener.

Five coaches from each the seven geographical areas of the nation comprise the UPI ratings board. Each week they select the Top 10 small college teams in the nation, with points awarded on a 10-1 basis on votes from first through 10th.

Predicted Top 20 For Coming Season

We really don't think you'll need a dictionary or a copy of "Who's Who" to read our first Top 20 of the 1970 season. Most of the faces are probably all too familiar.

Texas is still unchallenged for that number one position, and the Longhorns will solidify the top spot with a 28-point spanking of Texas Tech this Saturday.

Sixth-ranked Notre Dame will be waiting to boil the 15th-ranked Riveters of Purdue, the only game the Irish lost during the regular 1969 season. The "spoiler" will be played in South Bend, and it looks like a five-point revenge victory for Notre Dame.

The Air Force, number 19, may be victim, third for the Tigers of Missouri, ranked fourth. Rolling with a full head of steam, Missouri will have to keep the fire hot in order to clip the Falcons. The spread could be 11 points.

Though a little late in appearing on stage for the 1970 football season, the Ohio State Buckeyes plan to make Ohio State's first quest, and they'll be treated rather poorly. The Buckets will ship the Aggies by 22 points.

And after a breather last Saturday, seventh-ranked Stanford moves into Pacific Coast Conference action against Oregon. The Ducks may be tough, but the Indians will be much tougher—Stanford by 26.

Mississippi, Southern California and Nebraska, numbers two, eight and nine respectively, should have things fairly easy Saturday. The Rebels take on Kentucky as they start their quest for the Southeast Conference crown. Mississippi will beat the Wildcats by 27 points. The Trojans bump into Big Ten competition, but they'll have little trouble beating Iowa by 21. And Nebraska will conquer the Cadets of West Point by 25 points.

Rated third in our national rankings, Penn State travels to Colorado for an intersectional battle. The Buffaloes are Big Eight title contenders. Penn State is out to keep its amazing undefeated streak alive. The Nittany Lions will win by 16.

Bouton's Statements Denied By Several

NEW YORK—Carl Yastrzemski, Wayne Comer, Don Mincher and four other big-league ballplayers have challenged the veracity of some of Jim Bouton's anecdotes in his best-selling baseball diary, Ball Four.

Charging Bouton with distortions and misrepresentations, the seven players give in their versions of the incidents in an article in the current issue of Play magazine.

Yastrzemski was charged by Bouton in the book of attempting to organize a separate committee for the purpose of settling the player strike without the Players' Association.

Carl answers back in the Sport article. "At no time did I ever try to get anyone to join me to settle the disagreement without the Players' Association. Actually, I took no attitude about the strike. All I did was what everybody else did—sat things out until the problem was unraveled."

Wayne Comer and Don

Mincher, teammates of Bouton's at Seattle in 1968, were accused of getting into a one-punch fight on an airline. "Never happened," Comer says. "Mincher and I were buddies. Still are. Bouton knew that." Agrees Mincher in the Sport article. "The incident of me hitting Comer in the airplane came right off the top of Bouton's head."

Fred Talbot, who was on the Yankee pitching staff with Bouton, openly calls him a liar on several points. "None of that 'Peeping Tom' stuff was true," says Talbot, referring to Mickey Mantle's alleged leading of a "Peeping Tom" raid.

Southeast Matchups

Auburn Takes On Vols

By David Moffitt

UPI Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Auburn Tigers are slight favorites over the Tennessee Vols for their Saturday meeting at Birmingham—but anything can happen, and usually does, when those two southern grid powers get together.

Auburn entered for 21 first period points two years ago and went on to a 28-14 victory that was Tennessee's lone loss of that season. Last year, Auburn, whose only other loss all season was by one point to high-ranking LSU, suffered a 49-19 beating at the hands of the Vols.

Although the 19th-ranked Tigers are a two-point pick over the 14th-ranked Vols this time, that's subject to change at any moment.

Auburn opened its season last week with a 33-14 win over Southern Mississippi in which quarterback Pat Sullivan passed and ran for four touchdowns. Tennessee opened with a 28-3 win over Southern Methodist in which the Vols contained passing star Chuck Hixson.

The winner of the Auburn-Tennessee game could wind up with the Southeastern Conference Championship since neither plays conference favorite Ole Miss this season.

Speaking of Ole Miss, the 7th-ranked Rebels meet Kentucky Saturday at Jackson, Miss., in what has to be classed as a grudge game. The Rebels, also favored last year to win the SEC, were upset 10-9 by Kentucky which won only one other game all season—and they've had all year to fret about it.

Ole Miss is the odds-on favorite but Kentucky was a 13-point underdog last week against Kansas State—and won, 16-3.

Elsewhere in the Southeast this Saturday:

Erratic Alabama is favored over a University of Florida team that has lost only once in its last 15 games; Georgia, winless in its last six games, is a 9-point favorite over Clemson, coached by a former Georgia assistant; Vanderbilt, which outscored its first two opponents 91-6, is an 8-point pick over Mississippi State; and LSU, anxious to make amends for last week's 20-18 upset by Texas A&M is again heavily favored against a Southwest Conference foe—this time, Rice.

BRYANT AND DICKEY

... their Tide and Gators meet for the first time since 1964

Also, Georgia Tech, off to a 2-0 start in an attempt to end a string of three straight losing seasons, is favored over Miami (Fla.); Florida State is the pick over Wake Forest; Memphis State-Virginia Tech figures as a tossup; and Tulane is a slight favorite at Illinois.

Southeast footnotes: national statistics find Ole Miss' Archie Manning way down the line but it should be pointed out that Manning ran and passed for 224 yards and 20 points—playing barely half his team's offensive time...

Florida's John Reeves, who averaged 290 passing yards per game last season, is averaging only 256 so far this year; but he's throwing only two-thirds as often...

Alabama and Florida haven't met since 1964 when the Tide won 17-14... but Mississippi State and Vanderbilt are meeting for the first time since 1942—on a neutral field at Memphis, Tenn.

Hoyt Traded To Cubs In Money Deal

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Chicago Cubs, a contender in the tight National League East race, picked up knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm from the Atlanta Braves on waivers Tuesday amid speculation that the Braves have a better after-the-season-ends deal in mind.

The Atlanta Journal predicted that the Braves may get Cubs shortstop Don Kessinger—but, of course, neither the Braves nor the Cubs will comment on this.

The Cubs, two games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates with less than two weeks to go, obviously wanted Wilhelm as bullpen insurance for their stretch drive.

The Braves got Wilhelm, a 47-year-old righthander who has pitched in more major league games (1,039) than anyone else, from the California Angels at the tail end of last season for the same purpose.

Wilhelm, with Cecil Upshaw out with an injury, was the Braves' top relief pitcher this season with a 6-4 record, 13 saves and a 3.11 earned run average in 50 appearances. He had been outstanding since the all-star break after shaking off a shoulder problem.

Wilhelm started his professional baseball career at the age of 18 with Mooresville (N.C.) in the now defunct North Carolina State League. He served three years in the army during World War II and was wounded during the Battle of the Bulge.

He returned to baseball after the war but didn't reach the majors until 1952 when he joined the New York Giants, then managed by Leo Durocher, the current Cubs manager.

Syrians Flee Jordan

By United Press International
Jordanian air and ground forces Wednesday routed invading Syrian tank units and drove them back across the border in "disorder and confusion," Jordan's commander-in-chief reported. King Hussein announced a peace agreement with the Palestinian guerrillas but it was promptly repudiated by their leader, Yasser Arafat.

In Washington, the White House said the situation in the war-torn Arab kingdom was still "very serious" and informed sources said the United States was considering sending in planes to evacuate about 200 Americans.

The Washington sources said that if the decision was made to bring out Americans, the United States would rely mainly on Jordanian forces to guarantee the security and safety of the evacuees rather than American military forces already in the area or standing by in the United States and Europe.

Syrian tanks moved into Jordan during the weekend to support Palestinian Arabs battling King Hussein's forces in the north and in the capital city of Amman. Jordan rushed ground forces to the Irbid and Ramtha areas to block the invaders.

The rout of the Syrians was announced on Amman radio by Marshall Habes al-Majali. Israeli military correspondents confirmed the Jordanian victory and said Jordan's tiny air force of 38 jet fighters broke the back of the Syrian armored thrust and sent them fleeing back across the border.

Shortly after Majali's statement, King Hussein and Premier Gaafar el-Numeiry announced over radio Amman that an agreement had been reached to end the civil war in which Arab reports said at least 15,000 persons had been killed and thousands more wounded or threatened by starvation and disease.

Numeiry was a member of a four-nation mediation team sent to Amman by the Cairo Arab summit conference. Numeiry said the agreement was approved by five Palestinian guerrilla leaders—four of whom had been released earlier by Hussein as a peacemaking gesture.

able, dedicated citizen-scholars who care about good teaching as well as research and writing, who want freedom and order on the campus at least as much as the public does."

In another vein, Marshall said "we must maintain the university as a viable force in society without politicizing it."

There are many public issues such as environmental pollution which need the creative brain power and leadership available from the universities, he said. But there are other questions that are primarily political in nature—that will be decided by partisan politics, he noted.

"These are the areas the universities clearly should stay out of."

"The alternative, that of injecting the university as a corporate body into political issues, poses a threat of the most serious kind to academic freedom," he said.

Addressing himself to teaching, Marshall encouraged faculty and students "to undertake innovations in curriculum and instruction."

"The university's position will continue to be the encouragement of efforts to improve the quality of education for our students—and this implies change," he said. "It means changing some of the things faculty hold most sacred."

Moving into the controversial area of freedom of expression on university campuses, Marshall said FSU operates under a "simple and straightforward" basic rule. "We will vigorously permit protests while refusing absolutely to allow acts by anyone to interfere with the university's orderly operation."

A State Department spokesman, Robert J. McCloskey, at a news conference could give no details about a possible evacuation.

However, FSU will receive no funds from the most recent Florida Department of Education bond issue for capital construction and is due to receive only $1 million from the next bond issue, Peirce noted.

Describing a still bleaker picture, Peirce said it is projected the university will need an additional two million square feet of space during the next ten years. This will cost about $80 million.

The administration must immediately undertake a comprehensive planning effort, he said.

Dr. Paul Craig, vice president for academic affairs, reported a slowdown in FSU's growth and an indication that growth no longer is "automatic."

The university's growth rate is slowing down which should "allow our energies to be devoted to program quality considerations." Craig said. "We have the unique opportunity to be the tower of excellence of the whole state system."

Specifically, Craig called for better advising and counseling of students, more concern with the relevance of courses, and more flexibility and freedom in curricular requirements.

Evacuation Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is seriously considering an evacuation operation within the next 24 hours to bring up to 200 Americans out of Jordan, it was disclosed Wednesday.

If a decision is made to undertake an evacuation, the United States will rely principally on Jordanian forces to guarantee security and safe passage of the evacuees from Amman airport, in informed sources said.

U.S. military forces would not be used, the sources said. Under the evacuation plans being urgently studied, the United States probably would charter two commercial airliners—possibly from Middle East carriers. The United States has used such carriers in past years for other evacuations of U.S. personnel from troubled

Athletics

To do this, he said, FSU should move to form a new athletic conference in the South.

In addition to carefully regulating the financial aspects of intercollegiate sports, the new conference would prohibit athletic dorms and other types of involuntary living arrangements for athletes and allow them to dress and wear their hair as they wish, involve themselves in politics and take their studies seriously.

Speaking without a prepared text, Athletic Director Mancha said that much of what Sherman had said was true, but added a lot of things about intercollegiate athletics are being misunderstood by students.

He said the athletic department is being placed in a tough spot by people who do not realize what is going on in the athletic program.

Mancha said he feels that FSU has a great sports program and should be especially proud because it operates on half the budget used by the University of Florida. He cited the fact that 9,500 students had purchased season football tickets as a tribute to the support that intercollegiate sports has at FSU.

Mancha made several references to a pledge by President Stanley Marshall to make FSU number one, both on and off the athletic field.

In order to be first in athletics, Mancha said, FSU must meet competition like UF, Miami, Georgia Tech and other top southeastern powers.

Physics Hosts Minto

Ann Frechette
Staff Writer

Automobiles are the major producers of pollution today in the world, according to Dr. Wallace Minto of Kinetics Corporation, guest lecturer yesterday afternoon at the physics department colloquium. Approximately 60% of the total pollution and 85% of the urban pollution is attributed to the gases injected into the air by the internal combustion engine, contends Minto.

Dr. Minto is the inventor of the fluoro-carbon engine, which was designed as a non-pollutant engine and "is 200 times cleaner than will be required by the 1980 HEW standards," he said.

In the lecture, Minto described the freon car process. The engine consists of a heat exchanger, drive motor, condenser and pump. The fuel burners, which provide heat to operate the heat exchanger, can use any hydrocarbon fuel such as kerosene or fuel oil.

The drive motor is a cross between a piston engine and a turbine. It acts as a steam piston engine at slow speeds and as a turbine engine at fast speeds. This combination gives the drive motor the characteristics of both piston and turbine engines and none of their real weaknesses.

In the heat exchanger, the heat from the burners is used to boil a refrigerant liquid called UCON-113 freon. The freon vapor passes from the heat exchanger to the drive motor through a throttle valve. The throttle valve controls the pressure and amount of vapor entering the drive motor, and manipulates the speed of the car. The vapor also goes to a small auxiliary motor which runs the alternator. From these two motors, the vapor passes into a condenser, which is built into the roof of the car, where it is changed back to a liquid and then the process repeats itself.

According to Minto, the new engine will have an overall 13%-16% efficiency as compared to the 10%-12% the cars in operation now have

Also, these engines, when mass produced, will cost 10% less than the internal combustion engines. The engines can be made in any size and will use less horsepower to give better performance. The Minto engine will require 100 pounds of freon, at 43 cents a pound, which will last the entire life of the automobile. Since freon has a decomposition rate of approximately 0.2% per year, it will only need to be replenished periodically.

SG Filing Begins For Senate

Thirty-three Student Senate seats and one National Student Association (NSA) position will be up for grabs in the Fall 1970 elections Oct. 14.

Students may begin filing for the positions Monday. The filing period ends 5 p.m. on Oct. 5. Campaigning will begin on Oct. 7, at 5 p.m. and will last a week, concluding with the election on Wednesday, Oct. 14.

The requirements for office are a 2.0 academic average and payment of full-time student fee.

Student Senators represent the students of their respective academic departments. The Senate seats have been apportioned according to the number of students within each department. The breakdown is as follows:

Arts and Sciences, engineering science, library science—9 seats (total); education—5 seats; business—3 seats; social welfare—2 seats; law—1 seat; music—1 seat; home economics, nursing—1 seat (total); basic studies—freshman, 6 seats and sophomores 5 seats.

The NSA coordinator is elected from the student body at large. Candidates should file with Jim Peoples, election commissioner, Room 331, University Union.

Football - 'Whipping Boy'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Head football coach Bill Peterson, criticized by Student Body President Chuck Sherman for promoting potato chips for pay on television, said Thursday he is used to people using football as a whipping boy.

Peterson was putting the football Seminoles through a rigorous practice session Wednesday when Sherman took into his off-campus activities during a debate with athletic director Vaughn Mancha.

Sherman said Peterson's promotion of potato chips on his weekly TV sports show on Channel 6 is "probably illegal" because he is a state employee. Sherman also accused Peterson of using friendship with the governor and legislators to "gain his own ends within the university."

"All my life people have been after athletics," Peterson growled angrily when reporters asked him about the attack at his weekly news conference Thursday.

"I don't want to get into that matter."

"He said students have good intentions, but often do not know all the facts."

The debate was held before about 350 students and faculty members on the lawn near the Union. Admission to the debate was free, unlike FSU football games for which students must buy tickets this year for the first time.

Sherman called for the formation of a new athletic conference in the South along the lines of the Ivy League in the Northeast. He said its goals should be "to reduce the emphasis on intercollegiate athletics, returning its purpose to that of participation and striving for excellence and enjoyment, and reducing its total costs so that they do not exceed ticket revenues."

Mancha acknowledged the athletic program at FSU cost about $1.6 million this year, but said competing universities spent more and that increases were due to rising costs rather than an expanded program.

Olsson Expounds On Transportation

By Paul Bonapfel
Campus Editor

"It has been clearly projected that we must double our transport capacity within the next 18 to 20 years," said John Olsson, Deputy Undersecretary of Transportation (DOT), in his keynote address to the conference on "The Role of the State in Transportation."

Olsson spoke last night to planning officials from across the nation at the Apalachee Parkway Holiday Inn.

The conference, which continues today, is sponsored jointly by the FSU department of continuing education, the department of urban and regional planning, and the National Governor's Conference Committee on Transportation.

Olsson spoke of President Nixon's "New Federalism" policy to return government to the people through a return of power to the states and local governments. "We at the Department of Transportation are confident that through a revitalization of federal-state cooperation, we can and will solve the problems before us," he said.

Olsson also said bringing government to the people is as mandatory at the state level as it is at the federal level. "Representatives of industry, the academic community, and people representing all social levels and points of view must be brought into the planning and policy-making process if these plans and policies are to accurately reflect transportation needs and adequately meet such needs," he said.

Olsson said there is a need to determine exactly what demands will be placed on each mode of transportation. He said there must then be a coordinated planning effort to meet the needs after they have been determined.

"The Department of Transportation is the most appropriate vehicle through which to carry on such planning," Olsson said.

"We know that we cannot accurately determine national needs and priorities, nor carry out any plan successfully without the help of those who are most directly affected. Thus, you may expect that any future planning carried on by the Department will, of necessity, be a joint effort with state and local governments, and with industry," he said.

Olsson also commended Florida for instituting a department of transportation. "DOT fully believes in the importance of state departments of transportation," he said. "The day is passed when transportation meant only highways. State organizations must have the capacity to look at the total transportation picture."

Olsson said there is a need for states and local communities to have a transportation planning structure which represents an integrated planning process. "Ad hoc, modally oriented groups are not sufficient," he said.

Farmer's Fate

"We took the farmer out of the mud and put him in traffic jams," said Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina yesterday.

McNair spoke as part of the conference on "The Role of the State in Transportation."

McNair said that cooperation and coordination at all levels of government were needed to solve the transportation problems.

According to McNair, regional planning under a multi-government "umbrella" is the answer.

SG Committee Studies Financial Aid Services

The Student Government comptroller's office is forming a committee to study the type of services available to students through the university financial aid office.

Marc Sussman, SG comptroller, said Thursday the purpose of the committee will be to investigate the financial aid office and communicate its findings back to the students.

"The committee will work with and not against the financial aid office," said Sussman.

According to Sussman, not many students even know that the financial aid office offers small cost personal loans to students. This is the type of information the investigating committee will make available to the student body, Sussman said.

Any student interested in serving on the committee should contact Sussman in Room 331 of the University Union, or call 599-2975.

Record Enrollment At U. Fla.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—A record 22,043 students have enrolled at the University of Florida for fall quarter classes, according to preliminary figures released Wednesday by University Registrar Richard H. Whitehead.

Whitehead said the total represents an increase of 1,302 students over the 20,741 enrolled for fall quarter last year.

Whitehead said both undergraduate and graduate enrollment had increased. The total includes 17,230 undergraduates, 3,351 graduate students and 1,231 in the colleges of law and medicine.

The former Naval officer turned peanut farmer, defeated former Gov. Carl Sanders in the Democratic run-off for the nomination for governor.

With all but seven of 2,047 state precincts reported Thursday, Carter had garnered 504,289 votes for a 59.4 percent showing. Sanders had 344,047, or 40.6 percent.

Democrats Wednesday also nominated State Rep. Johnnie Caldwell of Thomaston for comptroller general. Caldwell, with 1,996 precincts counted in that race, had 413,799 votes, or 53.3 percent, to 362,587 for State Rep. Mac Barber of Commerce.

Respond Dress Suggestion

To the Editor:

Since everybody knows that dress regulates conduct, Mr. Arnold has a valid point about dress codes at FSCW,—er, um, FSU. In order to maintain FSU's reputation as being a "safe place to send your daughter," I'd like to suggest a dress code for coeds.

Hair: No longer than one inch.

Face: Veiled. No eye make-up.

Torso: Covered by heavy quilting Bras and chastity belts, with padlocks.

Arms and legs: Covered with opaque cotton bunting, down to wrists and ankles; gloves and combat boots.

No bare skin to be exposed

Admirers For 'Bounce On'

To the Editor:

In the interest of female admirers, we feel Sidney Arnold's gross irrationalization was uncalled for, incompetent and inaccurate.

Sidney, what does female dress have to do with demonstrations, pop festivals, drug abuse or academic pursuits? If you cannot allow yourself the pleasure of these beautiful ladies, please hide within that sheltered life you seem to lead.

We propose, "bounce on, ladies."

Revoluting Revolution

To the Editor:

Quote I think that there is nothing more revolting than watching some young woman bounce across campus in some sort of scarf, blouse or halter that covers almost nothing. Unquote—Sidney Arnold, Flambeau, Sept. 24, 1970.

I quite agree.

I, too, find it most revolting. I dare say that's why there are so many revolutionists, including myself, in society today.

Non-violent Demonstration

To the Students:

We would like to make it clear that we intend this Monday's anti-recruiting action to take place in a non-violent but forceful manner. We must make it clear that it is not the anti-war movement that perpetuates violence but the U.S. government both here and abroad.

If you are against the war, we urge you to join us in the Union Arcade, Monday at 11 a.m. For it is only through a united effort that we can act in a positive way to end the war.

Open Letter

Dr. Hunter Answers

(Editor's note: Dr. Robert Hunter, director of the university health services, submitted this letter to the Flambeau as an "open letter" to Don Muse, secretary of consumer affairs for Student Government in response to Muse's letter in the Sept. 23, 1970 Flambeau edition.)

Dear Don:

Reference is made to your recent "open letter" in the Flambeau in which you requested the filling of prescriptions for students' dependents at the Health Center.

There is a degree of misapprehension about our charges for medications. The wholesale prices, the processing, and the overhead make our cost of filling prescriptions approximately the same as in outside pharmacies. The student pays this full cost, and he always has. The only variable has been the method of payment.

The portion not covered by the direct charge to the patient is necessarily made up by the portion of the student who pays the activity fee allocated to the Health Service. Indirectly, every student who pays the activity fee also pays a pro rata share of every prescription. Dependents do not pay the activity fee, are not members of the pre-paid element of the expense of the members.

The direct charge for part of the cost of most medications was adopted as a better method of practicing medicine. This tends to reduce waste, but more importantly it releases our prescriptions from arbitrary restrictions on variety and quantities imposed by overall considerations of budget. It also helps the Health Service meet the seven percent annual increase in the cost of providing medical care.

Director, Health Services

Prescriptions Not Half-price

"We are not selling medications at half-price," said Dr. Robert C. Hunter, director of university health services. Hunter's statement was in response to an open letter which appeared in the Flambeau Wednesday from Don Muse, student government secretary of consumer affairs.

"The difference between our price and the price of medications downtown is made up by the student activity fee which is part of the registration fee," Dr. Hunter said Thursday. Muse had said that student prices for medications were approximately one-half the cost of the same medicine in local pharmacies. He had requested that dependents be allowed to have prescriptions filled at the health center.

FSU Bursar Mrs. Leona Owens said the health center is allotted $14 a quarter for health services for every fulltime student. "Dependents do not pay the activity fee, are not members of the prepaid element of the health plan, and cannot be authorized to participate at the expense of the members," Dr. Hunter said.

In an open letter to Muse (see page 4 for text), Dr. Hunter said the "the wholesale prices, the processing, and the overhead make our cost of filling prescriptions approximately the same as in outside pharmacies."

The student has always paid this full cost. The method is just different, he said.

Dr. Hunter also said Thursday the reaction to the infirmary's dispensing the pill has been favorable.

"About 30 to 40 women went through the clinic Wednesday," he said. "We have had a great many under 21 who have merely inquired."

Exclusive new darts in the back of the shirt where most makers forget to shape. A new long Ergo collar that sits higher to fit better. And 2-button fashion cuffs that hit just right. DANCE THEATRE GROUP

... tryouts will be held in Montgomery (dance dept. photo)

Dance Theatre Tryouts Tuesday

Tryouts for the Dance Theatre Group will be held Tuesday in Room 403, Montgomery Gym.

The Dance Theatre Group is a troupe of dancers selected by audition annually. Performances include demonstrations, recitals and out-of-town guest appearances, as well as a formal concert "An Evening of Dance" presented yearly.

Frequent opportunity also exists for choreography and performance in cooperation with the School of Music and Department of Theatre.

At present time, the repertory of the group consists of original choreographic works by faculty and advanced dance students of FSU.

Dancers are trained in both traditional and contemporary techniques. Performance values and choreographic experiences are designed to encourage experimentation, foster dance as an act of theatre, and produce significant art experience.

Students with previous dance experience are encouraged to audition, and those participating in the tryouts must wear dance clothing.

$10 Diploma Fee Dropped By BOR

By Sid Smith
Staff Writer

Dropping of the $10 diploma fee by the Florida State Board of Regents is part of a plan to make all fees uniform throughout the state university system, Willis Caldwell, director of admissions, said Thursday.

Dr. Caldwell added that the fee, which has been in effect at Florida State for a number of years, has not been charged at other Florida state universities. "The transcript charge for sending out copies of student transcripts is also being dropped as part of this program,"

Caldwell said.

He emphasized that the fee, used in the actual purchasing of graduate diplomas, will have to be replaced from some other fund, but whether that fund will come from the university or the Board of Regents is not known. Dr. Caldwell did point out that the recent increase in the graduate application fee to $25 is not related to the Regents' program.

Approximately 700 students have already paid the $10 charge, and Dr. Caldwell said that the money would be refunded.

Movie Tonight

Steve McQueen's performance as a cool, determined cop may be seen in Bullitt, the campus movie shown tonight and Saturday at 7 and 9:30 in Ruby Diamond Auditorium.

Set in San Francisco, the film combines vivid scenery and drama with the now-famous chase scenes shot in the winding hills and hairpin curves of central California.

McQueen's performance has been rated as one of the better in his career, portraying a Mike Hammer-like policeman with notable detachment and élan.

Admission is 50 cents.

Warning Against ID Violations

Student Government solicitor general Roger Bone issued a reminder Thursday that students who use other student's identification cards or allow other students to use their cards, are guilty of a quasi-misdemeanor.

The penalty for using another student's identification card can include suspension, up to 50 hours work, probation, a letter of reprimand, or any combination of the four. Except for suspension, the same penalty applies to the student allowing his identification card to be used by other people.

Solicitor Bone commented that "every year at the first football game, there are usually 20 or 30 violations," and that elaborate security plans have been made for Friday night's game against Wake Forest.

FSU Hosts Deacons

Florida State for the second straight week will start a different lineup the previous week. Earlier this week Coach Bill Peterson announced that he would start junior Frank Whigham at quarterback then later cited John Lanahan, a former defensive back, as the starting fullback.

The passing game which has been lacking this season began to look promising in second half of the Georgia Tech game as Whigham put the ball in the air with some success. Tight end Jim Tyson began looking like his old self and Barry Smith, the promising sophomore, finally caught his first varsity pass.

The defense, behind some brutal tackling by tackle Robert McEachern that won him this week's Savage Award, should be ready for Wake Forest. Backing McEachern will be standouts Bill Lohse, Ron Wallace, Dan Whitehurst, and James Thomas.

Wake Forest has lost its first two games, defeating a 36-12 decision to Nebraska in the season opener and a 43-7 battle the following week to South Carolina, a future FSU opponent. This will be the ninth clash between the two teams with Florida State holding a six to one advantage. There has been one tie.

The Demon Deacons are led by Larry Russell, a southpaw quarterback, passing to flanker Steve Bowden, the Deacon's leading pass receiver. Whm Russell isn't passing, fullback Larry Hopkins is gaining yards on the ground. Last week Hopkins had a 61 yard touchdown run against South Carolina.

Weight Lifters Win Big

Two Florida State students recently brought home first places in regional powerlifting meets held around the Southeast. Both are members of the FSU Weightlifting Club.

Joe Seager, a senior, went to Jacksonville recently and won the Florida State District one Olympic Championships in the 198-pound division by lifting a total of 260 pounds.

The other victor was Art Johnson, who works in the 165-pound class. Last week in the Southeastern Powerlifting Championships he lifted 425 pounds to take first in region three.

Last year, Johnson won both the Eastern and Southeastern tourneys in his weight division. The lifting club is an impromptu group that meets every afternoon in Tully Gym and membership is open to anyone who wants to come and work out. Meetings are held in the Weight Room of Tully.

All persons interested in participating in intramural football should meet in Tully Gym, Room 212 at 5 p.m. for a meeting and rules.

Clay Applies For New York License

By William Verigan
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay applied Thursday for a license to box in the state of

New York, and the athletic commission indicated formal approval will come on Monday to clear the way for the deposed heavyweight champion to reclaim the title.

Clay's license was suspended and his title taken away 3½ years ago when he refused to be inducted into the Army. Clay, who is free on bail while his draft evasion conviction is being appealed, has not fought since he defeated Zora Folley in Madison Square Garden on March 22, 1968, but only last week a Federal judge called the suspension "arbitrary and unreasonable" and ordered the commission to license him again. The license from New York will be the second granted to Clay within the last weeks. He also was granted permission for a 15-round "title" bout in Atlanta on Oct. 26 against Jerry Quarry.

Miami-Tech Aerial Show Slated

By David Moffitt
UPI Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UPI)—It'll be 10 months away at Grant Field Saturday when Georgia Tech's Eddie McAshan and Miami's Kelly Cochrane pair off for their expected aerial duel.

McAshan, the sophomore quarterback from Gainesville, Fla., who is Tech's first black football player, completed 33 of 63 passes for 361 yards the last two weeks as the Yellow Jackets were beating South Carolina 23-20 and Florida State 23-13.

Cochrane, the junior who became a regular in Miami's third game last season, connected on 21 of 32 passes for 271 yards and three touchdowns last week when the Hurricanes opened with a 36-14 win over William and Mary.

Georgia Tech, out to end its string of three straight losing seasons, is favored to beat Miami by at least a touchdown and raise its record to 3-0. A crowd of 45,000, three-fourths of Grant Field's capacity, is expected for the 2 p.m. EDT kickoff.

Miami scout Larry Wilson says that Tech should be favored.

"This is a better balanced team than Tech's 1966 Orange Bowl team which had a 9-1 record," said Wilson. "They have poise and they're strong in the fringe phases of the game—such as kick returns."

However, Tech coach Bud Carson, spirits buoyed by the Jackets' recent success after three 4-6 seasons, thinks Wilson is premature.

"We still have lots of work to do and many ragged spots to smooth out," Carson said. "However, I'm pleased with our progress to date. I said before the season started—and I am more confident now—that this team is a very good football team."

Sophomore Rob Healy, the man Carson had running at first-string tailback when the season began, and sophomores Kevin McNamara and Bruce Southall, both scoring two touchdowns in Healy's absence, are his hobbled by injuries this week.

So Carson is switching Brent Cunningham back over from flanker to tailback where he led the Jackets in rushing last season.

This means Larry Studdard, the split end, will take Cunningham's flanker post and Chip Pallman, who also handles the punting, becomes the starting split end.

Georgia Tech will need all the speed it can muster Saturday because the Hurricanes have a decided weight advantage.

PICK

Ole Miss will get even with Kentucky for last year's 10-9 embarrassment and do it rather handily by about three touchdowns; our old friends from Louisville will take the measure of West Texas State; North Carolina, with their murderous upset attack, will whip Maryland; and Memphis State will take the measure of Virginia Tech.

Michigan will have a tough time of it but they will eventually overcome Washington; Michigan State, which got the worst of it from Washington last week, will come back strong against Washington State, Mississippi State will pull off a minor upset and take Vanderbilt and ACC Champion South Carolina will roll over North Carolina State, a team that is still looking for its first touchdown.

UCLA, though not doing it impressively, will take Northwestern in a close one, Notre Dame will finally beat Purdue by about two touchdowns, Ohio State will break down the giant-killer Texas A&M and Oklahoma will overpower Oregon State.

Jim Plunkett and his Stanford teammates will make it three in a row against Oregon, Texas will storm over Texas Tech, Wisconsin will slip past TCU by a touchdown and Wyoming will win over Utah State.

Blames Attitude

Abbott Rejoins Gators

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Fred Abbott, the "thinking" linebacker who quit the Florida Gators last week with a blast at the animal-like nature of college football, rejoined the squad Wednesday after more thinking.

"I've given this much thought in the past few days and know this was a proper decision," said the 6'3", 232-lb.

he left because he's a fine young man who was mixed up at the time."

The announcement came after the Gators put in a tough three-hour practice preparing to meet Alabama in Tuscaloosa on Saturday.

Abbott's resignation Sept. 15 with the statement he was "tired of being treated like an animal" and a rap at Dickey's "emotionless style of machine football," touched off a confrontation with the new Gator coach.

The closed-door meeting resulted apparently in the coaches passing out more praise and a new note of harmony on the squad before it administered a sound 34-13 beating to Mississippi State Saturday.

In the season's opener against Duke at Jacksonville Sept. 12, the heavily-favored Gators barely escaped defeat and there was talk of dissension on the team.

It was after that game, his first on the varsity, that Abbott announced he was quitting because "I'm not an animal and neither are members of the team. Playing for Coach Dickey has stripped me of my self-esteem and personal pride."

Abbott, a psychology major, said football had become a "sadistic" sport for him.

But further thought brought him back, the youthful linebacker said Wednesday.

"When I said 'football' I had gone out of the ball," he didn't realize the reason was my own attitude," said Abbott. "I think I expected instant success and was unhappy with my play against Duke. I missed football and the competition and want to try to become a valuable part of this team, work at the game and hope some good things come my way and Florida's way in the future."

Said Dickey: "The squad also wants him back. We're pleased he's with us again."

Groza Now Scout

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Lou "The Toe" Groza watches the Cleveland Browns' games from the stands these days.

Groza, 49, watched the Browns-New York Jets game here Monday night from the stands—the first time he had not been on the Browns' bench as a player or coach since 1946.

And there will be more of the stand routine for Groza, who has been shifted from a coach to a scout and will handle Big Ten teams.

"I miss it," Groza said Wednesday, "being there with the guys on the bench. You always like to be a part of it."

"I miss the association. It gets in your blood," said Groza. "It was the first time I ever watched the Browns from the stands."

"But I guess I still feel the same emotions as I did when I was player and coach," said Groza.

But this year Groza had only one kicker to coach in Don Cockroft and the Browns felt his coaching services were no longer needed.

"Maybe I got to the point where I was bugging him," said Groza. "When you coach just one player like that you can become too critical and wind up hurting the guy."

As for his scouting job, Groza said, "It's still a part of it, but it's not in the thick of things. But I guess it's better than nothing."

Black Athletes Charge Racial Discrimination

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Chancellor John E. Corbally Jr. Wednesday announced the 12 members of a committee set up to investigate charges by black athletes of racial discrimination.

Three of the committee members are blacks.

The committee includes three trustees, three students, three faculty members and three members nominated by director of athletics James H. Decker, the Student Afro-American Society and university administrator Melvin A. Eggers.

The members were named less than 24 hours after Corbally reinstated eight black players to the football team, who had been suspended after they boycotted spring practice to support demands that a black be added to the coaching staff.

The reinstatement followed a meeting of head coach Ben Schwartzwalder with Robert Magnum, chairman of the State Human Rights Commission, and representatives of the administration and the black players. A university spokesman said the committee will meet for the first time Thursday.

The trustee members include: William S. Clark, former vice president of Sealright Co. Inc. and a 1940 Syracuse graduate; Bishop W. Ralph Ward Jr. of the United Methodist Church in the Syracuse area, and Morris S. Weeden, president of Bristol Laboratories and head of the Syracuse Alumni Association.

Selma Fined $500 For Words

By Russ Green

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Umpire Augie Donatelli said Wednesday night his four-member crew would have refused to take the field for the game between Philadelphia and the New York Mets if disciplinary action had not been taken against Phillies' pitcher Dick Selma.

After Tuesday night's game in which three Phillies were ejected, Selma said the umpires were so wrong that the game seemed a "fix."

Selma was fined $500 Wednesday by National League President Charles Feeney and apologized, saying he was "wrong in making accusations about the integrity of the umpires."

Donatelli, senior member and captain of the umpiring crew that included Stan Landes, Dick Stello and Satch Davidson, said "we were trying to get him (Selma) suspended and we want the whole country to know."

Donatelli said "it's ended now" but added "it was our intention not to leave the dressing room" until Selma was taken care of by Feeney or Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Donatelli said the fine was "not enough" and told Feeney that Selma should be suspended "but he refused to move."

Donatelli, who has been a major league umpire since 1950, said that when Selma came into the umpires' dressing room to apologize Wednesday night, they told him to stand there while they talked to Feeney on the telephone about suspension.

Donatelli said he talked to Feeney twice Wednesday and that the umpires still do not think the fine was enough.

Regarding remarks made by Phillies' pitcher Jim Bunning about Landes, Donatelli said Landes "is more competent in his job than he (Bunning) is in his every day of the week."

Kuhn said the controversies during the Phillies-Mets game Tuesday night "are problems you'll get into at this time of the year" when "the race is tight and the weather is hot."

At the game Wednesday night, Kuhn said "I talked to the umpires and got their view. That's as far as I want to go on the matter."

Asked whether the fine could be increased or suspension of Selma ordered, Kuhn said "somebody has to appeal it. I do not think that would happen."

trapped In Jordan

US, Britain Evacuating Civilians

The United Press International said the United States and Britain Thursday began evacuating their nationals and other civilians trapped in Jordan during eight days of fighting. Refugees arriving in Amman said their flight was aided by mortar and rocket fire near the Amman airport. The United States chartered Lebanese Middle East Airlines to fly a civilian airlift to evacuate Soviet and Arab charges in "military intervention" in the fighting in which thousands of Arab civilians, soldiers and guerrillas have been reported killed and wounded and thousands more threatened by famine and disease. In Cairo, the Middle East News Agency reported that the Premier of Jordan's military government, Brig. Mohammed Daoud, had resigned and was missing from his hotel in the Egyptian capital, where he had gone for an Arab summit meeting on the Jordanian crisis. The Egyptian agency said a copy of a letter to King Hussein announcing Daoud's resignation was found in the premier's room at the Nile-Hilton.

The chartered Convair 990 arrived in Beirut with about 65 Americans and other refugees. A State Department spokesman in Washington said a Voice of America broadcast repeatedly advising Americans in Amman to report to the Hotel Inter Continental for the flight out was stopped during the night for security reasons, and that many Americans may not have heard the radio advisories. Robert J. MacCloskey, the spokesman, said the VOA broadcast would be continued and another plane is standing by in Beirut to fly to Amman, probably on Friday. There are about 400 Americans in Jordan. Most of the passengers aboard the U.S. chartered plane were women and children. Airline sources said they included 12 U.S. Embassy staff and between 15 and 20 other Americans, nine Indians, seven Chinese, six Britons, three Lebanese as well as other nationalities. Maj. Richard Alt, of Fort Wayne, Ind., an embassy attaché in Amman who flew out with the first plane load of refugees, said: "They were mortaring around the airport at Amman when we took off. We couldn't see where the fire was coming from but we heard it."

Zenian reported from Amman that some shooting was heard during the day but the capital was quieter than at any time since the war began last Wednesday. Fighting also was reported around Irbid and Ramtha in north Jordan and guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat accused the Jordanian army of violating the cease-fire declared by King Hussein on Wednesday and which he himself reported.

Search Continues

Balloonists Missing In Atlantic

NEW YORK (UPI)—A spokesman for three balloonists missing in the North Atlantic says he thinks they're safe and that searchers "haven't looked in the right place yet."

Peter Dean, flight manager for the "Free Life" balloon project designed to cross the Atlantic, said Wednesday, "That balloon is too big to get lost."

Lana Mardi, daughter of a Jordanian civil servant, said, "We were loaded on the plane and then rocket-firing started. They took us all off and sheltered us until it died down. Then we went aboard again." Britain flew its evacuees to Cyprus and one pilot reported he heard firing near the airport when he took off. UPI correspondent David Zenian reported fires still burning in Amman, where he said "the specter of starvation, degradation and disease threatened the residents of the city." Zenian said "some men risked getting shot trying to get a loaf of bread." He said anyone seen moving during the curfew hours was in danger of being shot on sight—and even a curtain moving at a window brought army fire. The Palestinian guerrillas claimed the army also was shelling Irbid, Jordan's second largest city, indiscriminately and appealed for help. King Hussein denied the charge.

Communist Troops Cut Main Supply Line

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Paratroopers heading an 8,000-man Cambodian task force battled their way Thursday night into eastern and western edges of the strategic town of Tang Kok, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh, in fierce fighting. They started finding the bodies of Communist soldiers.

Cambodian troops were killed and 60 wounded in fighting around the town Wednesday, officers at Skoun said. In South Vietnam, the U.S. command said fighting was light and scattered but reported two Americans killed and four wounded in what appeared to be the accidental shelling of one U.S. unit by another.

Rodney Anderson, 32, a commodities broker, his television actress wife, Pamela Brown, 28, and British balloon pilot Malcolm Brighton, 32, have been missing since Monday about 500 miles off Newfoundland when they reported they were going down in a rainstorm. They left East Hampton, N.Y., Sunday and traveled 800 miles before radioing at 7:05 p.m. Monday they were in trouble.

Cost of Living

Inflation Contained

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of living of Americans rose less in August than in any month since December, 1968, providing the strongest evidence yet that the worst inflation in 20 years in being contained, the government reported today. The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said the consumer price index increased 0.2 per cent last month, half the advance recorded in May, June and July and one third the April increase.

$13.60 for goods and services that have been obtained for $13.57 in July and $10 a little more than a decade ago. The seasonally adjusted price rise in August also was 0.2 per cent; the seasonally adjusted increase in both June and July was 0.3 per cent. The August increase in seasonally adjusted price was the smallest since September, 1967, and the rise of 3.5 per cent over the past three months was the smallest since the last quarter of 1967.

Nixon administration economists hailed the report as evidence that the government's economic policies were succeeding in the battle against the steepest price rises since the Korean War.

Over-all prices were still rising, but at a slower rate. The government's consumer price index advanced in August to 136.0 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. That meant it cost

Seaboard Power Shortage Eased

By United Press International The Eastern seaboard power shortage eased Thursday, although voltage rationing remained in effect in the Middle Atlantic states and consumers continued to use electricity sparingly. Five percent cuts in voltage were the rule throughout the affected area which reached from upstate New York to the Carolinas and into western Pennsylvania. An unreasonable heat wave which soared into the 90's Tuesday and Wednesday moderated slightly, reducing the power drain of air conditioners, but the weather bureau said the end of the scorcher was not yet in sight. Temperatures of 85 to 90 were predicted through Friday.

Power purchases from New England and the Midwest bolstered reserves in the needy power pools. Voluntary cutbacks by industrial, commercial and home users were reported throughout the area and won praise from federal officials. George A. Lincoln, director of President Nixon's Office of Preparedness, said the "outstanding cooperation" of the public had prevented the worst power crisis in four years from deteriorating into a blackout situation such as that experienced in the Northeast in 1965.

But Cambodian military leaders, who reported the advance, said that Communist troops had cut the main supply line to the division sized government task force for the 15 day time in two weeks by blowing up three bridges behind Highway 6 leading north from Phnom Penh. The force, which has been ordered to include about 100 men or better than a division in size, has been trying to advance along the highway to relieve the besieged provincial capital of Kompung Cham. It has been bogged down 11 days outside Tang Kok, 48 miles north of Phnom Penh, about 28 miles south of Phnom Thom. "We are meeting fierce fighting on all sides of the town," said a government spokesman in Phnom Penh. The group of paratroopers reached the outskirts of Tang Kok late Thursday after a 10-day maneuver begun three days ago. Officials said the paratroopers were moderate in the paratroopers' attack. Ten

Union Charge Increases Affect Faculty

Charge increases with some decrease in services will begin in effect Oct. 1, 1970 at the University Union due to a $13,300 cut in the Student Activity fee allocation and salary adjustments.

Most student rates have remained the same but faculty rates have been raised to compensate costs. A detailed description of the changes may be obtained at the University Information Desk located on the second floor of the Union.

A financially constituted Stated Auxiliary required to generate its own income, the University Union received $252,700 in activity fees as compared to last year's $266,000 and will not receive a $75,000 transfer of bookstore profits which supplemented expenditures last year.

State salary adjustments in career and supportive staff salaries as well as federal minimum wage increases have added to expenses plus the addition of three staff members.

In lieu of budgeted income, $29,000 of reserve funds established for building expansion will be utilized to further offset the reduced income.

In the area of programming, only one name entertainment performance will be financed entirely by the Union Program Office. Other programs are expected to be subsidized by allocation through Student Senate.

No charge will be made for use of the Union ballrooms, conference rooms and Moore Auditorium by groups composed of a majority of FSU students, faculty or staff. Revised charges will be in effect for groups composed of a majority of non-FSU persons Oct. 1, 1970 but reservations already made will not be affected until Jan. 1, 1971.

Sunday opening for the Union has been changed to 12 noon rather than 9 a.m. At the University Information Desk, only one phone will ring for information after 5 p.m. rather than two.

In the bowling lanes, faculty rates will be raised to 60 cents a line, 15 cents for shoes, 60 cents per hour per person for billiards and 50 cents per hour per person for bicycles.

To offset these increases, bowling specials are to be established of three lines for $1 for students, three for $1.25 for faculty and 25 cents for children.

Quarter swim pass prices have increased approximately 25 percent effective winter quarter. Exceptions to the noon to 8 p.m. recreational swimming hours at the Union Pool will be 9 a.m. openings on Saturdays from April to October. Closing will be 7 p.m. during October and April and 5 p.m. November through March. The Seminole Reservation will close at sundown rather than 9 p.m. Faculty will be charged 50 cents per hour per person for canoeing, $1 for the boat ramp, and $2.50 per person for overnight use of cabins and campsites. Day use charges have increased for all groups. Reservations already made will not be affected until Jan. 1, 1971.

University departments and organizations using the Central Ticket Office will be charged 8 cents per ticket if sold by CTO employees and 4 cents for those sold by department employees with a minimum charge of $10 per event.

cut the ribbon to open Trout Pond for the handicapped (Bill Wood)

Election Filing Begins

Students may begin filing today for the upcoming fall election. Thirty-three Student Senate seats and one National Student Association (NSA) position will be up for grabs in the 1970 elections set Oct. 14.

Arts and sciences, engineering science, library science, nine seats; education, five seats; business, three seats; social welfare, two seats; law, one seat; music, one seat; home economics, nursing, one seat; basic studies, freshmen, six seats and sophomore, five seats.

Saturday Dedication Eisenhowers Open Pond

By Kathy Henderson
Staff Writer

"A little bit of Eden for those less fortunate," Trout Pond, 12 miles south of Tallahassee, was dedicated Saturday afternoon by David and Julie Eisenhower.

An audience of 500 turned out in 90-degree temperatures to sit on hot metal chairs and witness the Eisenhowers' dedication of Tallahassee's unique recreation area for the handicapped, located in the Apalachicola National Forest.

It was only fitting that the grandson of the former president should complete what the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower had laid the groundwork for in 1949, said Dr. James A. Bax, Secretary of Health and Rehabilitative Services, Florida.

"Mr. Eisenhower will cut the ribbon today for the man who saw the need but failed to live to see it. This recreation area will be like Thoreau's Walden Pond for the handicapped," Bax said.

The secretary of health and rehabilitative services added that it would not be a way of escape as it was for Thoreau, but rather a way of feeling more a part of the world, despite their handicaps.

"We had read the concepts for the park, and we were looking forward to seeing it," David said.

"It gives all Americans a chance to enjoy the national parks. This is very important and we wanted to be a part of it," Julie added.

Opening the ceremony, a color guard of two groups of Boy Scouts—one in a wheelchair pushed by the other—carried the American and state flags past the grandstand as the Godby High School band played "America."

Populated with leaders of the two Republican factions in Florida, the ceremony was presided over by Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne.

Standing on the sidelines while Florida Gov. Claude Kirk and Congressman William Cramer sat on each side of the daughter and son-in-law of President Nixon was G. Harold Carswell, the Nixon Supreme Court nominee rejected by the Senate.

David Eisenhower, speaking briefly before the group walked over to watch Julie's official cutting of the ribbon, said, "Improvements for the handicapped help all America. We can't be happy knowing others are not."

"Trout Pond teaches us three things," Eisenhower said. "It shows how local, state and federal governments can work together in the highest American tradition."

"It dramatizes the fact that communities can have more facilities for handicapped people. And it shows that we must no longer think of handicapped people one by one. The time has come to think of them as an entirety and work with them as a whole," he said.

Congressman Don Fuqua, Tallahassee Mayor Lee Everhart, State Sen. L. A. "Skip" Bafalis of Palm Beach, and a host of other political dignitaries assisted the Eisenhowers with the dedication of the 3,500 feet of asphalt trail as well as the swimming pool and fishing pier and picnic area.

The trails were designed so that they could easily be traversed by persons in wheelchairs, on crutches, or who are partially or totally blind.

White lines painted on the pavement and large lettering on signs as well as raised yellow plastic strips and routed signs mark the trails for the blind.

Storm Greta Disorganizes

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—Tropical storm Greta blew itself out Sunday before it reached this military and tourist "conch" town, where the natives didn't take the storm seriously anyway.

"About the only thing this here blow is gonna do is mess up the fishing for a week," said charter boat Capt. Eddie Saxon of Marathon.

By midafternoon, the National Hurricane Center said Greta had become completely disorganized and was breaking up into widely scattered squalls. But one of those squalls lashed southern Key Largo with 63 mile an hour winds as it passed into the Gulf of Mexico.

BOSP's Marks Looks At Publications

By Len Majors
Staff Writer

After a controversial spring, student publications at FSU seems to be once more on the way to a smooth and efficient functioning, John Marks, chairman of the Board of Student Publications, said in a recent interview.

Marks said his greatest problem to date has been tension between the Flambeau staff and the Board rising out of the controversial selection of a Flambeau editor.

The Board selected Jack Lieberman, but reversed itself and selected Richard Leslie. President Stanley Marshall, claiming the BOSP had acted unethically in the selection process, set aside the Leslie selection and appointed a task force to study student publications.

"The tension is due mainly to a communications gap for which both parties are responsible," Marks said. "But the situation has improved."

Marks, the first black to chair the BOSP, was appointed to the Board this summer by Chuck Sherman, student body president. The Board elected him as its chairman shortly thereafter.

His being fresh to the controversy has helped, Marks said. "Being new to the BOSP and having had no experience with either party gives me a certain objectivity which is needed," he said.

Other members of the BOSP have offered to talk with the various staffs, but extended discussions between BOSP members and the staffs often are difficult. For this reason, Marks feels he is necessarily the primary liaison between the two groups.

When questioned as to the role of the BOSP chairman, Marks said that the chairman should never be allowed to become too powerful. The membership of the BOSP should be kept at an even number, and the chairman should not be given a vote, he said.

The basic composition of the BOSP Marks sees as being adequately balanced, coming as it does from student elections, Student Government appointments and faculty appointments by the university president.

Marks said he has no qualms as to the ability of the present Flambeau staff. Unless the administration's task force comes up with recommendations that are completely unexpected, Marks said, the Flambeau will be able to function smoothly. "Everything depends on the task force," he said.

Marks himself is a law student with ambitions to work in poverty law. Being black and from the South (Miami), he feels he has an obligation to work for improvements in the South. He has had offers from the Midwest which he describes as "tempting," but he will

One college does more than broaden horizons. It sails to them, and beyond.

Now there's a way for you to know the world around you first-hand. A way to see the things you've read about, and study as you go. The way is a college that uses the Parthenon as a classroom for a lecture on Greece, and illustrates Hong Kong's floating societies with a ride on a harbor sampan.

Chapman College's World Campus Afloat enrolls two groups of 500 students every year and opens up the world for them. Your campus is the s.s. Ryndam, equipped with modern educational facilities and a fine faculty. You have a complete study curriculum as you go. And earn a fully-accredited semester while at sea.

Chapman College is now accepting enrollments for Spring and Fall '71 semesters. Spring semesters circle the world from Los Angeles, stopping in Asia and Africa and ending in New York. Fall semesters depart New York for port stops in Europe, Africa and Latin America, ending in Los Angeles.

The world is there. The way to show it to inquiring minds is there. And financial aid programs are there, too. Send for our catalog with the coupon below.

Dr. Bernard Invited To Serve

Dr. L. Diane Bernard, chairman of the Department of Social Welfare at FSU, has been invited to serve a three-year term on the Commission on Accreditation of the Council on Social Work Education.

"The Commission on Accreditation plays a most important role in the work of the Council and its members assume a major responsibility in relation to social work education," said Alton A. Linford, Council president, in his invitation to Dr. Bernard.

Functions of the Commission are to formulate standards, policies and criteria for schools of social work and to introduce methods for evaluation of graduate professional educational programs in social work.

The Council on Social Work Education is recognized as the accrediting agency in this field by the U.S. Office of Education and the National Commission on Accrediting.

Dr. Bernard received her B.A. from Roosevelt College in Chicago, her M.A. from the University of Houston, her M.S.W. from Tulane and her Ph.D. from Bryn Mawr.

Rally Bureau To Promote New Spirit

By Janetta Rutland
Staff Writer

A new spirit promotion group was organized last spring—the Rally Bureau.

The Rally Bureau is a subdivision of Student Government. It is responsible for all advertising concerning campus sports and is particularly interested in boosting minor sports such as tennis, judo and swimming. The bureau organizes pep rallies and motorcades and will decorate the stadium.

This year the FSU cheerleaders will be promoted by the Rally Bureau. The team has new uniforms and new cheers, according to James Parrish, head of the Rally Bureau.

Trophies will be presented to the Greek and independent organizations who show the greatest spirit in their division. Stan Hickey, chairman of the spirit trophy committee, says the trophy will rotate each quarter. If an organization wins it for two or more quarters it will receive a permanent plaque.

The Rally Bureau is attempting to change FSU's alma mater from "High O'er the Towering Pines" (which few people know) to the "Hymn to the Garnet and Gold." Parrish said that the student body and the Marching Chiefs support the change. Only the official change remains.

The Rally Bureau is establishing a conference between representatives of FSU and FAMU to enhance Tallahassee's awareness of the two universities.

The Rally Bureau has many activities lined up for homecoming week. Football coach Bill Peterson wants to sponsor a clinic for ladies in which he can explain some of the intricacies of football.

Before the game, a snake dance will lead everyone to a bonfire where a big pep rally will be held.

A consultation with the Tallahassee city manager is underway to plan a window painting contest for high school

Auto Thief Escapes Police

Five wrecked cars and an auto thief who got away were the result of a high speed chase by police through Northwood Mall Sunday afternoon.

Detective Sgt. Mayo Davis of the Tallahassee Police Dept. spent his morning in surveillance of the Bob Drake Dodge car lot on North Monroe Street, hoping to catch the man who has pleaded that dealer for several weeks.

"This is the eighth car he has stolen," a spokesman for Bob Drake Dodge said, pointing to a new brown Dodge which had smashed into a chain link fence on the northern edge of the mall's parking lot.

When the unidentified man drove the car off the lot, just a few minutes after noon, Officer Davis was quickly in hot pursuit.

With blaring siren and flashing blue light, Davis chased the stolen Dodge up Monroe St. and through the mall's parking lot.

There, while trying to stop the fleeing thief, Davis' unmarked patrol car struck three parked cars. The stolen vehicle then swerved into a fence, witnesses at the scene reported.

As the thief jumped from the car and began to run toward a nearby wooded area, Davis leaped from his car, pulled his service revolver and attempted to fire at the fleeing man, witnesses said.

"I couldn't shoot," Davis said. "There were some people walking this way. I was afraid I might hit someone."

Davis continued to chase the man on foot, but was unable to catch him, witnesses said.

The thief escaped into the woods.

At latest reports, police are still searching for the unknown auto thief.

From the Editor's Desk

Nguyen Cao Ky had his hands politely slapped by the United States for stating that he will attend the Oct. 3 Hawks rally in Washington, D.C. to "speak directly to the people." Ky claims there was no real pressure from the Nixon administration to cancel the speaking engagement and he did so in order to avert any violence.

Actually Ky had been receiving the cold shoulder and law enforcement officials were probably feeling a little steam around the collar, knowing full well that violence would have erupted. A wise old owl must have whispered in his ear so Ky will stick to his side of the world for a while.

Advocates Freedom For Female Form

To the Editor:

My first question is who, or perhaps more correctly . . . what, is Mr. Sidney Arnold's problem?

Mr. Arnold's letter is so absurd that I hardly know where to start my answer. I find it hard to believe that anyone could object to the female form, but above and beyond that, there lies a much more important reality. It is everyone's absolute right to adorn (or not adorn) themselves as they so choose; this is an extension of the freedoms that so many are working for today. Mr. Arnold, for anyone whose powers of concentration are so weak that they cannot pry their eyes from those "immoral" females to allow study time, I would suggest psychiatric consultations on the subject of voyeurism.

Perhaps the most equitable solution for someone with an objection to the female form would be to take up residence in the National Archives. Look into it, Mr. Arnold.

As for myself, I will continue to enjoy the female form and continue to study (p.s. Mr. Arnold, I am a Dean's Commendation Graduate and M.A. student).

Mr. Arnold, anyone has the right to his opinions, but when they are published, they are subject to criticism.

In closing, I advocate a personal morality of individual choice, and a freedom of mind, body and spirit which will dissolve the haltered philosophy and blinded vision of those who would agree with the thinking (or lack of thinking) present in Mr. Arnold's letter.

To the Editor:

Sidney Arnold's letter of Sept. 24:

Perhaps if Mr. Arnold would mind his own business a bit more he, too, would be able to make better grades and greater contributions to society.

He contradicts himself rather well; in one paragraph he cites the trend toward nudity and in the next paragraph complains about slacks. Slacks cover everything but the feet, as well as the maxi, or is the maxi too revealing for him also?

Mr. Arnold mentions: "watching" twice in his letter: once in relation to "disgusting" pants suits; the second time in relation to girls without bras. No one is going to force him to watch them if he is repulsed by them. Most people I have known have the ability to turn their heads and divert or close their eyes when necessary.

How many of these immoral and permissive females does he know personally? Very possibly none, else he would probably find that they are not bad people to know. And I doubt that many of them would be able to seduce him against his will; or would it be against his will? Is that part of his problem?

It is this very "permissive" society which allows him to have and state his own attitudes, without fear of repression or reprisal. It also allows him to wear whatever clothes he wishes and to marry the type of girl who feels the same way about clothes that he does. You see, Mr. Arnold, permissiveness works both ways: we permit you your ideas and "morals" on the understanding that we are allowed ours. How would you like to have our "immorality" imposed upon you?

In conclusion, I believe that the safety of our country has been more endangered by administrations, in various levels, which would force an individual to be a certain way (appearance, dress, etc.) when there is no feasible reason to be that way. This only forces uncompromising reaction to uncompromising administrative doctrine, resulting in great hostility on both sides. When one side refuses compromise, what can the other side do but refuse compromise or be annihilated in its goals?

Besides, wouldn't it be boring to live in a world wherein no one had an opposing thought?

Jas L. Williams

Braless Theory Faulty

To the Editor:

It is apparent that apparel, like white or red roses, is small or large ends of eggs, is becoming politically symbolic. Women wearing bras are confused with advocates of law and order, and women who go braless (such as the Statue of Liberty) are presumed to be advocates of justice.

The whole argument is based on fallacious reasoning since justice may have begun to disappear long before the bra, many law and order advocates go braless (George Wallace, for example) and anyway, if God had wanted women to wear a Playtex uplift, she would have been born that way.

List Singers To Contact ACLU Head

To the Editor:

I would appreciate it if those students who signed up at the American Civil Liberties Union information table at the Union Arcade Tuesday, Sept. 22, would leave their name at my office, 618 Bellamy, sometime this week so they can be sent information on the ACLU.

Unfortunately some member of the FSU community decided to protect the students from themselves and removed the sign-up sheet containing approximately ten names of interested individuals. We would prefer to allow each student to make his own decision united by the censor, and apologize for the inconvenience.

E.L. Levine

apprehension Mr. Arnold's letter of Sept. 24, 1970. There is danger that he will drive the girls to desperation and that they will dispense with clothing altogether.

To explain: The essence of sex appeal is mystery. Liberated female booms under loose sweaters leave plenty of room for the imagination, but if the girls were completely bare on top and the facts, so to speak, were plain for everyone to see, then male eyeballs would return to their sockets and men would lose interest in that portion of the female anatomy (see National Geographic, any issue).

Carried to its conclusion (i.e., female nudity), the process could have grave consequences for the race, which would face extinction through lack of interest. For the sake of humanity, then, let the ladies keep their stretch pants, minis and peek-a-bo dresses. Heaven knows, they need them.

John Arthur

Blind Employment Rises

Dr. Edwin Hartz, professor of social welfare at FSU, kicked off a statewide meeting for the Bureau of Blind Services Thursday in Cocoa Beach.

Speaking at the opening session of the two-day meeting, Dr. Hartz said that figures show that the number of recipients of Aid to the Blind funds is decreasing.

"This is due to the fact that the number of blind people gainfully employed is increasing steadily," Dr. Hartz explained.

Referring to some of the modern methods of rehabilitation of the blind, Dr. Hartz called them "stimulants to hope and realistic faith in a chance for successful adjustment to blindness."

Begin with mobility restoration and fencing, which includes the ability to travel independently with the use of a cane in both rural and urban areas," he told the assembly of professional educators and trainers of the blind.

"Fencing" involves training in sense development, memory response, discrimination and localization of various sound clues and ready wrist motion in the use of the long cane which clears the next step for the walking man.

Suggestions for ways to lead blind people to suitable employment include handwriting with a guide board, housekeeping, imagery stimulation, typewriting, shop, group vocational training and becoming familiar with devices used by sighted people.

Tour Scheduled Of Cape Kennedy Areas

A tour of industrial facilities in the Cape Kennedy area is being sponsored by the Society for the Advancement of Management (SAM), Michael Price, a SAM spokesman, said Sunday.

The group will visit MacDonald-Douglas, Inc., in Titusville, the IBM operation in Cape Canaveral, and NASA facilities at Cape Kennedy.

At Cape Kennedy the group will visit the Vehicle Assembly Building, which has been associated with space launchings.

The IBM operation furnishes complete computer support for the Apollo program.

At MacDonald-Douglas, the group will see the pre-production phase of the Dragon Missile, a portable anti-tank weapon being designed for use in U.S. armed forces.

The tour is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 16 and 17. The group will leave on Thursday afternoon and spend Thursday night in Titusville.

Further plans will be discussed at the SAM meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 222 Bellamy.

Placement Office Offers Services

Recruiters from business, industry, government and educational institutions will gather at the Career Planning and Placement Center this quarter to discuss career opportunities with prospective employees.

Col. Robert M. Shoemaker, director of the center, urges all students to visit the new location of the center in Room 228 of Bryan Hall, to acquaint themselves with the office and the services provided there. Later in the year, there will be opportunity to participate in recruitment for summer employment.

Counselors are available to assist students in exploring their career interests or in developing their career plans. A professional materials library is maintained in the center where anyone may look through the files. The files list current openings in all employment fields and are compiled in a bi-monthly bulletin.

To register with the center, a student must fill out a set of forms which are thereafter duplicated by machine for interviews and for mailing to prospective employers.

This year the Placement Center is having a special manual printed which lists all recruitment visits scheduled for the campus. Supplements to this schedule will be printed periodically.

During the winter quarter several special career placement conferences will be held. At these events hundreds of representatives of higher education, nursing, elementary and secondary education and federal agencies are customarily present. Complete details of the various conferences will be made available early in the second quarter.

Col. Shoemaker said seniors should not wait until their final quarter to participate in the recruitment program because most of the activity takes place during the fall and winter quarters.

Anyone who would like to discuss any aspect of the Placement Center is invited to stop by the offices.

Dance Theatre Group Sets Tryout Date

Tryouts for the Dance Theatre Group will be held Tuesday at 2:30 p.m. in Room 403 Montgomery Gym.

Students with previous dance experience are invited to audition, and dance clothing must be worn at the tryouts.

The Dance Theatre Group, a performing concert troupe of dancers, participates in studio demonstrations, recitals and out-of-town guest appearances. A formal concert, "An Evening of Dance," is presented annually.

There is also frequent opportunity for choreography and performance with the School of Music and Department of Theatre.

"Dancing gives an individual an opportunity to be more sensitive to one's own body," said the dance group's president Julie Langston, a senior in dance. "It gives one the experience of moving through space in different directions."

The purpose of the Dance Theatre Group, Miss Langston said, is to provide opportunity for performance within the choreographic experience.

"Dancing can help people in so many ways," Miss Langston said. "It gives discipline, and a special awareness of one's body. In the Dance Theatre Group, you are given the opportunity to learn to move in technique, and the faculty is always willing to help."

Group dancers are trained in both traditional and contemporary techniques. Performance values and choreographic experiences are designed to encourage experimentation, to foster dance as an act of theatre, and to produce relevant and significant art experience.

Money Meeting Called For Groups

A meeting of treasurers of all organizations receiving student activities funds will be held today at 4 p.m. in Room 240 Union.

A recent Board of Regents directive requiring revised budgets for all groups using funds from student activities fees necessitated today's meeting.

The revised budgets are required since the final appropriated amount for the 1970-71 budget by the Board of Regents does not match the amount in January's computations.

Attendance by organization treasurers is mandatory, said Student Government comptroller Marc Sussman. No money will be released from the budgets of groups not presenting a revised budget in the standard form at the meeting.

Seminoles Stumble On

By Dale Friedley
Sports Editor

If one were to describe Florida State's football team's offensive efforts Saturday night against Wake Forest the only word you could use would be incompetence.

That was the way it went the entire game as FSU stumbled to their second win of the season against one loss, a 19-14 victory over the supposedly outclassed Demon Deacons from Winston-Salem, N.C.

Actually if it hadn't been for the Demons coming up with slippery fingers in the third and fourth periods, the Seminoles might have had a little more restless sleep that night. As it was, they looked bad enough.

Twelve times the FSU offensive machine moved inside the Wake Forest 30 yard line and only once did they cross the goal line. And some of the ways they avoided the little gold stripe on the playing surface made it look as though they were allergic to it.

The only touchdown came after a fine individual effort on the part of hard-charging fullback Tom Bailey who took in a little flat pass from new starting quarterback Frank Whigham and raced over three men to reach the one. On the next play, Art Munroe, who was the Seminoles' leading rusher picking up 73 yards in 16 carries, drove into the endzone.

But on the other 11 "drives" the Seminoles were stymied, once on a fourth down play. Ten times they lined up for field goal attempts by barefoot specialist Frank Fontes who turned out to be the hero of the game.

Fontes ended up kicking the ball eight times and four of them hit the mark perfectly. They were from 39, 25, 47 and 37 yards while the little 5-5 South African missed on efforts of 32, 47, 53 and 30 yards.

PLENTY OF BLOCKING

... but Art Munroe slips and falls this time (Bill Wolf)

One of the attempts never got off the ground because of a bad center snap and another was faked as holder Tommy Warren completed a pass which failed to pick up the first down.

Statistically, the Seminoles were much more impressive than before as they picked up 19 first downs and almost 400 total yards on offense which was evenly distributed through the rushing and passing route: 209 passing and 190 rushing.

But much of this yardage, however, was picked up between the two 40-yard markers and when it came down to picking up the crucial first down inside the 25-yard-line, Whigham's passes always seemed to be off their mark and Bailey and Munroe just couldn't seem to get churning in the backfield.

Very few could complain about the Seminoles' defense, however, as they almost completely dominated the play of the Deacons with the exception of one lapse during the second period.

The Wake Forest barrage of points in the second quarter of action that put them ahead in the contest 14-6 at the half, followed a first period which saw the Demons only pick up four yards total offense and not a first down.

ON HIS WAY

... Paul Magalski takes off on a 47-yard jaunt (Bill Wolf)

Coach Cal Stoll, in his second year as top dog at Wake Forest, said before the game that he was going to pull out all the stops if necessary in hopes of winning the contest and that is just what he did after the first two Deacon efforts, using basic formations and plays, failed to net even a first down.

On the first series of the second period, the Demons came on with the famous Houston Option that had given the Seminoles so much trouble last season against the Houston Cougars. And even with Wake Forest running the attack, a team that was supposed to lose to the Seminoles by at least two touchdowns, the effects were just as devastating.

In only four plays the Deacons, using this wheeling-dealing offense, hit paydirt on a 25-yard jaunt by Larry Hopkins. Then after two exchanges in which the Seminoles picked up a field goal to make it 7-6, Wake Forest exploded again moving 90 yards in only eight plays for its final score of the evening.

But in the second half it was a different story as the Seminole defenders continually harassed the Deacon quarterback and several times made him and his teammates cough up the football. What were the coaches' impressions of the game? Stoll felt sorry for his team, "We fumbled it away," he said. "We played well enough to win. Our kids deserve a better fate than that. It's tough to lose one when you fumble it away."

And Peterson was something less than impressed with his charges as they eaked by the heavy underdogs. "Our offense," he commented, "looked good at times and certainly not good at others. We had more scoring opportunities than you do normally in two games."

"We missed too many blocks," continued Peterson, "It seems we are still two or three inches away on offense. We missed a couple of long passes early in the game. And they were close."

"Now we have two weeks to iron things out for Florida and find the guys who want to play football."

Coach Peterson better find those players quickly because not one of the teams they play the rest of the way through the season is a Wake Forest.

Misner Wins Again

Runners Outlast USF

Florida State opened its 1970 cross country season by picking up a strong 21:36 victory over the University of South Florida Saturday afternoon at the Seminole's new 4.0 mile course located at the University Golf Course.

Ken Misner, the perennial leader of the team, took home first place with a time of 21 minutes and two seconds. The major surprise was from freshman Bobby Brooks who crossed the line in a time of 21:10 and was a serious challenger to the top spot right until the end of the race.

South Florida's Mike Godey was the third place man with a time of 21:15 while the Seminole's Del Ramers finished fourth overall and was seven seconds behind Godey. USF's Coswell Depeize took fifth with a time of 21:28.

Other finishers in order were freshman Mark O'Brien with a time of 21:48, Bob Brost of USF with 22:06, Jack Wise of FSU, 22:17, Danny Clark, FSU, 22:20, and Mike Ogle of South Florida with a time of 23:09.

Coach Dick Roberts felt that it was not a very impressive victory that the Seminole iron men scored Saturday and that it will take a lot of hard work on the part of all before this year's team will really be top-flight.

Roberts described the victory as one in which the team was "not highly motivated" and that the majority of the runners did not "look as good as they should have."

Misner's performance was hampered by an injury suffered in an automobile accident last week in which he suffered a bruised knee. His wife was also injured in the crash.

The next meet on tap for the squad is the Daytona Beach Invitational to be held in that town two weeks from last Saturday. Misner is the defending champion at the race and will lead the Seminole's against some of the toughest competition in the Southeast, including the University of Florida, Tennessee, and Baptist College.

This next weekend is open which will give the Tribe runners plenty of opportunities to get ready for the big upcoming meet.

Plans Set For Travel To FSU-Miami Game

FSU students and alumni can take a train to the FSU-Miami game, James Parrish, head of the Rally Bureau, said yesterday. The trip is being co-sponsored by the Rally Bureau and the Alumni Office.

The Rally Bureau is a new office in Student Government which was formed last spring to develop more FSU spirit.

Parrish said that 50 students who wanted to go were needed if the train trip was to become a reality.

The "Seminole Express," as the train will be called, will leave Doak Campbell Stadium at 5 a.m. Oct. 30 and arrive in Miami at 3 p.m. The express will be equipped with air conditioning, a lounge and a refreshment car.

Cost of the trip is $54. This covers the round trip train fare, reserved seat for the game, and a room reservation in the Playboy Plaza Hotel in Miami Beach.

A pre-game cocktail party and buffet dinner sponsored by the Dade County FSU Alumni Club at the Shriners' Club in Miami has also been scheduled.

The deadline for reservations is Oct. 15. For reservations and more information, contact the Office of Alumni Affairs at 222-2484 or James Parrish in Room 333 Union.

State Schools Review

'Bama Crushes Gators

What was supposed to be a big offensive show turned out to be a big one team show, as Alabama showed Florida, 46-15. Bear Bryant used three quarterbacks, all effectively, to match the Florida passing attack, while the Tide's ground game stole the show.

Big Johnny Musso was the workhorse of the afternoon, gaining 139 yards in 21 carries. In addition he caught two passes for 19 yards. He gained 70 yards on one TD drive in the fourth quarter, carrying the ball six of the seven plays in the drive and scoring on a six-yard sweep.

In all, 'Bama's runners ground out 286 yards rushing, as compared with only 41 yards for the Gator running backs. That total includes 19 yards lost by John Reeves, who was caught three times while trying to pass.

Reeves, harrassed all day, hit on 24 of 44 passes for 238 yards and one touchdown. The big pass receiver for the Gators was running back Mike Rich, who pulled down eight for 69 yards, including the touchdown.

Alabama's quarterbacks almost matched Reeves' effort with a 14 for 21 record for 200 yards. Scott Hunter hit seven of eight for 104, while Neb Hayden went 7 for 13 and 96 yards. Each quarterback hit on one scoring toss.

The Crimson Tide scored six touchdowns and one field goal, a 33-yarder by Richard Cienmy. In addition, the Tide had two TD's called back and missed two field goals, as they completely dominated the entire game.

Once again quarterback Eddie McAshan led the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets to another win, this time over Miami, 31-21.

McAshan's prime target was Brent Cunningham who gathered in 16 and 18 yard passes for touchdowns. Cunningham showed his versatility by also running a 17-yard sprint for another touchdown.

Miami, looking rather impressive at the start, kept the score close with a 7-7 tie by setting up their first seven points on a 75-yard punt return.

Georgia Tech surged ahead in the second quarter, and although Miami sprang back to within three points on long passes by Kelly Cochran and David Teal, they were unable to keep up defensively.

Miami's last scoring came on a Cochran to Joe Schmidt toss in the end zone.

*****

Florida A&M, overpowering the North Carolina A&T Aggies, reigned victorious in a 33-0 clash on their home field.

Steve Scruggs, who was readmitted to FAMU, gave the fans an aerial show as the Rattlers picked up a total of 208 yards in the air and only 31 on the ground. Two scoring passes over the goal line went to Glenn Edwards, as the left-handed Scruggs completed a total of 16 out of 20 attempts.

Hurting the Aggies most were three interceptions and a lost fumble, two of which set up additional opportunities for the Rattlers to score.

Another bright spot on the FAMU team was Joe Jewett, who went three for four on extra points in his first Rattler game.

A&M's defensive line held the opposition, only once letting them sneak beyond the 20-yard line, and stopping them from scoring then by recovering a fumble.

The victory was the first since Pete Griffin became head coach at FAMU.

Paul Orndorff, a sophomore from Brandon, scored two of the Tampa touchdowns, and Bruce Brown scored the other on a big 51-yard romp.

End Of Fighting Near In Jordanian War

By Christians

Blacks Denied Admission

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—A Negro woman and her 11-year-old daughter were rejected Sunday for membership in the all-white First Baptist Church of Birmingham, prompting the resignation of the minister, a staff member, and a massive walkout of the church members from the morning worship service.

The 98-year-old church, meeting in a special conference during the service, voted on a "stanc-up" count to withhold membership from Mrs. Winifred Bryant and her daughter, Twila. Dr. J. Herbert Gilmore Jr., who had been minister of the church for two years, resigned after he declared the blacks had not been accepted and charged the church had expressed a "racist" position.

"I have said before I will not be pastor of a racist church. I meant it," said Gilmore.

Miss Betty Rock, minister of youth activities, also resigned her post. She said she found the church's action inconsistent with Christian principles.

Dr. Bryan Williamson, a local physician, prompted the walkout. He called on church members who favored acceptance of blacks to leave the service after the rejections. Approximately 250 persons left.

There appeared to be about 300 persons left in the church.

The vote appeared to be close, but it would have taken a two-thirds majority for acceptance.

The blacks sought

Possible Violence Cancels Ky Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said Sunday it was the possibility of violence rather than any pressure from the Nixon administration which made him cancel his address at a "March for Victory" rally here Oct. 23.

The administration has been cool towards the scheduled Ky visit and many members of Congress had called on him to cancel the speech on grounds it would further divide Americans on the Vietnam War.

Ky was interviewed in Paris by CBS and the taped interview was televised on "Face the Nation" Sunday.

Asked about reports that the Nixon administration sought to discourage him from making the speech, Ky said, "They were not quite true."

However, he said he had been told that U.S. "peace groups—hippies" had asked permission to demonstrate against the March for Victory, sponsored by fundamentalist radio preacher Carl McIntire, membership in the church, located in the downtown section near a low-rent government housing project, on June 28.

and that he understood "that friction—a fight" could occur."

Furthermore, said Ky, he understood that Washington Mayor Walter Washington was worried that even the Army would be needed to quell disturbances and so, "I said to myself, that it is not a good time and a good occasion" for a Washington visit.

His original purpose in going to Washington, said Ky, was to present facts to the American people and "to appear to say 'thanks' to the American people on behalf of my people, to express our gratitude to the whole American people."

Ky declared he was not "a hawk or a dove." He said he had no intention of associating himself with any U.S. group, or to interfere in the domestic problems of any nation.

Also, Ky said, he was not completely in agreement with McIntire's expressed views that the withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam would be a betrayal of the South Vietnamese people, or with

Arabs Sign Peace Pact...For a Change

By United Press International
King Hussein, Palestinian guerrilla commander Yasser Arafat and other leaders of the Arab world signed a peace agreement in Cairo Sunday to end the civil war in Jordan.

The pact provided for an end to all fighting in the ravaged kingdom and withdrawal of all troops—guerrillas and army—from the Jordanian capital of Amman.

The Middle East News Agency, the semi-official voice of the Egyptian government, said the agreement calls for the release of all prisoners by both sides with security to be maintained under civilian administration.

The city of Irbid, Jordan's second largest, is to return to government control under terms of the agreement. It had been seized by the guerrillas in the first days of the nine-day war.

First shots in the fighting were fired Sept. 17, Hussein and Arafat agreed to a ceasefire last Friday but fighting was reported after that. Dispatches Sunday even as the Arab chiefs met in Cairo told of new fighting in and around Amman.

The agreement came in the international implications of the crisis eased with the release of 38 American hijack hostages the guerrillas had held for 21 days. Thirty-two of them flew home Sunday via Cyprus, telling how they were nearly killed in the crossfire raging around a camp near Amman where they were held.

Some of the Americans said an Arab mob spat at them and screamed insults as they were driven through the streets of Amman.

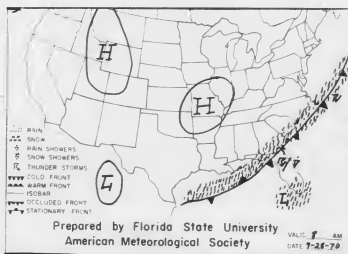

The Cairo agreement was signed in a hotel Sunday by 10 leaders, including Hussein, Arafat and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt after a relatively brief four-day Arab-summit conference.

It began at 1:30 p.m. after Hussein's arrival from Jordan, and the agreement was announced about six hours later.

A preamble to the pact said it was signed "to save Arab bloodshed and safeguard security and safety of the Arab nation against imperialist conspiracies and to bring stability to Jordan which is now facing division and suffering."

Political sources said Hussein dropped his repeated demand that the army should be permitted free use of Amman and other Jordanian cities where the guerrillas must get out of the metropolitan centers.

The Middle East News Agency said the Arab chiefs shook hands after the signing ceremony which marked the first face-to-face confrontation between Hussein and Arafat since the war started.

Scattered showers were spread over an area from the Southeast to the Mid-Atlantic states along an advancing cold front. Cool air covered the Midwest to the rear of the front. The cool air was moving eastward into the New England States southward to the lower Mississippi Valley. Warmer air was returning to the Western half of the nation.

Tropical storm Greta formed Saturday evening in the southern Bahamas. The storm moved generally toward the west-northwest at about 14 m.p.h. and passed through the lower Florida Keys Sunday. A wind gust of 47 m.p.h. was reported at Tavernier but the storm remained weak and small in area as it moved into the Gulf of Mexico. Consult radio or T.V. for the latest Advisories.

As the cold front moves into the Big Bend it will weaken and pull up stationary fronts causing an increase in cloudiness and thunderstorm activity. The high this afternoon will be near 88 and the low tomorrow morning near 69. Tuesday will be mostly cloudy with showers.

Ye Olde Duel

Irish Protestants Storm British Command Post

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Protestant demonstrators stormed a British Army command post Sunday, breaking down the door with a battering ram, but were repulsed by troops with nausea gas.

The invasion followed a night of violence, the worst in weeks, during which a mob of Protestant soccer fans rampaged through Belfast streets, looting shops and hurling bottles and stones after taunting Catholics in a housing project. One man died and at least 75 persons were injured in the rioting.

An Army spokesman said about 50 youths broke into the command post using a timber as a battering ram. He said the troops quickly drove them out and fired nausea gas to repulse other attacks on the building.

The demonstrators then commandeered three buses and used them for street barricades, setting one bus ablaze, the spokesman said.

The battle between about 300 demonstrators and an equal number of troops started about 2:30 p.m. and went on into the night as the soldiers fired nausea gas to keep the crowd at a distance.

The rioting Saturday night was the worse since August. It erupted when a group of Protestant youths returning from a local football match, singing and waving British flags, passed the Roman Catholic Unity Housing Project and began heckling the residents.

Egypt's President Nasser Dead

Uncertainty Looms Over Arab World

CAIRO (UPI)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, the most powerful leader in modern Arab history, died of a heart attack Monday at the age of 52.

His death added a new dimension of uncertainty to one of the most troubled periods in the Middle East of recent times.

Vice President Anwar Sadat announced Nasser's death in a brief broadcast over Cairo Radio in which he said "no words can console us...the only thing is for the Arab nation to remain patient until the victory for which he lived and died is achieved."

Sadat, who immediately became interim president, said Nasser died at 6:15 p.m. at his home three hours after seeing off most of the Arab leaders who attended the Cairo summit conference. It was at that meeting that Nasser was instrumental in working out a peace agreement to end the bloody civil war in Jordan.

Cairo was almost paralyzed by the death announcement which was read on both radio and television. People wept on the street in a state of shock.

The body was moved from Nasser's home in the Cairo suburbs to the Presidential Palace.

Nasser's death could plunge the Middle East into a new crisis. U.S. diplomats considered him a moderate despite his fiery statements against Israel and expressed fears his death would bring radical young army officers to power and with them a new fullscale war against Israel.

Sadat went on the radio later Monday night to report that Nasser suffered the fatal heart attack shortly after returning to his home from the closing ceremonies of the Arab summit conference.

News of Nasser's passing swept quickly through Arab capitals, where portraits of his smiling face look down from many walls. Tall, bulky and graying with the years, he was the idol of the Arab masses.

In the streets of the Lebanese capital of Beirut, women stopped and screamed as they heard the news. "My God! My God!" one 16-year-old boy shrieked. Shopkeepers on Beirut's main street, Rue Hamra, rang down their iron shutters. Many wept.

Within minutes, the sound of rifle shots rang out in Beirut—the traditional sign of mourning in the Arab world.

Radio Cairo stopped all regular programs and read quotations from the Koran. Nasser was being under treatment for diabetes and a circulatory ailment in the Soviet Union earlier this year but his death was a surprise.

Nasser's death came at a time of great division in the Arab world he had tried to unite. Jordan has been torn asunder by a civil war between Palestinian guerrillas and Army troops and it was under Nasser's influence that King Hussein and the guerrilla chief, Yasser Arafat, reached a peace agreement Sunday.

Nine Students Out Protest Brings Suspension

By Brian Dusseault
Staff Writer

Nine FSU students were suspended Monday morning following a demonstration of about 60 students inside Bryan Hall protesting the presence of Marine Corps recruiters on campus.

The suspensions came after the Dean of Disciplinary and Judicial Affairs Gerald Fowler gave students a two minute warning to leave Bryan Hall where they were disrupting the normal functions of the university. More suspensions are expected to follow in the next few days.

The students, who had originally massed outside the second floor recruiting room of the university placement office where the Marines were located, lined the outside walls of Bryan Hall after Fowler gave the two minute warning. One demonstrator was talking with the recruiters at the time of the warning.

All students involved in the demonstration will be subject to suspension, said Mike Beaudoin of the university information services, but only nine had been identified at press time.

Campus security officials were on hand to take video tape pictures of the protestors.

According to the Rights and Responsibilities section of the university regulations, the students are scheduled for an administrative hearing within 48 hours.

At the hearing the suspensions may be lifted, according to the Acting Vice President of Student Affairs Robert Kimmel. An Honor Court will later try the cases.

Three student activists were suspended during the demonstration by Fowler after

Agnew To Replace Commission Report

By Sam Miller
Associate Editor

One's first reaction to the report released Saturday by the Scranton Commission on Campus Unrest is that President Nixon will dismiss it with a wave of the hand and a call to Vice President Agnew.

The commission said the Indochina War and racism—two of the main issues taken up by student protestors—are largely responsible for the turbulence on college campuses.

"Nothing is more important than an end to the war in Indochina," the commission said. "Disaffected students see the war as a symbol of moral crisis in the nation, which, in their eyes, deprives even law of its legitimacy..."

There is the clear implication that by not ending U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War and by seemingly dragging his feet on federal attacks on this country's domestic problems, Nixon must shoulder part of the blame.

Addressing Nixon directly, the commission said he is partially responsible for the turmoil because he has failed to take the lead in reconciling the nation.

"It is imperative that the president bring us together before more lives are lost and more property destroyed and more universities disrupted,"

Many students are asking why, during the trouble in Bryan Hall yesterday, the fire exits from the building were chained so that they could not be used even as an emergency exit from the building.

Doug Daniels, a student who was one of the protesters in front of the Marine Corps recruiting office, said that when they were told that they had two minutes to leave or they would be suspended he went to the first floor and tried to leave the building through a fire exit. "They were chained," Daniels said, "I tried the door at the other end of the building and it was locked too."

William A. Tanner, chief of campus Public Safety and Security, said the doors were "closed just temporarily."

"There were people there at all times to unlock the doors," Tanner said.

Daniels said that there was no one at the doors he tried.

According to Ira S. Valentine Jr., director of housing, whose office is located on the first floor of Bryan, the exits were chained because "They (campus security) were expecting some problems upstairs and we didn't want a bunch of people running

From the Editor's Desk

(Editor's note: The following editorial appeared in the Sept. 23 issue of the St. Petersburg Times.)

Causes of campus unrest are obviously common topics for discussion within the Nixon Administration, and recent remarks indicate substantial agreement that the colleges themselves are to blame.

The President, for the third time in as many months, has urged college administrators to restore "order and discipline" on the nation's campuses.

His vice president denounced this week "disgusting permissive attitudes of people in command of college campuses."

His attorney general has labeled professors as "stupid bastards who are ruining our educational institutions."

And the attorney general's wife, revealing the topic is discussed at home as well as at the office, has charged educators with being "totally responsible for the sins of our children."

(One hopes, however, that Mrs. Mitchell does not echo her husband when she says, "The academic community is responsible for the sins of all of our troubles in this country.")

It is unlikely that such wild assertions will be believed, so it is perhaps a needless exercise to discuss them.

What is remarkable is that the highest councils of the world's most powerful government actually believe such simple versions of such complex national problems.

It was not surprising that such beliefs produced yesterday's request for new federal powers against violence on campus and 1,000 more FBI agents to enforce them.

The true causes of the terrible and senseless violence on college campuses are hidden deep in the secrets of human nature, in the history of a violent nation and in the modern character of a people fascinated by violence.

It is easier to find examples of violence than the real causes. In our country today, few hands are clean—including those of the government in Washington.

Americans remember when, early in the last decade, students holding peaceful freedom rides and civil rights sit-ins in the South were met with tear gas and cattle prods.

Americans recall, as anti-war sentiment began to build later in that decade, when teach-ins and marches were greeted with police dogs and fire hoses.

If memory is shorter, Americans will recall last week, when the President took time away from the Vietnam War to go to Kansas State University and denounce violence as a valid solution to campus problems.

Yesterday also comes to mind. It was then that U.S. troops were put on alert for possible military intervention in the Mideast.

Still, in one sense, the professors may be to blame after all. If colleges are responsible for teaching students to recognize and fight hypocrisy, college professors may indeed be the fathers of violence.

Admittedly, many colleges need to take greater efforts to communicate with their students, to take greater precautions against disruption by the violent minority.

But the notion of colleges as big daddies who simply need to exert more control over their intellectual property is wholly unacceptable.

Letter to Student Mobe

To the Editor:

I would like to address this letter to the Student Mobilization Committee, an organization which has, in the past week, distributed handouts to protest the presence of Marine Corps recruiters on the FSU campus, and has placed signs around the school asking that students protest the "role of the U.S. as a world cop," and that they "Stop the War Machine."

The handouts said something to the effect that the SMC did not object to the recruiters stating their views, but that they could not tolerate the recruiters actually trying to enlist students in the Marine Corps.

To the SMC, let me say that your logic is full of the yawning chasm so typical of activists movements today. If the Marines are not to be allowed to recruit on campus, where there are surely many students interested in joining the Marines, they why should you be allowed to hold your meetings at the Union, or anywhere else for that matter?

If you wish to restrict someone else's freedom, then yours must be similarly restricted. And one step further, if you intend to threaten someone physically, then you must realize that you are likewise threatened. You cannot make yourselves immune from the consequences of your actions.

As far as the War Machine is concerned, I'll tell you that if it wasn't for war, you wouldn't be able to dress like you wanted to, or wear your hair like you wanted to, or do anything else that you wanted to.

Now you may have heard that argument before, but don't believe for one second that it's not true. If you think you are repressed now, because you can't have the run of anywhere you want to go, or do anything you want to do, how would you feel if a Nazi soldier was standing over you with a rifle forcing you to bow down to Adolf Hitler, or if a Russian policeman was coming after you to kill you because you said something against the Party Secretary.

Well, that's the way it would be if America hadn't had the guts to fight in World War II, or if we weren't fighting Communism worldwide right now, and that's the plain and simple truth.

Finally, let me say that I, too, have a complaint about the war in Vietnam. The United States Armed Forces have been trained to conduct war when it becomes necessary. Therefore, I say let the military leaders conduct the wars. If the military leaders were dictating policy in Vietnam instead of the politicians, then we would not be there today, because we would have won that war and been long gone from Southeast Asia many years ago.

I know that nuclear power is responsible for the present situation, but I think it would take a lot more than an American military victory in Vietnam to start a nuclear war. In fact, such a victory would probably make a nuclear war much less likely.

An enemy that has been soundly defeated is much less likely to start another war than one who has signed a peace treaty knowing that he is not going to keep it. The Communists have never been trustworthy and cannot be considered so now Korea is an example of this.

Therefore, if America is to be out of this war for good, then it must win a decisive military victory over North Vietnam, accomplished by any means necessary.

These are my views and I am not ashamed of them.

Proposes Leaflets Ban

To the Editor:

If there is anything which should be banned on our lovely campus, it should be the passing out of leaflets to any and every passerby. I refer to the recent efforts of the SMC to litter our campus with more of their leftist literature, and to adulterate our trees with their macabre posters. Why can't they post their activities in proper places? Why are they not penalized for not doing so?

Regarding the subject matter of banning the United States Marine Corps from recruiting on campus: President Nixon is trying very hard to push through a balking Congress a volunteer service act which will eventually eliminate the draft for all those who have no desire to serve the country which gives them their freedom.

Should the SMC and other leftist groups succeed in their efforts to ban ROTC and other volunteer service organizations, there will be no alternative for the United States Government except to retain the draft system.

I am quite sure that draft boards do not excuse boys who are members of leftist political groups. It seems to me that they are defeating their purpose.

In addition, they are also seeking to take away from us our right to learn about and become a part of our government's efforts to preserve our blessed freedom. Beware, students; lest your freedom be stolen right from under your noses!

Sherman, Kimmel To D.C.

Two FSU representatives are among the campus and national leaders assembled in Washington, D.C. this weekend for the second annual President to Presidents Conference.

Robert B. Kimmel, acting vice president for student affairs at Florida State, and Chuck Sherman, student body president, were invited to participate in the conference, which is sponsored by the Association of Student Governments.

"Alienation, polarization and distrust stalk the campus following the ravages of last spring," said an official Association spokesman. "The time has come to provide a real format for understanding, not another ritualistic exercise dedicated to communication."

The Conference speakers include Daniel Moynihan, counselor to the President, and Walter Hickel, Secretary of the Interior.

The agenda also includes conferences, which will open for discussion, with Melvin Laird, Secretary of Defense, and Dr. Curtis Tarr, Director of Selective Service.

Other outstanding speakers at the meeting, which lasts through Sunday, include Secretary of State William Rogers, Attorney General John Mitchell and Dr. Henry Kissinger, counselor to the President.

Americans Held

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department said today six Americans apparently are still being held hostage by Arab guerrillas in Jordan. It demanded their release.

Spokesman John F. King said the U.S. Embassy in Amman tried to confirm reports that the six had been turned over to the Egyptian Embassy there but was unable to do so.

Asked who appeared to be holding the Americans, he said that was not clear. But he said it appeared to be the Arab guerrillas.

King declined to make public the names of the six remaining hostages. Other officials identified them as a college professor, two rabbis and three U.S. government employees.

Land Use Survey Studies Resources

By Catherine Suttle
Staff Writer

Grants of over $20,000 are making it possible for Florida State to conduct a survey of the land use in Florida. The Department of Transportation (DOT) is the government agency providing the money and Dr. Edward Fernald, associate professor of geography, along with five graduate students, is providing the time and brains.

The study, according to Dr. Fernald, is geared to examining aerial photographs provided by DOT, studying existing maps, and transferring the data to maps which will be used to predict "future traffic generations."

"We believe this survey, which will be used by all the agencies of state government, will bring about a better understanding of all the natural resources of Florida. It is an indication on the part of the road department of an interest in environmental quality," said Dr. Fernald.

Preston Howard, project coordinator, remarked that by working on each county individually, the main sources of industry and trade in each county could be pinpointed. This knowledge will help the road department study its existing facilities, Howard said.

The study team already has mapped 43 counties. The land is subdivided into categories such as residential, commercial, community and recreational.

According to Dr. Fernald, "every state needs this type of study. We feel we are doing something very relevant to our state."

Over the rest of the nation, temperatures have been cool and dry under the influence of an outbreak of cool polar air.

Organizations Required To File Revised Budget

All student organizations receiving student activity fees are now required to file a revised budget by the Florida State Board of Regents, Mark Sussman, Student Government Comptroller, said yesterday.

Sussman made the announcement at a meeting compulsory for all treasurers of student organizations receiving funds, Sussman said that any organization not represented would have its budget frozen until the organization contacted him.

"Every January, each organization submits an initial budget to student government for approval, but rarely gets the amount for which it asks," Sussman said. He added that because no revised budget has been required, the Board of Regents has had no way of knowing the final budget of student organizations.

Sussman pointed out that the revised budget would inform the Board as to how an organization spent the money it actually received as opposed to the money it asked for. This system, he said, has an advantage over the University of Florida's, in which the Student Senate sets the revised budgets for all organizations.

Next Monday was chosen as the deadline for the revised budgets of last year so that Sussman can deliver them to the board members when they attend the Florida game here. Sussman will be available for information in 327 University Union, 599-2975.

Nine Students File For Senate Posts

Nine students filed for seats on the fall quarter Student Senate Monday. Filing for the thirty three Student Senate seats and one National Student Co-ordinator (NSA) position began Monday and will continue until 5 p.m. Oct. 5.

All full-time students with a 2.0 overall academic average are eligible to run for a Student Senate position in their respective departments.

Based on the recent reapportionment of Student Senate seats, the various departments have been allocated the following number of senatorial positions:

Arts and Sciences, engineering, sciences, library science, nine seats; education, five seats; business, three seats; social welfare, two seats; law, one seat; music, one seat; home economics, nursing, one seat; basic studies, freshmen, six seats and sophomores, five seats.

two-minute warning had elapsed.

—Suspended at the demonstration were Jack Lieberman, Bill Boyd and Seth Rose.

Beaudoin did not release the names of the other six students identified by the university at press time. Efforts will continue to identify all the students participating in Monday's protest, he said.

The protesters left the building shortly after the on-the-spot suspension of the three students, and formed a group on the steps on the hall.

At a meeting of the demonstrators later Monday, petitions were passed out to circulate to the dorms which called for a halt to military recruitment on campus.

Vice President Kimmel cited the act as a violation of the Rules and Regulations of FSU, which calls for suspension of any student who is "deliberately impeding or interfering with the rights of others to enter, use or leave any University facility, service or scheduled activity."

The regulations further states a suspension may follow an act which is a "deliberate interference with members of the University community in carrying out their normal functions or duties."

Kimmel said that those students who attended the demonstration, and who may have had their pictures taken, should file for an administrative hearing through his students affairs office.

the panel said. "Only the president has the platform and prestige to urge all Americans, at once, to step back from the battlements into which they are forming."

The commission, then, is ripe for one of Vice President Agnew's verbal attacks. By calling for an end to the war, the panel placed itself in the ranks of Senators Fulbright, Hatfield and McGovern, who have been labeled by Agnew as communist sympathizers or worse.

By seeing as just some of the causes taken up by protesters, the panel placed itself alongside Yale President Kingman Brewster, tagged by Agnew as too permissive, or Sen. Ted Kennedy, labeled by the vice president as a condoner of violence.

And by placing partial blame on Nixon, the panel left itself open for the abuse Agnew has heaped upon other critics of the president such as the American press.

But there are other aspects of the commission's report that should make the panel immune to an Agnew attack. The commission condemned in clear and strong terms violence by anyone—students or police or national guard. The report urged vigorous prosecution of perpetrators of violence.

The commission placed partial blame on university administrations which, it said, because of sympathy for student causes, have often failed to punish illegal acts.

be played down by Agnew or anyone else who seeks to discredit the panel's report.

It was predicted last week, well before the commission's report was released, that Nixon would disregard the report and attempt to discredit it. Of course, his chief vice for discrediting is Vice President Agnew.

But one must hope Nixon, for once, won't resort to debasement, but rather will examine the report intellectually. If the shoe fits, Nixon should wear it. If it doesn't, he should defend himself intellectually.

Such a response would be a step toward the reconciliation for which the Scranton commission so urgently pleaded.

In Exhibition

Floridians To Play Here

Tallahassee will be host to its second pro basketball game of the young season as the Floridians of the American Basketball Association take on the Texas Stars in an exhibition game this Thursday at 8 p.m. in Tully Gym.

The Floridians, making their second appearance in Tully, the first being a regular season clash with the Kentucky Colonels last year, will feature a new look as they strive to improve on their miserable last place finish a year ago.

One of the top new players to join the team is Mack Calvin, a guard from Southern Cal who was traded to the Floridians from Utah. He is said to be one of the fastest men in the ABA and his performance will be essential to the success of the entire team.

In another trade, the Floridians obtained Larry Jones from the Denver Rockets. Jones is the all-time leading scorer in the ABA. Also with the team will be forward Tom Washington, who came to the Floridians from Utah.

Returning veterans include Skip Thoren, the 6-10 center who missed most of last season with a knee injury, and Ron Frantz, a forward who is excellent on the fast break.

Tickets are on sale at the Athletic Ticket Office located in Tully Gym. Reserved seats for adults will be $3 while all student tickets will be $1. Children under 12 years of age who are accompanied by a parent will be admitted free and children by themselves will be admitted for $1.

Tickets will be passed out before the game and 25 lucky youngsters will win free ABA red, white and blue basketballs.

Intrepid Defeats Gretel

By William Verigan

UPI Sports Writer

N E W P O R T . R . I .
(UPI)—Skipper Bill Ficker trapped the last gasps of a dying breeze in Intrepid's sails and breeze off a dramatic comeback by the Australian challenger Gretel II Monday for a one minute, 44-second victory that kept the 119-year-old America's Cup in the United States by a 4-1 margin in the protest-strewn series.

Riding along on the erratic breezes Ficker deliques so much, Intrepid led at every mark but had to fight off a challenge by Gretel in the last two legs that was reminiscent of the American's only loss last Thursday in the best-of-seven series.

The Australians never trailed by more than 51 seconds at any of the first five marks and closed to within 20 seconds of the defender on the fifth leg just before the run home to windward.

Gretel ran into trouble on the final leg when it hit a pocket of still air and had to make an extra tack, robbing it of any chance to win.

Although the Intrepid crew returned to port amid a blare of boathorns and champagne showers, the Aussies had requested again Monday morning that the New York Yacht Club Race Committee overturn its disqualification for a second race bumping incident, and the final flush of victory for America's 21st successful defense of the bottomless mug could not come until the proposal was rejected officially.

The hundred guineas cup has never left the United States since it was first won by the schooner America in 1851, but Gretel's comeback simply concluded the most controversial, closest, and longest series in history.

The 14-day marathon began on Sept. 15 with Intrepid routing Gretel when the Australians lost a man overboard and twisted a sail around the mast, but that was the only lopsided match in the series.

intramurals

There will be a meeting of all Dorm-Independent and Fraternity managers this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in room 346 of the University Union. The format of the meeting will be to discuss the rules of the upcoming flag football season and to make final preparations for the all-campus swimming meet scheduled for Oct. 1-2 at the University Pool.

The group will also have a clinic of flag football which will discuss the rules as well as the upcoming schedule.

The Intramural office also announced that it is still possible to get a team into the football league. So if you missed the organizational meeting and still wish to enter a group, come by the intramural office in Tully Gym and hand in your roster. The deadline for entry, however, is Wednesday because time must be taken to draw up a schedule.

This Saturday is set to be the first games on the schedule and those games will be announced in Friday's Flambeau or you will be able to pick up a schedule for the entire season later this week.

From Women's intramurals comes word that there will be tryouts held for a women's intercollegiate volleyball team on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, Sept. 29 and 30. Practice will begin both nights at 7 p.m. and everyone is welcome to try out.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York State Athletic Commission decided unanimously today to restore Cassius Clay's boxing license.

Clay had been suspended since April of 1967 because of his refusal to accept induction into the armed forces. However, a judge ruled two weeks ago that this wasn't sufficient reason to deny Clay of his means of livelihood.

Florida State football coach Bill Peterson will hold a football clinic tonight in Moore Auditorium at 8 p.m. But unlike other clinics the 11-year coaching veteran has put on in the past, this one will have a unique twist to it.

So if your female and you just don't dig what your date is talking to you about at Seminole football games, take a trek to Moore tonight.

Study Results Presented

Dr. Harris K. Goldstein, professor of social work at FSU, will present the results of two studies on rehabilitation clients at a meeting today of the National Rehabilitation Association in San Diego, Calif. One, a follow-up study on the influence of group therapy with relatives of rehabilitation clients, will be presented in conjunction with a colleague, John P. Galloway of Delgado College in New Orleans, La. Dr. Goldstein's other area of study involves an on-the-job training system for rehabilitation clients.

A series of rating scales were developed at Delgado by Dr. Goldstein when he was teaching in the Tulane University school of social work. He maintains that there should be some other reliable method of evaluating clients other than that based on actual work samples.

He concludes that "though the size of the sample and some findings show that further tests of validity are needed, the scales are considered reliable and valid enough for use by other centers."

At Communications Lab

Campus Problems Discussed

A communications lab will be held this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Room 143 of the Bellamy Building, Cecilia Bonifay, president of the Organizations Advisory Council, said yesterday.

Representatives from all campus organizations, whether recognized officially or not, are urged to attend, she said.

The lab will be divided into morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session will include sessions on group dynamics, student activists and a communications lab.

In the afternoon, problems facing colleges and universities across the nation will be discussed, with an emphasis on the problems as they relate to

FSU. Specific areas which will be covered in the afternoon are athletics, academics and drugs.

Persons interested in attending can register in Room 350 of the Union.

"If this goes off like it should, it will be much easier to discuss things rationally when problems do arise. The success of the lab will depend on how many different ways of thinking can be represented," Miss Bonifay said.

"It won't work if it's all Greek, all Student Government, all radical or all conservative," she added.

Winter Classes Relocated

Due to the scheduled renovation of the Williams Building in January, winter classes of English, speech and humanities will be relocated.

English classes will meet in the Bellamy Building, the Fine Arts Building, the Engineering Science Building and the dining hall.

Classes in speech and humanities will be held in the Diffenbaugh Building.

Dr. Hardin Goodman, chairman of the humanities department, said that only the Diffenbaugh Building afforded the needed three classrooms adjacent to an office. The humanities office files slides, records, films and other audio-visual aids used in humanities classes.

Included in the rejuvenating plans is the repainting of walls and halls, central air conditioning, new lighting fixtures, and a new primary and secondary electrical system.

Standards for the Life Safety Code also require construction of enclosed stairwells, installation of fire alarm systems and installation of emergency lighting systems for fire protection equipment.

The Florida State Counseling Center and the Division of Junior College Affairs is sponsoring a program giving transfer students special counseling hours.

Counselors Ed Jacobs and Rita Crowe of the University Counseling Center have set aside time on Tuesday from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in 316 Bryan Hall to meet with transfer students wanting an opportunity to discuss their problems.

Many of the problems besetting transfers center around the transferring of credits and choice of major and that of adjusting to campus life.

This counseling service is designed to give information to the transfer student concerning both academic and personal problems, and to make transition to FSU life as painless as possible.

La Petite

Corps

The main objective of FSU's La Petite Corps this year will be the completion of nationalization, said Martha Hoag, the "little colonel" of the Corps.

Last year La Petite gained national recognition by being selected the national headquarters of L'Esprit de Corps, ROTC women's auxiliary. L'Esprit is patterned after FSU's La Petites as well as the University of Georgia's Bell Corps and Southern Mississippi's Scotch Guard and is dedicated to service not only to the cadet corps but also to the community.

Activities of La Petite Corps last year included a Valentine party for underprivileged children, a food collection for a needy family at Thanksgiving, Christmas gift parcels to former FSU cadets in Vietnam, and underprivileged children's trip to the FSU circus.

The exhibit is sponsored by the art department and will be shown from 1 to 5 p.m. "The public is invited to view this unique collection of Lakeside Studios, Lakeside, Mich., and to meet Mr. John Wilson, director of Lakeside Studios, who is accompanying the exhibit," says Dr. Gulnar Bosch, chairman of FSU's art dept. "It also includes many prints by younger American and European artists. All prints in the collection are available for purchase," said Wilson. During the academic year, Wilson travels with the collection, giving collectors an opportunity to see and purchase prints they would not usually find in a single collection.

'Open Verdict' On Hendrix

LONDON (UPI)—A coroner's inquest ruled Monday that there was insufficient evidence to determine the exact cause of American rock star Jimi Hendrix's death.

Coroner Gavin Thurston recorded an "open verdict" as to the cause of Hendrix's death in London on Sept. 18. Jeremy Stickells, the rock star's tour manager, told the coroner Hendrix sometimes took sleeping pills and amphetamines, a drug used generally to relieve head colds and hay fever.

"To my knowledge, there are no 'hard' drugs," Stickells said. "We never talked much about drugs, mostly about business."

Pathologist Donald Teare said Hendrix apparently died when he choked on his fluids "due to barbiturate intoxication." Teare said there was no evidence Hendrix was a drug addict.

More Troop Withdrawals

SAIGON (UPI)—The number of U.S. servicemen in South Vietnam declined by 1,400 last week and currently stands at 394,100, the lowest level in more than 3½ years, the U.S. military command said Monday.

Most of those withdrawn last week were Marines, the command said. The number of U.S. Army personnel in the war zone actually increased by 600 to 295,400, but the increase was offset by the withdrawal of 1,300 Marines, 400 Navy personnel and 300 Air Force men.

The latest reduction in force leaves 10,100 more American servicemen to be withdrawn by Oct. 15 in order to meet U.S. President Nixon's timetable for the phase four pullout of 50,000 troops, military sources said.

Students who have already had their pictures taken but not picked up their cards also will have to go to the Media Center on Fridays after today.

Jane Fonda Among MXLF Rally Maybe's

By David McMullen
Staff Writer

Actress Jane Fonda may head an impressive list of national figures who are expected to attend a "revolutionary solidarity rally to support the struggle in the South," Saturday at 2 p.m. at FAMU, according to Raleigh Jugger Jr., chief of staff for the Malcolm X United Liberation Front.

"We think the southern struggle has been separated from the other liberation movements across the country," Jugger said. The purpose of this rally is to help get the South back into the mainstream, he said.

"Jane Fonda called Monday night," Jugger said. "She said she wants to come and help us."

Huey Newton or David Hilliard will lead the list of speakers. "We won't know which one is coming until the last moment," Jugger said.

According to Jugger, whose organization is sponsoring the rally in cooperation with the FAMU Student Government Association, other speakers will include: Brother Omar, Republic of New Africa; Paul Boutelle, Socialist Worker's Party candidate for U.S. Senate; James Turner, director of Black Studies at Cornell University; Afen Shahur, revolutionary poet; Ken Cockrell, League of Revolutionary Black Workers, Detroit; and Joe Waller, Jomo Chapter, St. Petersburg.

11 More Students Axed

The number of students suspended from the university for participating in the demonstration against Marine Corps recruiters Monday in Bryan Hall has risen to 14, Mike Beaudoin, director of information services, said Tuesday night.

Three students—Jack Lieberman, Bill Boyd and Seth Rose—were suspended on the spot by Gerard Fowler, dean of disciplinary and judicial affairs. The other 11 were suspended Tuesday after being identified from films taken by Campus Security during the protest.

Beaudoin refused to give the names of the latest suspensions, saying only that the students were notified by certified mail of their expulsion.

However, the Flambeau learned from Lieberman that the other suspended students are Dell Byers, Edward Archer, James Funk, Robert Hornyak, Bruce Levy, Arthur Williams, Thomas McDaniels, Walter Upton, Judy McElligot, Norman Tun and David Bouffard.

Beaudoin said efforts will continue to identify other students who participated in the demonstration.

By 1 p.m. Tuesday, six students had filed with Robert Kimmel, acting vice president for student affairs, for an administrative hearing.

Under the Rights and Responsibilities section of the university regulations, suspended students who file within 48 hours must be granted the hearing. At the hearing, the suspension may be lifted until the case is tried by the Honor Court.

Police Seek Molester Of Co-ed

Tallahassee police are still searching today for a young Negro male who allegedly raped an FSU coed.

According to police, the girl was walking to her car, parked in a campus parking lot, Monday morning when the young man forced her into the car and made her drive to a wooded area outside of town.

After the alleged rape took place, the man forced the girl to return to town and drop him off on a deserted street, police said.

FSU Suspended Plan Action

By John Snavely
Staff Writer

A rally sparked by the immediate suspension of 14 FSU students for participation in a protest against Marine recruiting on campus Monday drew about 300 students to Landis Green Tuesday at noon.

The purpose of the rally was to decide what course of action will now be taken by the suspended students and those who face suspension when they are identified from a video tape taken during the Bryan Hall demonstration. Bob Gordon, a student government cabinet officer, began the rally by informing all students facing suspension that they must file a written petition with Vice President of Student Affairs, Robert Kimmel, asking him to readmit them to the university pending a hearing on the case.

Gordon said all students who were in any way involved in the demonstration should file a petition with Kimmel. Tom Upton, a participant in Monday's demonstration, gave a brief account of the Bryan Hall episode which resulted in the suspensions. He said the student body must act now if it is going to "end administrative repression". According to Upton, if the students fail to act they will have "absolutely no rights at the university."

During the hour long rally, several persons addressed the crowd on what they felt should be the next step. Some wanted another confrontation with the Marine recruiters. Others advocated petition-signing campaigns aimed at ending military recruiting on campus and getting the suspended students reinstated in the university.

Also mentioned were plans to mobilize a mass demonstration on the day of the trial of the suspended students and to organize Student Government sponsored symposiums concerning military recruiting on campus.

Jack Lieberman, who was suspended Monday, said the group should try to build support among the student body and avoid another confrontation.

"We need a majority of the students on our side," Lieberman said. "It takes a long

Arab World Mourns Nasser's Death

CAIRO (UPI)—The Arab world mourned Gamal Abdel Nasser Tuesday with an outpouring of new hysterical grief in an atmosphere of crisis over the absence of a strong leader to replace him as president of Egypt. His death made Arab-Israeli peace ever more remote.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was one of the first to arrive Tuesday for the funeral, and he wept as he stepped from the plane at Cairo airport at 8 p.m. His arrival followed by a few hours an official Kremlin statement pledging continued Soviet military and economic aid in "this difficult time."

Vice President Anwar El-Sadat became president immediately after Nasser's death of a heart attack Monday but the national assembly will meet by law within the next 60 days to select a permanent successor.

Those in the running besides Sadat are Aly Sabry, the pro-Soviet secretary general of Egypt's only political party, and Mohammed Hassanien Heikal, Nasser's closest advisor and editor of the government newspaper Al-Ahram.

Hundreds of thousands of Egyptian peasants streamed into Cairo all day Tuesday and began a vigil outside the presidential palace where strong police cordons held them back. Radio Cairo broadcast appeals for "self control in the face of this national calamity."

The government announced that Nasser would be buried in Manchiet El-Bakry mosque, the neighborhood temple he sponsored near his home in the Cairo suburbs.

In Beirut, thousands of Arabs marched through the streets of the Lebanese capital waving garlands of flowers and pictures of Nasser. There and here in Cairo the crowds chanted "Nasser is beloved by Allah. Gamal, apple of our eyes, why are you leaving us?" Others shouted: "Nasser! Nasser! With blood and spirit we redeem you!"

Senate Race Draws 36 Candidates

Thirty-six students have filed for seats in the Student Senate, Jim Peebles, SG election commissioner said. Five students have filed for the vacant National Student Association (NSA) Co-ordinator position.

Filing for the thirty-three Senate vacancies and one NSA Co-ordinator position began Monday and will continue until 5 p.m., Oct. 5. The election will be held Oct. 14.

Also up for grabs in the Oct. 14 election are positions for a permanent senior class president, vice president and secretary. The officers will represent the graduating class of 1970-71 in all future alumni events, such as class reunions.

Freshman, sophomore and junior representatives to the student alumni council will also be elected in the election.

All full-time students will have a 2.0 overall academic average are eligible to run for a Student Senate position in their respective departments.

Based on the recent reapportionment of Student Senate seats, the various departments have been allocated the following number of senatorial positions:

Arts and sciences, engineering science, library science, nine seats; education, five seats; business, three seats; social welfare, two seats; law, one seat; music, one seat; home economics, nursing, one seat; basic studies, freshman, six seats and sophomores, five seats.

Environment Group Sets Meeting Tonight

The Environmental Action Group (EAG) will hold its first general meeting of the quarter tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Room 201, Education Building.

Organized last winter, EAG is now officially recognized and funded by the Student Senate. The organization this year is hoping to improve the state of the environment through education, action and research. Through programs featuring films and speakers, EAG hopes to educate the general community to the problems facing the environment.

The group also hopes to sponsor campus and community projects aimed at improving environment, as well as encouraging individual action. EAG will also fight pollution through research into local problems and possible legislative solutions.

The film Overload, which deals with environmental problems, will be shown at tonight's meeting.

Faculty advisors for the group are Dr. R. J. Livingston, Dr. R. C. Harris, and Dr. V. L. Angotti.

Student Wash Out Rate Estimated One Half

By John Worthington
Staff Writer

"If past experience is any indication, more than half of the two million students who are starting college this year will drop out."

The quotation is from a letter sent out to 600 first quarter freshmen and junior transfer students, inviting them to sign up for "Theory and Practice of Learning: How to Survive at FSU", a new course being offered as part of orientation.

The "Survival" course is taught by Professor Frederick Weiss under a Division of Instructional Research grant. The purpose of the course is to reduce the more than 50 per cent drop out rate of college students.

Weiss has had experience developing a similar course at Purdue, and taught "Survival" courses last summer.

"Prior evaluation of similar courses has shown students have done better," said Weiss. The progress of the students who took this course as compared to the students who did not participate in the course will be evaluated by John Nickens, Assistant Registrar. Weiss' ultimate aim is to make the course available to all incoming students.

Weiss' thesis for this course is that education is an action process on the part of the student. "Students who are learning are professionals since there is an art in learning at the university level; they are also professionals in the financial sense because the average college graduate earns $200,000 more in his lifetime than a non-college graduate," he said. "There are four make or break areas for college students: scheduling, reading, listening and taking examinations," Weiss said.

"Students do not fail because of a lack of ability, but because they cannot study, cannot adapt, and cannot apply themselves to the work," he said.

For Israel Blank Check

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House, reflecting its "grave concern" with Russia's growing involvement in the Arab world, approved blank check authority Tuesday for President Nixon to supply Israel with whatever arms it may need, short of nuclear weapons.

Members endorsed a finding that Russia's role in the Middle East represents a "clear and present danger to world peace" and approved cash or credit sales to Israel not only of planes but also of any missiles, tanks, howitzers, armored carriers or other weapons.

"Nothing in this bill authorizes the sending of American personnel to the Middle East," Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., told the House. "Israel says she has no intention of asking such aid. They'll fight their own battle if we supply them the weapons."

On a 341 to 11 roll call, members approved and sent to the Senate a compromise $19.9 billion defense procurement bill including the Middle East policy statement and arms aid provision as drafted by a House-Senate conference committee.

Senate approval is expected later this week.

The bill authorizes annual appropriations for purchase of ships, missiles, planes, and tanks. Actual appropriations are still to come, and Rivers along with the bill's other sponsors appealed for full funding of all its provisions.

Student Party Sets Thursday Convention

The Independent Student Party (ISP) will hold its convention Thursday night to choose candidates for Student Senate and other offices.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in Room 143 Bellamy.

The party has decided to reorganize its structure in order to facilitate the participation of new students, a spokesman for the party said.

The spokesman added that the involvement of new students is particularly important for the continuation of ISP-sponsored programs in Student Government.

Calls Report Permissive Pabulum

Agnew Hits Scranton Commission

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew denounced the Scranton Commission report on campus unrest today as "more pabulum for permissivists."

He said it "falsely accused the President, unrealistically excused student violence and unjustly blamed critics of the campuses for student disorders."

In a speech prepared for a South Dakota Republican luncheon at Sioux Falls, Agnew also condemned Sen. George S. McGovern, D.S.D., as a leader of "radical liberalism—and its chief fundraiser today."

In his latest in a series of GOP campaign speeches, Agnew said the Scranton Commission was "scapegoating" by laying "responsibility for ending student disruptions at the doorstep of the President."

In urging President Nixon to exert moral leadership to calm student unrest, Agnew said the report was "unfair, outrageous and unacceptable," because Nixon had "spoken out in defense of dissent—time and again spoken out in unequivocal condemnation of violence and disorder wherever it occurs."

"The second conclusion of the contrived second report—the one purveyed by press and TV to America—is that somehow, because there is a war going on, and because there are remnants of injustice and racism and poverty in America—there is, therefore, some explanation or justification for antisocial conduct and disorders by disaffected students. This is totally false and utterly unacceptable," Agnew said.

The third conclusion, he said, was that public officials "should be extremely guarded in what they say and what they do—lest their criticism of militant students bring about more antisocial conduct on the campus."

That, said Agnew, was logic in reverse because "it is not those who vigorously condemn student violence and disorder—but those who encourage it or condone it—on whom the burden of guilt has been rightly placed by the American people."

From the Editor's Desk

One issue which came into the campus spotlight shortly before the beginning of fall quarter was the possible dismissal of classes for the November election.

The Board of Regents disapproved such a suggestion and Florida university presidents agreed that holding no classes would probably not result in a higher voter turnout.

The University of Miami government department has come up with an idea which will allow voting age students to become involved in the political processes.

A one credit course, to be entitled Practical Politics, will enable students to gain experience outside the classroom and for once, be able to link academic learning with practical knowledge.

With the amendment for 18 year-old voting coming up on the ballot, it seems proper to break them into the governmental system and encourage their participation.

*****

When will all the trouble on campus cease? It is sad that students are rallying against the academic freedom which they claim they are fighting for.

Students were dismissed from this university for disruption of an administrative office while seeking to prohibit recruiting on campus. On one hand, they say they don't want discrimination—by sex, race or any other distinction. They say they want equal opportunity for all.

And yet in another breath, they want to run off recruiters who have come to talk to students. They are denying students who wish to join the armed forces, possibly as a career, the opportunity to find out about their future.

What would you say if the placement office refused to bring teacher recruiters to FSU? Or did not schedule business interviews? You would say you are being denied the right to find a job. Wouldn't you?

Why Card Section If No Block Seats?

To the Editor:

If at all possible, I would like a clarification of the card section at FSU football games. It was my understanding (and specifically stated in a brochure sent to FSU students prior to the school year) that no block seating would exist. Evidently this is not to be the case as no fewer than 300 people were asked to move (the section had not been roped off) in deference to the card section. I find this practice, quite truthfully, highly inequitable and sincerely feel this is not a "sour grape" attitude.

Not only was there block seating but the people involved had specifically reserved seats. Why should 90 percent of the student body be compelled to stand at least 30 minutes prior to game time in order to assure themselves a seat while others (having paid no more) are permitted to amble in a few minutes prior to game time and expect reserved seats? The only legitimate argument is the need for a card section—a need for what? For a select few to hold up simultaneously pieces of cardboard which eventually, hopefully, will say such profound statements as "Hi," "Go," etc., especially when these games are rarely televised? The entire production was a real joke and the cancellation of the "event" was sadly noted.

Nasser Was US Hope

By Wilbur G. Landrey

UPI Foreign Editor

At his death it was almost forgotten that Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt was once the hope on which the United States intended to base its Arab policy. When he died, he was the first friend of the Soviet Union in the Middle East and had helped make it a power there, challenging the presence of the United States.

In the days after he led a group of young officers who overthrew the corrupt King Farouk in 1952 and in the first days after Nasser emerged as leader of Egypt in his own name in 1954, American diplomats could be heard referring to him affectionately as "Jimmy."

When the late John Foster Dulles visited Cairo in 1953, he was impressed enough to recommend a policy that poured millions in U.S. aid into Nasser's development programs, help him get the British out of the Suez Canal Zone and propose to finance the building of the Aswan high dam on the upper Nile.

Nasser began to turn against the United States after a 1955 Israeli raid on the Gaza Strip in retaliation for Fedayeen raids across the demarcation line. He tried and failed to get arms from the United States. So he got them from Russia, which saw this as its opening into the Middle East and has exploited it brilliantly ever since.

Dulles withdrew the U.S. offer to help with the Aswan dam, and Russia filled the gap.

On the fifth anniversary of his revolution in 1957, I interviewed him in the garden of his house beside the Abbasiya barracks and asked what had caused the deterioration of good relations between Egypt and the United States.

"I think the main reason was Israel," he replied. "Because of Israel, the United States refused to supply Egypt with arms."

It was the 1967 war and Egypt's humiliating defeat, its third, in six days by the Israeli armed forces that led Nasser even further into Russia's debt. The Soviet Union rushed in massive quantities of arms to replace those Nasser's miscalculation cost in defeat. Yet Nasser always maintained that he kept his independence.

UPI correspondent Ray Moseley, who headed the UPI bureau in Cairo from 1964 until 1966, remembers that Nasser got along well with John F. Kennedy.

During the Cuban missile crisis, Nasser sent a message to Kennedy. Moseley was told by an informed American who said that he saw it. The informant reported the message said, in effect: "Don't back down. The Russians are bluffers."

NCAA Should Change

Scholarships For Needy

To the Editor:

I have a solution for the current controversy about athletics. I suggest that the National Collegiate Athletic Association prohibit any athletic "scholarships" except those based on need.

To qualify for an academic scholarship, a student must show his need for financial aid as well as his academic potential. I doubt that a student with a 4.0 average in high school and a 495 on the Florida 12th grade test, or 1600 on the SAT, would get a scholarship to FSU to cover full tuition, room, board, books, and some spending money. Yet, this is what some athletes receive.

A student presumably comes to FSU to receive an education to prepare him for work.

A student who majors in a business field is not paid to prepare for his future career. Why should a football player, or any athlete, for that matter, be paid to play football?

How much more exciting would a Seminole football game be if the spectators knew that the players were playing for FSU, not because they would lose their "scholarship" if they didn't.

G. K. Bullock

We feel it is unfair to stereotype athletes as stereotyped and we hope that the university community does not have this impression.

Action Line

Q. Will there be enough seats for students holding season and spouse tickets at the Florida game? Name withheld

A. Yes. Only the capacity amount of tickets will be sold, and there will be certain sections of the student side mapped out for all season ticket holders. The sections will be announced within the next week.

Democrat Hypocrisy

(Editor's note: The following is a letter to the editor of the Tallahassee Democrat. A copy of the letter was submitted to the Flambeau.)

To the Editor:
For some time I have observed—and remained silent about—the blatant hypocrisy exhibited in the news columns and primarily on the editorial pages of The Democrat.

After reading Sunday's editorial and your endorsement of candidates for statewide office, I feel compelled to bring your attention to what is the most irresponsible editorial I have ever read in any newspaper in the state of Florida—including the FSU Flambeau. I can never understand how a newspaper which is so quick to point to the dangers of communism, creeping socialism, liberalism and all those atrocious evils which threaten our democracy, can recommend, in good conscience, that Republican voters in this state sit home during a Primary election.

Logically extended, what you advocate is a one-party system. I suggest to you, sir, that the time is far past when editorial barons can set themselves up as enlightened gods and say to the people that there is only one party offering a candidate qualified for public office. I believe, as I think most Americans do, that a healthy two-party system is important to our Democratic form of government.

Floridians have demonstrated through national elections that they are a conservative lot—that they prefer the conservative politics of the National Republican Party. They have demonstrated in Congressional and U.S. Senate elections that they like the idea of a two-party system. They have demonstrated their abilities to make wise choices in nominating and electing their public representatives. The best way for us to maintain a viable, two-party system is through hotly contested primaries. Fortunately, that's what Republicans in Florida have had this year.

Your asinine suggestion (perhaps it was made in jest?) that Republican voters stay home during the primaries appalls me. Republicans did have a choice of the type candidate they consider best qualified to lead Florida during the next four years. Your inability to recognize this fact says much for your editorial policy in the first place. You said you can't say Kirk and can't see Eckerd. Saying Kirk isn't difficult. Just open your mouth and try to keep your foot out. To see Eckerd you need only to lift your head out of the Tallahassee slay.

You say you know nothing about Mr. Eckerd's positions on vital issues of the day. I would suggest that had you been sincerely concerned and had sincerely desired to inform the public, you would have asked Mr. Eckerd what his positions are. You have had several opportunities to do so during times when he held Capital Press Conferences and visited Tallahassee. Instead, you base your verdict on one short editorial interview very early in the campaign. You could have obtained the facts about Jack Eckerd if you had simply read any of the 22 newspapers in the state that endorsed him, including the highly respected paper of your parent chain, The Miami Herald. But then, the Miami Herald did something for its readers that The Democrat has consistently failed to do for the residents of the Big Bend area—they dared to ask the questions; they dared to send their own reporters on the campaign trail. They did not sit on their hands behind the thick wooden doors of their editorial offices and unquestionably accept every public relations release spoon-fed to them by a candidate.

Your ostrich-like attitude has long permeated the editorial pages of The Democrat. I think that the very un-American alternative to exercising their Constitutional rights that you offered Republicans of this area points out to Big Bend residents that the same irresponsible judgement that went into your endorsements goes into every editorial that The Democrat prints. Sir, I think many Tallahasseans will agree with me that there isn't enough salt in the world to make a steady diet of the hypocrisy that flows from your "tripewriter" palatable!

Females Flagrant

To the Editor:
I, as Sydney, have also found the flagrant, abusive, and too often volatile spewings of female carnage on campus both morally and physically obnoxious. I do not, however, feel that a dress code alone will save the swelling stench of decay which is spewing from the once sealed sanctums of FSU's womanhood.

I would suggest, instead, that an eighth station be set up at registration wherein a vivisection by a licensed minister of the word could be performed on all entering women. All offensive organs would be removed and this coupled with a mastectomy would leave a most divinely angelic coed, comparable only to my beloved Barbie doll. All this in keeping with the high level of efficiency in registration would require but a few hours.

I hope that Sydney and others will concur with my plan, which overcomes the

Shame on FSU!

To the Editor:
As a new student at FSU, I was somewhat surprised at the "sportsmanship" exhibited toward the Wake Forest football team at Saturday's game. Numerous times, our cheerleaders purposefully timed the fan response to interfere with opposition offensive signal calls. It certainly bespeaks a lack of confidence in our team's athletic ability when immature tactics such as this must be employed to win a game.

The more disgusting conduct, however, was the cheer, "Go to hell, Deacons!" in addition to being bush league, it was rude, vulgar and abusive. It surely was degrading to the Florida State University community. We should be thoroughly ashamed of treating our guests in such a shoddy manner.

Perhaps a personal apology to the Wake Forest team from the cheerleaders in the name of the fans and the university is in order. James Zimmerman Tonight's feature on the Cinema Art Series is Targets, the directorial debut of critic Peter Bogdanovich and the last film Boris Karloff starred in before his death. Showings are at 6:30 and 8:45 p.m. at Moore Auditorium.

Admission is 50 cents.

In Targets, Bogdanovich counterpoints two stories: one about an aging horror movie

On the same program is the Academy Award-winning short, An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge, based on a story by Ambrose Bierce.

Half Million Predicted

Victory Rally Still Popular

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Dr. Carl McIntire predicted Tuesday that his march for victory in Vietnam rally Saturday still would attract a half million persons although South Vietnam Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky will not participate.

McIntire told a news conference, however, that "it is not beyond the realm of possibility that Mr. Ky will ... yet come to the rally. He has his speech in hand."

The fundamentalist radio preacher from Collingswood, N.J., who said he met with Ky in Paris Monday for more than an hour, said Ky "yielded to the wishes of his own government" in cancelling his scheduled speech at McIntire's rally.

Ky announced cancellation of the speaking engagement after a meeting with Henry A.

Kissinger, the White House foreign affairs adviser, who flew to Paris Friday.

In a television interview on the CBS program "Face the Nation"—broadcast in the United States Sunday, Ky said he changed his mind about speaking at the rally because he feared a fight might break out between McIntire's supporters and counter-demonstrators.

Public Relations Counselor to Speak

Hendrix Chandler, a prominent public relations counselor in the Southeast, will speak at the first meeting of the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA) Thursday evening in Room 62 Bellamy.

Chandler, a graduate of the University of Missouri's School of Journalism, has worked for Associated Press and was for a time head of Florida's Capital Press. He is presently corporate secretary and director of public relations for the Florida Board of Regents.

Paul Uga, president of PRSSA, said that the meeting is designed to promote a better understanding of public relations at FSU. He added that all students wishing to attend any PRSSA meetings or events are welcome.

Electoral Debate Killed In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate refused to halt Southern-led debate today and left probably dead for this year a proposed constitutional amendment to provide direct popular election of the President.

The vote was 53 to 34 in favor of shutting off debate—five votes short of the two-thirds majority necessary of those voting.

The second consecutive defeat for supporters of the amendment was dealt by Dixie Democrats and small-state Republicans who combined to reject a motion for cloture, a gag on debate.

A large number of absentees contributed to the outcome today.

The amendment which the House of Representative overwhelmingly approved last year on a 339-70 vote appeared stalled for good until next year.

Southerners and some Republicans from smaller states have been fighting the proposal since Sept. 8. While not a filibuster in the classic sense, the effort had the same effect—no vote on the proposal.

The proposed amendment, already adopted 339 to 70 by the House, would abolish electoral voting. The candidate receiving the most popular votes nationwide would be the winner, if he gets at least 40 percent of the total vote. If no candidate got that percentage, a runoff election between the top two would decide the winner.

UF Professor Fired

GAINESVILLE (UPI)—Controversial Robert Canney said today he had been fired from his job as a teaching associate at the University of Florida. The university declined immediate comment.

Canney, who is working toward his doctorate degree, was convicted last week in Clearwater of resisting arrest with violence at a political rally in St. Petersburg last spring. He was sentenced to six months to two years in jail and is free on $2,500 appeal bond.

Canney said he was called into the office of Dean Bert Sharp of the College of Education and was told he had been relieved of his teaching duties, effective immediately.

Defense Funds Support Campus Research Projects

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's universities, attacked by antiwar demonstrators for their involvement in defense research, derive an average of 85 percent of their total research budgets from the federal government, a study showed today.

Government To Head Off Fuel Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced Tuesday it would seek to head off a winter fuel crisis threatening wide areas of the country by allowing more natural gas and oil to be imported from Canada and other Western Hemisphere nations.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) reported to Congress such federal aid makes up about 21 percent of the total operating revenues of American colleges and universities.

The GAO said its figures came from an overall review of government aid programs. To give the lawmakers an example, the congressional auditors presented a profile of the huge University of Michigan.

At that school, the GAO said, the bulk of the government money came almost equally from the departments of Defense and Health, Education and Welfare.

The rest of the funds were supplied by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Science Foundation and the Atomic Energy Commission.

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest, in its report released last weekend, defended defense contracts with colleges as a valuable source of revenue; but it said schools should avoid acceptance of contracts involving classified work because such material is not academically productive.

Floridians Have New Look

The Floridians secured the American Basketball Association's career leading scorer June 18 when they sent guard Larry Cannon, forward Don Sidle and No. 1 draft choice to Denver, for Larry Jones, forward Greg Wittman and a No. 2 draft pick.

The Floridians then found two new teammates for the 6-3 Jones by dealing that No. 2 draft pick from Denver to Utah along with Donnie Freeman for guard Mack Calvin and forward Tom Washington.

To most basketball observers, the trades transformed the Floridians from the worst team in basketball (23 victories last season) to a contender this season.

Reason for such sudden optimism is not just new talent that can run and play aggressive defense, but the presence of Jones, the only player to be first-team all-ABA for three straight years.

Jones not only scores, but he plays baseline-to-baseline defense, handles the ball expertly and can find the open player.

He averaged 23, 28 and 25 points in his three years with the Rockets to total 5,745 points. That's a career record, as is his number of field goals (1,913) and his number of free throws (1,700). He led the league in scoring two seasons ago when he totaled 2,133 points.

Last year he was bothered by an injured ankle, he didn't miss much, but played at less than full strength for the final third of the season. He still finished sixth in the league in scoring, and fourth in the league in assists.

Other Jones highlights: he set an ABA record in 1968-69 by scoring 30 or more points in 23 consecutive games, has a career two-point field goal shooting percentage of .458, career free throws percentage of .782 and was the ABA's first player to score more than 2,000 points in a season.

Jones will be 28 in July. He played collegiately at the University of Toledo and averaged 18 points a game for the varsity in his freshman year. He finished his four-year career averaging 20.9 PPG.

He's a native of Columbus, Ohio.

Of all the players on the squad, the only one remaining from the original franchise which was formed four years ago is Skip Thoren. Thoren was injured for most of the season last year and his return to full-time duty will certainly be a welcome sight on the Floridian court.

Ron Franz is the other outside addition to the Miami based team. Franz, who comes from Kansas University was traded to the Floridians from the New Orleans Bucs over the off-season.

Mack Calvin is a second year man from Southern Cal who has been described as one of the fastest men to ever hit basketball.

Washington, the other man in the Freeman deal, played his college ball at Cheney State and is going into his fourth year as a pro. He is an excellent scorer and is tough on the offensive boards.

All of these players will be coming to Tallahassee this

Karate Club Seeks Official Recognition

By John Cunningham
Assistant Sports Editor

This year Florida State's Karate Club hopes to engage in its first intercollegiate competition. In past years the Karate Club here at FSU has not been strong enough to compete with area schools in this sport.

The club is affiliated with the Japan Karate Association whose representative for Florida is Mr. Masaki Ueki, a fifth degree black belt, who visits the being held at 4:30 and the advanced class at 5:30.

Karate is an Oriental martial art used for self defense, exercise and sport. It is a physical art and an active meditation. Karate, because it is based on self discipline, aids the individual in other pursuits, such as academic achievement, that also requires self discipline.

The two year old club will engage in its first competition when it sends some members to an all Florida tournament

Presently there are about 50 members in the club and last year's president Doug Jones would like approximately 30 new members. The club is accepting new members throughout the next two weeks but after this period new members will not be accepted as readily. Practices are held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday with beginners classes

November 1 in Fort Lauderdale. As soon as the club is recognized, which should be this year, they will schedule meets with the University of Miami, Florida Atlantic University, and the University of South Florida which have similar Karate programs. Once recognized the club will also ask for a budget from the university.

Blackwelder

Freshmen Get New Coach

TALLAHASSEE—Florida State's freshman football team will open a new season with a new coach, Oct. 3, at Campbell record in his five years as head man.

The new mentor has a philosophy which keeps right in line with the high flying offensive format developed at Florida State under Head Coach Bill Peterson.

"I like an exciting offense," Blackwelder says. "I like to feel that we can pass on any down at any part of the field. Of course, you have to adapt your style to your material, and we're fortunate enough to have the manpower on this year's freshman team."

Blackwelder has sent over a dozen boys to college ball from Edgewater, including three very prominent on Tribe opponent rosters.

Bruce Southall, sophomore running back, scored the first two touchdowns for Georgia Tech against the Seminoles and is Tech's leading rusher.

Senior linebacker, Mike Kelley, is the captain of Florida's defensive unit.

Joe Schmidt, a wide receiver, is a candidate for all-star honors at Miami.

However, Blackwelder

probably has his most promising pupil with him. Florida State in high school All-American quarterback Frank Geisler.

Born in Gainesville, Blackwelder played high school ball at Apopka and college ball at Northeast Louisiana, where he lettered as a running and defensive back.

He is married and he and his wife Patty have three children.

The Tarpon Club will hold tryouts again this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. in the Montgomery Gym pool. Winners will be chosen on the basis of skill and potential to develop. Official initiation into the club will be in February.

Today is the final day to tryout for the women's intercollegiate volleyball team with practice being held this evening at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome to come and give it a go.

Minnesota also remained undefeated, this week beating New Orleans 26-0. The Vikings had two touchdowns on field punts, and Fred Cotter had four field goals. The first Minnesota score was when Karl Kasulke and a Julian Fagan punt to the end zone, where Ed

Shrockman fell on the loose ball. Cox then placed 12 points on the scoreboard with kicks of 22, 14, 15, and 47 yards. The final Viking tally came when Steve Smith blocked another Fagan punt. Mike McGill picked up the loose ball on the four and ran it in for the score.

Two interceptions and a fumble recovery paved the way for a 34-31 victory for the San Francisco Forty Niners. The victory was the second for the

John Brodie hit on 20 of 31 passes, including three scoring tosses, to give San Francisco the victory. One to Jimmy Thomas was set up on an interception by Dave Wilcox at the Forty Niner 36. Another, again to Thomas, came after Roland Lakes recovered a fumble at the Cleveland 15.

Another interception netted the Forty-Niners a touchdown, as Mel Phillips intercepted a Nelsen pass and returned it 35 yards for the score.

Two interceptions and a fumble recovery, all in the third quarter by rookie Cliff Harris, set up two Dallas touchdowns in the Cowboy's 28-10 victory over the New York Giants. A 60-yard runback of an interception led to Calvin Hill's 3-yard scoring plunge, and the fumble recovery at the New York 29 set up an 18 yard romp by Walt Garrison.

Hill, the NFL's leading rusher with 115 yards last week, picked up 60 more in 16 carries Sunday.

An 89-yard touchdown bomb from Don Horn to Carroll Dale late in the fourth quarter brought the Green Bay Packers from behind to defeat the Atlanta Falcons, 27-24. Bob Berry, Atlanta quarterback, hit 28 of 44 passes for 272 yards, as the Falcons led in every statistical department, but three interceptions and two fumbles were the Falcon's downfall.

COLLEGE LEADERS Peterson Big Success

By Ginger Augenstein

Sports Writer

Last night, head football coach Bill Peterson again performed coaching duties. This time it was coaching interested girls in Moore Auditorium on the game of football.

Houston options and bootlegging, things got rather sticky.

However, Coach Peterson's patience with the girls was probably more than he'd ever have with his football team.

One of the most helpful areas covered was the referee's signals. "You see a lot of these at Florida State," said Coach Peterson as he demonstrated the incompleting pass signal.

The biggest disappointment among the girls was that Coach Peterson didn't bring along some live models for visual aids. When asked about FSU's football team this year, Peterson commented, "The defenses are getting so refined these days, it takes a new quarterback time to adjust."

... puts on show

Trying to explain the basics of football to the girls, Coach Peterson found, wasn't much easier than trying to get his own football team to achieve a respectable victory.

However, once the ball got rolling, the apparent weak spots became evident in the questioning.

"What is a monsterman?" one girl asked.

"How many yards penalty for illegal procedure? Is there a book written for people like us?" quipped another.

Understanding the basic positions as tackle, tight-end and XYZ men came easy. But when it came to I-formations,

"10 HAPPY CUSTOMERS" A Very Short Story

Once upon a time there were these 10 people who had had it with housing. The big mansion overlooking the golf course was tied to an out-of-sight mortgage, and anyway, you had to spend too much for furniture. An apartment? Come on, anybody knows that rent receipts are not tax deductible. Besides the rent is usually to the moon and back, especially for families. So, right at the breaking point, these 10 people went over the hill... over the hill to Big Bend Mobile Homes that is...

Ga. Fight For Clay

ATLANTA (UPI)—Georgia Attorney General Arthur M. Maxson Tuesday rebuffed Gov. Jimmy Carter's offer to find no way to halt the proposed Oct. 26 bout between Cassius Clay and Jerry Holton.

Maxson said there is no legal basis for Madox to stop the fight. He said he also failed to find any state law which prohibits an individual with a criminal record from participating in a sports event. Clay has under appeal a conviction for refusing to register for the draft for religious reasons.

Maxson was ordered to seek a writ of habeas corpus to halt the fight after Madox reversed himself and said he would oppose it. Maxson, Madox had said he would not oppose the bout in Atlanta's City Auditorium.

Chiles Tickled, Footsore

MIAMI (UPI)—Lanky Lawton Chiles, a folksy lawyer from the heart of Florida's citrus and phosphate country, scored an upset victory over former Gov. Farris Bryant for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

"I'm kind of numb," said Chiles at his Lakeland headquarters as incomplete returns showed him collecting more than 60 percent of the vote.

"I knew when I saw the Hillsborough figures I was home free."

"I'm just so tickled, I don't know what to do."

Chiles still wore the walking boots which carried him on a 1,003-mile publicity-seeking hike from the Florida panhandle to the Keys and the khaki pants and blue shirt which have become his uniform.

"I intend to continue taking the campaign to the people," he said.

He meets Republican nominee William C. Cramer in the Nov. 3 general election.

An air of shock hung over the headquarters of Bryant, who served high posts in the Johnson administration after vacating the governor's mansion in Tallahassee.

Bryant was trailing in his home county of Duval, as well as the vote-heavy areas of Hillsborough and Pinellas. In mammoth Dade County he was losing four to one.

Bryant conceded at 8:40 p.m. after talking with Chiles long distance.

"I congratulated him on a fine race," Bryant said. "It was an honorable, imaginative campaign carried out with great determination. I offered him my support in the general election and I look forward to helping make him the next United States senator."

time to get recruiters off campus and it is not going to help by going over to Bryan Hall to inflate our egos."

Lieberman said he had heard from the regional headquarters of the Student Mobilization Committee (SMC) and they were planning to coordinate and anti-suspension petition signing campaign on several of Florida's university campuses.

Lieberman also said a committee was being formed to go to Tampa this weekend to plan action concerning the suspensions.

Related action scheduled for today include a meeting of a committee on military involvement at 4 p.m. on Landis Green and rally behind Moore Auditorium at 7 p.m. to discuss and seek funds for the defense of the suspended students.

Kirk Stays Alive; Now There's Demo Askew

MIAMI (UPI)—Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr., whose surprise endorsement of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for President in 1966 landed him in hot water with conservative Republicans, kept alive his bid for a second term Tuesday by trouncing political novice Jack Eckerd.

And in the political stunner of the runoff primary, State

Sen. Reubin Askew of Pensacola grabbed the Democratic gubernatorial nomination from veteran state Atty. General Earl Faircloth.

With 1,881 of 2,757 precincts counted, Kirk had 155,014 votes to 117,615 for Eckerd.

With 1,623 precincts in, Askew had 257,653 and Faircloth had 197,698 votes.

In building up a smash lead over Eckerd, a Clearwater drugstore tycoon who gambled $1 million of his own on his first venture into politics, Kirk became the first incumbent governor of Florida to win a primary runoff.

Eckerd charged that Kirk damaged Florida's "Republicanism" by failing to support President Nixon in 1966.

Kirk had a seven to one vote lead in Orange County, and better than two to one in GOP strongholds as Volusia and Brevard. He also led in Duval and Duval counties.

Shevin Defeats Friday

Prepared by Florida State University
American Meteorological Society

By Dennis Elliott

Flambeau Meteorologist

Fair early fall weather prevails over nearly all the nation. The heat wave along the Pacific Coast is moderating as ocean breezes become more predominant. In the Southeast, the cool front which passed through Tallahassee has become stationary over southern Florida, resulting in showers over that area. Frost is likely as far south as northern Georgia for this morning.

For Tallahassee, fair and mild weather should continue for several days, with the winds moderating slightly. High today will be in the low 80's and the low tomorrow morning in the mid 50's.

Tally's Wright Loses

MIAMI (UPI)—In the Democratic runoff primary for the Public Service Commission, State Rep. William H. "Bev" Bevis of Fort Meade defeated Tallahassee attorney William Wright 287,236 to 229,500 with 88 percent of the precincts counted.

Bevis campaigned as "the people's choice," pointing out he carried 58 of the state's 67 counties in the first primary and led Wright by some 56,000 votes.

The winner faces Republican State Rep. David L. Lindsey of Orlando in the general election.
